The West is Hell-Bent on Provoking Russia Into Hot War

by: Pepe Escobar May 30, 2024
SputnikGlobe.com

The warning by President Putin could not be starker: "In the event of the use of long-range weapons, the Russian Armed Forces will again have to make decisions about expanding the sanitary zone further (...) Do they want global conflict? It seemed they wanted to negotiate [with us], but we don't see much desire to do this."

Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov then came up with the appropriate metaphor to designate NATO's ramped-up military outbursts: not only is NATO raising the degree of escalation but delving into a warlike "ecstasy".

It does not get more serious than that. "They", as Putin alluded to, do seem to want "global conflict". That's at the heart of NATO's new suicidal "ecstasy" strategy.

For all their circumlocutions, NATO Secretary Jens Stoltenberg, French President Emmanuel Macron, and German Chancellor Olaf Scholz have effectively greenlighted Kiev using Western weapons for attacks deep inside the Russian Federation. The still ongoing alleged debate is just a "smoke-screen" for the real objective: a pretext that could lead to WWII.

There's no reason to think Kiev will stick to "limited" strikes against relatively unimportant targets. Instead, it is likely to target critical security infrastructure in hopes of provoking an unrelenting Russian response, which in turn would pave the way for NATO to invoke Article 5 and de facto engage in a Hot War.

Already on the Edge of Doom

The escalation "ecstasy" defined by Peskov went out of control since a secret new batch of Army Tactical Missile Systems (ATACMS) was dispatched to Kiev earlier this year, complemented with longer-range ATACMS. Kiev has been using them for serious hits on Russian air bases and key air defense nodes. These ATACMS fire missiles at Mach 3 speed: a serious challenge even for the best Russian air defense systems.

All that seems to point to a crucial decision enveloped in several layers of fog: as the incoming, cosmic NATO humiliation in the black soil of Novorossiia becomes self-evident day after day, the Western elites who really run the show are betting on provoking a full Hot War against Russia.

Richard H. Black, a former US senator from Virginia, offers a sobering analysis: "This is a continuation of the pattern in which the NATO forces recognize they are losing the war in Ukraine, with the fragile lines of defense breaking, and the NATO response is to escalate. This is not accidental, but very deliberate. It is not the first attack on the Russian nuclear triad. The ideological folks are seeing their world crumbling. After flying the rainbow flag over conservative countries and waging perpetual wars. They are frantic and could escalate to nuclear war to get out of the bind. They are taking a series of baby steps, and respond that 'they don't do anything in response,' and so they keep taking baby steps until one of them lands on a land mine and we are into World War III. (...) Putin is very aware of the disconnect in the West who keep saying he is just saber rattling, but he is not — he is informing the West of the dangerous reality."

In Russia, Senator Dmitry Rogozin, a former head of Roscosmos, directly warned Washington: "We are not just on the threshold, but already on the edge, beyond which, if the enemy is not stopped in such actions, an irreversible collapse of the strategic security of the nuclear powers will begin."

General Evgeny Buzhinsky advanced an ominous scenario: "I am sure that if the strikes of Taurus of ATACMS are very harmful for Russia, then I presume we will at least strike the logistical hub in the territory of Poland in Rzeszów," where the missiles are staged for delivery to Ukraine.

The connection in this case would be irreversible: Russia hits Poland; NATO invokes Article 5; WW3.

Well folks, summer is officially here, it's getting HOT. We have had lower than average temperatures thus far, let's pray the temps stay lower than normal all summer. Remember to stay hydrated with plenty of water, salt and electrolytes. There is always a cooling station open in Quartzsite on the hotter days so take advantage of that.

Everytime we think things can't get any crazier, it does. While we are distracted by Orange Man BAD show trials, we are on the brink of physical war with Russia and for the life of me, I cannot figure out why anyone would continually poke a bear. Eventually the bear strikes back and that is not usually favorable to he who is poking.

Our corrupt 'selected' officials (sociopaths) continue to spend money funding endless wars because it's profitable for a few. The backs of the middle class are wearing down and it is time to come together as a people and stand up to the tyrannical few.

Division is our greatest downfall. United as a people is the sociopaths greatest threat. We must accept that we are in serious threat of losing our Constitutional Republic, if that happens the World will fall into totalitarianism. The weaponization of our judicial system is now being used to eliminate political opponents and not just reserved for eliminating all who speak out against the corrupt establishment: the 1300+ J6ers, Alex Jones, Mike Lindell, Julian Essange, etc. etc. We know a little about keeping people off the ballot here in Quartzsite, don't we?

I completely agree with Laura Loomer, the death penalty should be applied to all (on both sides of the aisle) who committed treason and crimes against humanity, Dr Fauci, et al.

I communicated with Jake Lang (J6 political prisoner) recently. He has a new video out (watch it on our website, TFPnews.com) called Time. He poses the question what have you done with your time since Jan. 16th, 2021 (the day he was arrested)? He has spent more than 1300 days in prison. Approximately 800 of those days in solitary confinement, which is a war crime according to the Geneva Convention. More "Rules for thee not for me". It is a beautiful, short video. Watch it. Share it. We MUST get them out of there and begin to punish those several opportunities to hear from all of the candidates. Republicans, Democrats, Independents and RHINOs will all be invited to share their platform. June 21st, July 12th and 26th. See the flier in the events section and begin submitting your questions for the candidates.

WWIII Dreaming? Macron Again Says NATO Troops Could Be Sent to Ukraine

by: Selwyn Duke May 3, 2024
TheNewAmerican.com

The USSR sent 200,000 troops into Hungary in 1956, and the same number into Czechoslovakia in 1968, to crush freedom-oriented movements. In neither case did we consider (even for a moment) dispatching NATO forces to those beleaguered nations to directly confront the Soviets.

Likewise, President Ronald Reagan was a staunch cold warrior, had famously dubbed the USSR the “evil empire,” and did covertly arm Afghanistan’s Mujahideen after the 1979 Soviet invasion of their land. Nonetheless, the prospect of having Western troops directly fight the USSR’s forces was inconceivable with the nuclear sword of Damocles hanging over everyone’s head. It was a line you just didn’t cross - until now.

French President Emmanuel Macron (who’d never consider using the military to establish control over his own fractious nation’s Muslim no-go zones) has again floated the idea of sending NATO troops to Ukraine to directly confront Russian forces. Macron has said it’s important to maintain “strategic ambiguity” when dealing with Vladimir Putin, which seems to roughly mirror the Russian president’s strategy “escalate to deescalate.” Yet is the issue ambiguity, geopolitical insanity or both?

French paper Le Monde reports on the story, writing that Macron again said that the question of sending Western troops to Ukraine would “legitimately” arise if Russia broke through Ukrainian front lines and Kyiv made such a request, in an interview with The Economist published Thursday, May 2. Macron in the interview doubled down on his comments from earlier this year of not ruling out sending troops to Ukraine, which sent shockwaves through Europe and unsettled allies including Germany. Most of France’s allies said at the time they would not send any forces.

The Economist said Macron gave the interview after delivering a landmark speech last week where he declared that Europe is “mortal” and could “die” partly due to the threat posed by Russian aggression after its February 2022 invasion of Ukraine. “I’m not ruling anything out, because we are facing someone who is not ruling anything out,” said Macron when asked if he stood by his earlier comments made on February 26.

Macron said “if Russia decided to go further, we will in any case have to ask ourselves this question of sending troops”, describing his refusal to rule out such a move as a “strategic wake-up call for my counterparts.” He also stated, ‘I have a clear strategic objective: Russia cannot win in Ukraine,” Breitbart adds.

“If Russia wins in Ukraine, there will be no security in Europe,” Macron went on to warn” the site continues. Moscow believes that if they don’t win in Ukraine, there will be no security in Russia. So does it sound as if we’re going to learn what happens when an irresistible force of folderol meets an immovable object of obstinacy?

As for the folderol, “Who can pretend that Russia will stop there [with Ukraine]?” Breitbart also relates Macron as having stated “What security will there be for the other neighbouring countries, Moldova, Romania, Poland, Lithuania and the others?”

Really, though, another question should be asked: Is the Ukraine war only raging because NATO, long ago, didn’t “stop there”? Let’s review some history. Long ago, NATO was created to counter the Soviet Union; thus, that evil empire’s early ’90s collapse made it rational for NATO to (in a sense) stand down. This is especially true since after the Berlin Wall’s fall, Russia pulled its army back to within its borders and arguably began behaving in a more pro-American fashion. Why, there was perhaps even an opportunity to forge friendly ties with Moscow, which, being characteristically European and Christian as we were, could’ve been a culturally congruent ally against China.

Instead, the pseudo-elite globalists expanded NATO to Russia’s very borders. The equivalent of Moscow or China forging a military alliance with Mexico, Cuba, Canada and the Bahamas. In fact, despite then - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker assuring Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in 1990 that NATO would extend “not one inch [farther] eastward,” there are now on Russia’s borders six NATO members: Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Norway, and, now, Finland — with the latter’s 2023 accession more than doubling the NATO/Russia border.

Was this wise, especially considering that Russia’s withdrawal from Eastern Europe was, it appears, at least partially predicated on Baker’s verbal assurance? Yet there’s more. According to Putin, he’d asked President Bill Clinton (who left office in January 2001) if Russia might be able to join NATO; Clinton initially said he had “no objection,” but later informed Putin that his “people” nixed the idea.

Despite this (pointed out Pat Buchanan in “Who Restarted the Cold War?”) Putin continued making some concessions to the U.S. for a time, perhaps still hoping for closer relations. It didn’t happen. Then, among other things, came what Putin said was a “red line” for him: impetus for Ukraine to join NATO. Note here that not only had Ukraine once long been part of Russia — and not only does Putin still consider it so — but according to ex-Moscow correspondent Lukas I. Alpert, Russia relies on pipeline networks running through Belarus (a Putin ally) and Ukraine for its oil-and-gas-based economic security. Yet the neocon chickenhawks talked about Ukraine NATO membership anyway. Was this wise?

Like it or not, you can’t stomp around in another great power’s backyard like a T-Rex in Jurassic Park. Backing down at one’s own doorstep would mean losing face and credibility on the world scene and signaling prey status. It’s a no-go. This is why John F. Kennedy blockaded Cuba during the missile crisis in 1962 and it’s why Putin can’t back down in Ukraine.

So what would be the result of doing the unprecedented (what we wouldn’t even contemplate with Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Afghanistan): Having NATO troops directly fight Moscow? If the ICBMs end up flying, will everyone think it was worth it over the globalists’ vanity project?

Arizona Senate Pushes for Ballot Measure Allowing Local Law Enforcement to Arrest Illegal Immigrants

by: Laura Harris 05/29/2024
Migrants.news

The Arizona Senate has approved a proposed ballot measure that would grant local law enforcement officers the authority to arrest illegal immigrants.

House Concurrent Resolution 2060 (HCR 2060), known as the Secure the Border Act, would make it a state crime to enter Arizona's southern border from anywhere outside an official port of entry. The resolution (which passed on a party-line vote on May 22nd with 16 Republicans in favor and 13 Democrats against) would grant local law enforcement officers the authority to arrest individuals who cross the border illegally.

Under HCR 2060, state judges would be allowed to order illegal immigrants to return to their home country after serving a term of incarceration or imprisonment. The court may also dismiss a pending charge if the individual agrees to voluntarily return to their home country.

The bill also seeks to enhance verification processes and penalties related to immigration and public benefits. State agencies would be authorized to use a federal database to verify the validity of documents provided by individuals applying for public benefits.

Moreover, the measure seeks to increase punishments for those convicted of selling fentanyl, addressing the rising concerns over drug trafficking in the state. HCR 2060 cites "weaknesses in immigration enforcement" as a contributor to the "public safety crisis" in Arizona. These are all in response to the lax Democratic response to the ongoing immigration crisis.

"Democrat legislators, [Arizona Gov.] Katie Hobbs and [President] Joe Biden are failing Arizona. We share your concern," the Arizona Senate Republican Caucus posted on X. "You will have the opportunity to take border security matters into your own hands this November with the Secure the Border Act. HCR 2060 passed the Senate and now heads to the House for final approval before hitting the ballot."

Hobbs and other advocacy groups oppose passage of HCR 2060

As expected, Hobbs and different advocacy groups have strongly opposed the recent passage of HCR 2060.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) of Arizona has labeled it an "anti-immigrant" proposal. "This bill ignores key parts of federal law, stripping away basic safeguards that ensure people fleeing violence and persecution in their home countries have access to asylum," Noah Schramm (border policy strategist for the Arizona ACLU) said in a press release. "It opens the door to unlawful policing and invites racial profiling, threatening communities across the state."

Having vetoed a similar bill in March, Hobbs criticized the Senate's actions as a politically motivated maneuver rather than a genuine attempt at solving the state's border issues. "The Senate's vote to pass HCR2060 is a stunt to score cheap political points," Hobbs stated on X.

"This ballot referral will kill jobs, demonize our communities, and make it harder for law enforcement to keep us safe. I urge the House to do the right thing and oppose this measure."

Hobbs has been putting the blame on both the Democratic and Republican administrations for the ongoing crisis. "When my fellow Arizonans gave me the honor of this office, I pledged to not play the same old political games that created this crisis, and that have continually hurt communities, families, and our state," she stated. "No one understands the misguided efforts of the past more than our neighbors, sheriffs, small business owners, and local law enforcement near the border who work every day to offer solutions where the federal government has failed."

Be Careful What You Wish For
NATO warlike "ecstasy" is predictably cloaked in cowardice. For all the rhetorical garbage 24/7 about "we don't want a war with Russia", the facts point to NATO using Kiev to attack and try to destroy a wide range of Russian military assets. There's also no denying the US Deep State's role in enabling Kiev's terror attacks against Russian civilians in the Donbass, Belgorod, and elsewhere.

Considering the serious debate finally on across several Russian platforms, all of that might constitute a reasonable pretext for a tactical nuclear drop on the – legally illegitimate – Kiev gang. At least that would finish a war that is dragging on for far too long.

Yet that would be totally out of character when it comes to legalistic Putin – who deals with Armageddon-laden issues with the patience of a Taoist monk. Yet Russia has an entire arsenal of asymmetric tools – both conventional and nuclear – that can deliver a painful blow to NATO in places where the alliance least expects.

We're not there yet – even as we get ominously closer day after day. Dmitri Medvedev has issued the umpteenth red line: a US strike on Russian targets, or the US letting Kiev hit targets within Russia using American missiles and drones would be the 'start of World War'.

Legislation to Get US Out! of the UN

The DEFUND Act (now pending in both the House and the Senate) would terminate U.S. membership in the United Nations and other formally affiliated bodies.

By: Peter Rykowski
TheNewAmerican.com

End of the UN?

Americans Are Waking Up

The United Nations is one of the greatest threats to American freedom and independence. From its very foundation in the waning months of WWII, the main purpose of the global body has been to serve as the foundation of — and incrementally build up to — a nascent one-world government.

Nearly 80 years after the UN's founding, this fact is becoming increasingly apparent. For example, the global body is aggressively urging implementation of Agenda 2030, its master plan for taking full control of every aspect of society via extreme environmental policies. Meanwhile, UN affiliates and other related agencies such as the World Health Organization and World Trade Organization are tightening their grip over their member nations. Here at home, the permanent federal bureaucracy and the establishment of both political parties — all heavily influenced by the globalist Council on Foreign Relations — have for decades pushed for gradually merging the United States into this emerging world government.

Thankfully, some members of Congress are pushing back against the erosion of U.S. sovereignty by introducing legislation to withdraw the United States from the UN.

The DEFUND Act

H.R. 6645 and S. 3428, titled the Disengaging Entirely From the United Nations Debacle (DEFUND) Act, were respectively introduced in the 118th Congress on December 6, 2023 by Representative Chip Roy (R-Texas) and Senator Mike Lee (R-Utah). Co-sponsors as of late March included Representatives Mike Rogers (R-Ala.), Thomas Massie (R-Ky.), Diana Harshbarger (R-Tenn.), Anna Paulina Luna (R-Fla.), Harriet Hageman (R-Wyo.), and Marjorie Taylor Greene (R-Ga.), as well as Senators Marsha Blackburn (R-Tenn.) and Mike Braun (R-Ind.).

H.R. 6645 and S. 3428 are identical and (as mentioned above) would restore U.S. sovereignty by withdrawing the United States from the UN and its affiliated agencies. Section 2 of the legislation would repeal the United Nations Participation Act of 1945, which established U.S. membership in the UN; direct the U.S. president to “terminate all membership by the United States in the United Nations, and in any organization, specialized agency, commission, or other formally affiliated body”; and close the U.S. Mission to the United Nations.

However, the DEFUND Act does not stop there. For example, it would repeal the United Nations Headquarters Agreement Act, thus evicting the UN from its headquarters in New York City, and prohibit any U.S. funding for the UN and its affiliated organizations — saving American taxpayers more than $18 billion per year.

The legislation would prohibit U.S. participation in UN peacekeeping operations, ban the use of U.S. government property by the UN, and revoke diplomatic immunity for UN entities and employees. It would also specifically rescind U.S. membership in the World Health Organization, and broadly “end any participation in any conventions and agreements with the United Nations” and its affiliates.

Finally, the DEFUND Act would ensure the retention of U.S. sovereignty by prohibiting the president from unilaterally entering into agreements with the UN or its affiliates.

In a December 7 press release announcing the legislation, Representative Roy stated, “This year, the United Nations’ corruption and its despicable, brazen political agenda have been on full display... The UN doesn’t deserve one single dime of American taxpayer money or one bit of our support. We should defund it and leave immediately.”

Defending American sovereignty: Representative Chip Roy (R-Texas) is a lead sponsor of legislation to withdraw the United States from the UN. With a lifetime Freedom Index score of 96 percent, Roy tends to vote according to constitutional principles. (AP Images)

Senator Lee stated, “No more blank checks for the United Nations. Americans’ hard-earned dollars have been funneled into initiatives that fly in the face of our values — enabling tyrants, betraying allies, and spreading bigotry. With the DEFUND Act, we’re stepping away from this debacle.”

Meanwhile, The Salt Lake Tribune lamented that Lee used “some of the same arguments to support the bill that the far-right John Birch Society first employed,” alluding to the decades-long work of the parent organization of The New American to withdraw from the UN and educate Americans about the global body’s threat to U.S. sovereignty and freedom.

This is not the first time UN-withdrawal legislation has been introduced. Such proposals in Congress stretch at least as far back as 1962, when Representative James Utt (R-Calif.) introduced H.R. 9567, “a bill to rescind and revoke membership of the United States in the United Nations and the specialized agencies thereof and to repeal the Immunities Act relative thereto.”

Later, in the early 1980s, Representative Larry McDonald (D-Ga.) (who also served as chairman of The John Birch Society) introduced and advocated the United Nations Termination Act. Representative Ron Paul (R-Texas), another leading proponent of getting us out of the UN, regularly introduced the legislation in the 1990s and 2000s, with other representatives such as Bob Stump (R-Ariz.) and Paul Broun (R-Ga.) also introducing it at different times. The bill was most recently introduced by Representative Rogers in 2022 as the American Sovereignty Restoration Act.

However, although UN-withdrawal legislation has been repeatedly introduced in the House of Representatives, this is the first time it has been introduced in the Senate. Although a lot more work is needed to accomplish full UN withdrawal, this development is a testament to the awakening of the American public to the dangers of UN membership.

Taking Action to Get US Out!

The DEFUND Act comes at a critical time. The UN is preparing for it’s “Summit of the Future” in New York City on September 22-23, 2024, when it will attempt to “move towards a reinvigorated multilateral system” at the expense of its member nations’ sovereignty. This brazen power grab would potentially include implementing Agenda 2030 and its proposed “Emergency Platform” that would allow the UN to unilaterally exert power over countries and citizens under the

UN Troops Being Brought in as Migrant Refugees The United Nations Plan for Enforcing the Disease X Lockdowns

by: Greg Reese May 14, 2024
GregReese.substack.com
InfoWars.com

The southern border of the United States is wide open, and the Federal government has been conducting a wide-scale criminal operation of flooding the country with unvetted foreigners, distributing them across the United States, and providing them with homes and financial support. The GOP's talking point has been that this is all about election fraud, but this has been happening all across the Western world for over a decade. This is something far more sinister than election fraud.

The Population Division of the United Nations concerns themselves with international migration. In the year 2000, they published Replacement Migration, a solution put forth to deal with declining and aging populations. For years we were told that this was a conspiracy theory, but now that we are seeing tens of millions murdered by the experimental shots, it is becoming more clear what the objective is.

We are told that these are poor families fleeing tyranny, but there are massive amounts of healthy young men without any families. Time and time again we have seen them act violently against the native population, with very little repercussions from the law. As we are expecting the announcement of Disease X and another lockdown, a recent report from the UK's Jim Ferguson provides a plausible explanation of what we are seeing.

"This isn't normal. There's something not right. This isn't just refugees coming, these aren't people fleeing from some kind of war zone. These are predominantly men aged between 25 and 35, young fighting age men (as my old boss, Nigel Farage once referred to them) and I think he's right. John, what do you think's going on here mate?" ~ Jim Ferguson

"So I can tell you, these are UN soldiers and they will be deployed by the W.H.O. when they announce the next pandemic lockdown. That's what's going to happen. They've been trained by British soldiers. Been trained by the Black Watch Regiment. They were trained in Antalya, Turkey and in the east of Ukraine. They're predominantly down to sergeant ranks. They're then shipped to France. They all signed the Official Secrets Act, then they're ferried over. If you were fleeing war and tyranny, I don't know about you, but I would certainly take my wife and children with me. The most precious. They are my prized asset, you know, they're everything to me. If you're going to war, you go to war with lads. They're gonna be deployed, they will be deployed." ~ John O'Looney

"John, I mean you say you spoke to people in the Black Watch. I mean, Black Watch, a very famous yellow regiment. Are they actually going along with this?" ~ Jim Ferguson

"They've got no choice. I kind of said, you know, why are you doing it? He said soldiers follow orders. What you're going to see is the following: we'll have a minister somewhere in the cabinet, suddenly come up with a great idea on how we're going to get these guys to contribute to help us and they're going to put them in uniforms. A couple of people have told me these uniforms are burgundy. Others have told me they're U.N. blue. I really don't know. I guess we'll see when they deploy them. They are gonna be deployed. Because otherwise, if they announce another lockdown, what would everyone say? They'd say

"bollocks" and they'd go about their business wouldn't they? They're gonna need armed young men in uniform to try and enforce it. Why did they import young men from the East? Because traditionally, if you want to kill and tyrannize white people, you put black soldiers in. Because there's a cultural disassociation and that's their method. That's the way these globalists are gonna do it." ~ John O'Looney

"You know, in America, when it was a colony of the United Kingdom of Britain, there was a revolution against British colonial rule." ~ Jim Ferguson

"That's right." ~ John O'Looney

"And, you know, a lot of people don't realize, but it was only 3% of those people in America that overthrew the British forces and basically got rid of them. 3% of the population, John." ~ Jim Ferguson

"I look forward to it. I'm ready, I'm ready. I can't wait because I know it's gonna be the beginning of the end for them. I do foresee victory. I see that at a very great cost, but we will see it. Legislation to Get US Out! of the UN guise of addressing "global emergencies." Meanwhile (as The New American has previously covered) UN agencies including — but certainly not limited to — the World Health Organization, International Maritime Organization, and International Monetary Fund are working to implement their own power grabs.

There is much that Americans can do to avert the incorporation of the United States into an emerging UN world government. For example, all Americans can contact or meet with their U.S. representative and senators to inform them about the dangers of UN membership and urge them to support the DEFUND Act. These efforts should not be limited to members of Congress, since state and local officials (who often eventually enter Congress themselves) can enact legislation hampering UN initiatives. Just as important (if not more so) is educating fellow citizens about the UN's threat to American freedom, which will in turn generate greater pressure on Congress to withdraw.

Although these actions can be taken individually, they are far more effective when done in a concerted manner through a national organization, namely The John Birch Society. Founded in 1958, the JBS and its members have worked tirelessly to defend American freedom and independence, including ending U.S. membership in the UN through its Get US Out! campaign.

These efforts are already bearing fruit. For example, last year, Tennessee lawmakers enacted legislation banning state agencies and local governments from implementing programs "originating in, or traceable to, the United Nations or a subsidiary entity of the United Nations," including Agenda 21/2030 and the UN's "proposal to reach net zero emissions by 2050." Alabama enacted similar legislation in 2012, while other states and localities have introduced or enacted anti-UN legislation in recent years.

Rather than agreeing to remain a member of (and provide billions of dollars in funding to) an organization that is antithetical to the American system of government, Congress must act to restore U.S. sovereignty and defend what the Founding Fathers worked to establish. And it's up to ordinary citizens (through building an educated electorate) to ensure that our leaders uncompromisingly defend our Republic and God-given freedoms.

The Zionist NAZI Connection and the Creation of Israel

by: Greg Reese May 27, 2024
GregReese.substack.com
InfoWars.com

Adolf Hitler's father was Alois Schicklgruber, the bastard child of Maria Schicklgruber, who changed his name to Hitler to hide the fact that he was an illegitimate child. Many historians have claimed that Maria was impregnated by Baron Rothschild when she worked for him. The Rothschilds have been known to breed thousands of illegitimate children under different names to serve the family's agenda and their name isn't really Rothschild. In the late eighteenth century, Mayer Amschel Bauer was the private banker for the Black Nobility through the House of Hesse and changed the family name just before expanding the family business.

Rothschild means, "Red Shield," which was their company logo. It was a six-pointed star which has become known as the Star of David. This was not a Jewish symbol, it was introduced by the Rothschilds who later funded the Zionists. In 1948, Rothschild influence compelled the state of Israel to adopt the hexagram as their national symbol.

In the late 1800s, Cecil Rhodes set up a secret society to preserve the expansion of the British Empire. Known as the Milner group, their main focus from 1920 to 1938 was to maintain the balance of power in Europe by building up Germany and pitting them against France and Russia. They discussed creating a situation that would compel Germany to start a second World War.

During this time, the reparations from the Treaty of Versailles led to hyper-inflation in Germany. In 193 (as the international banking system was collapsing) the Young Plan was enacted which required Germany to pay about two billion Reichsmarks annually payable through 1988.

This scheme was funded by JP Morgan, led by the founder of RCA, and directed by members of the Milner group. It broke the German economy.

In 1933, Hitler secured funding from the Bank of England, which was run by the Rothschild banking dynasty. This deal was brokered by John Foster Dulles and Allen Dulles, who later headed the CIA.

With initial funding from the Rothschild bank of England, Germany invaded Poland and received additional funding from the Bush family's Brown Brothers Harriman. The Germans were fueled by Standard Oil and supported by Ford, General Electric, DuPont, and IBM, all of which profited greatly from the war. World War Two accomplished the stated goals of the Milner Group, it made the banks and their cronies even richer, and it directly led to the creation of the United Nations and Israel.

Theodor Herzl, the founder of the Zionist movement, was not a religious Jew. Officially he was an atheist, but more likely he was an occultist agent of the Rothschilds. He was no fan of the Jews. In his own words he sympathized with anti Jewish sentiment. His original plan was to have them all convert to Catholicism and when that failed he decided they should be expelled from Europe.

In 1933, the Haavara Agreement, or "transfer agreement," was made between Nazi Germany and the Zionists wherein German Jews would be sent to Palestine. Non-Zionist Jews did not want to leave, and so the NAZIs encouraged them through persecution.

In 1917, the British Government announced its support for the establishment of a "national home for the Jewish people" in Palestine (known as the Balfour Declaration) and seized control of the land. After the second world war (with Holocaust propaganda used as the catalyst) this land was gifted to the Zionists from the British and the state of Israel was officially created.

Between 1947 and 1949, the Zionists murdered the locals, destroyed hundreds of villages, and expelled more than seven-hundred-thousand Palestinians. A savage invasion, celebrated every May 15th known as Nakba Day.

Before Zionism created the state of Israel, Jews did not have a common language or nationality, and they were not considered to be a race. The historical record tells us that the Khazars were known for starting wars through deception and about seven hundred years ago, they all converted to Judaism. These are the Ashkenazi Jews who later became Zionists, and persecuted the Sephardic Jews of Palestine. They do not follow the teachings of the Torah, they follow the Talmud, ancient teachings that can be described as anti-Christian or satanic. The motto of the Israeli Mossad "By way of deception thou shalt do war," really sums up the nature of Zionism, which includes Evangelical Christians and certain sects of Islam. With eighty percent of the world being religious, religion is the easiest way to ignite war - which is what the central banks always want.

Know Your Enemy to Know Your Solution

by: William S. Hahn 5/21/24
TheNewAmerican.com

The Deep States attack on General Michael Flynn is an all-too-common occurrence.

Throughout its history, The John Birch Society has exposed similar attacks the Deep State, the insiders, and the overall conspiracy have waged against people who got in their way. These attacks included those against Paul Bang-Jensen, Senator Joseph McCarthy, Chiang Kai-shek, Congressman Larry McDonald, JBS founder Robert Welch, and the JBS organization itself.

Many Americans see the lawfare being waged against Donald Trump and realize that he indeed is being deliberately targeted but by whom? Who would have a stake in seeing those who oppose their tyranny disappear?

Knowing who they are is the first step toward stopping them. Robert Welch gave a speech in 1966 to help create sufficient understanding as to what is really taking place around us. He presented 27 points tracing the life of the conspiracy, from the Illuminati in 1776, to the success of Lenin and Trotsky in igniting the Bolshevik Revolution in 1917, to the formation of the nascent world government via the United Nations, to the rampant expansion of our own government all working toward the end goal of the enslavement of the human race by an elite group at the top, whom Welch called the Insiders.

Given all that has taken place in America and around the world since 2020, for many Americans and other freedom lovers, the idea of such a conspiracy is no longer far-fetched. Welch once suggested that when the endgame of this conspiracy became apparent, it would be the equivalent of the conspirators running naked in the streets.

Welch also mentioned that the conspirators intended for the movement to be built by non-communists who do not know the part they play. They will be responsible for gradually transforming government from a limited power into a force that actively seeks to do the bidding of the majority, reducing the role and responsibilities of citizens while steadily increasing the quantity, the reach, and the potential tyranny of governments.

Many organizations have come forth over the years with their own explanations of the problem along with their proposed solutions but the majority have failed.

To stop an organized cabal of megalomaniacs takes an organization with a counter agenda, an organization that pulls together the grassroots who work in concert on shared agenda items, multiplying the effectiveness of its members. How else does one stop global programs other than through local action?

Many of our federal representatives continue to fail us because they do not know what they are up against. If we understand that the balance of governing power is actually in the hands of We the People, then we can take the appropriate steps to stop the globalist agenda of building the New World Order in our communities.

Since 1958, The John Birch Society has mobilized concerned lovers of liberty throughout the world exposing the players, the agenda and the endgame through educational means in order to prevent the loss of our freedoms.

Never, ever think that you are powerless to stop something so big as the United Nations, the World Economic Forum, the Council on Foreign Relations, or the coming tyranny being built by layer upon layer of unconstitutional government. You are not alone! Together, working shoulder-to-shoulder with others in your community, you can be part of a force-multiplier that utilizes moral principles, love for freedom and common sense. As Welch concluded, how soon victory is achieved largely depends on you. Take a stand! Learn how by joining The John Birch Society today. Start at JBS.org.

Three Quarters Of US Voters Say Country Is “Out Of Control” Under Biden; New Poll Finds

by Steve Watson May 30, 2024
Modernity.news

A whopping three quarters of voters say the US is “out of control” and on the “wrong track” under the Biden administration, according to a poll.

A Hart Research/Public Opinion Strategies/NBC News survey reveals that 73% of voters overall hold the opinion, making it the highest on record under any president since the tracking began. The last time the number was this high, it was under George W. Bush in 2008, with 70 percent. The Obama administration had 65% expressing the same opinion.

The poll found (like most others) that Trump is leading Biden in six of the seven swing states, including Wisconsin, where some other polls have recorded Biden having a narrow lead. It discovered that non-white voters are turning away from Democrats, and to the Republican Party. In the past four years, non-white voters have shifted approximately 40 points in favor of the GOP.

Republican pollster Bill McInturff highlighted that 41% of registered voters now identify as Republicans, and 40% as Democrats. By comparison, in 2016, Democrats had a seven point advantage.

Democratic operatives have claimed the Party is in full blown “freak out” mode over Biden’s decline. A majority of Democrat voters still want

Biden replaced with another candidate just months before the election.

On Wednesday, Biden failed to fill a high school gymnasium in Philadelphia, with the school kids themselves filling up the empty space.

The TikTok Ban Is the Next Patriot Act

by: Aaron Sobczak 05/03/2024
Mises.org

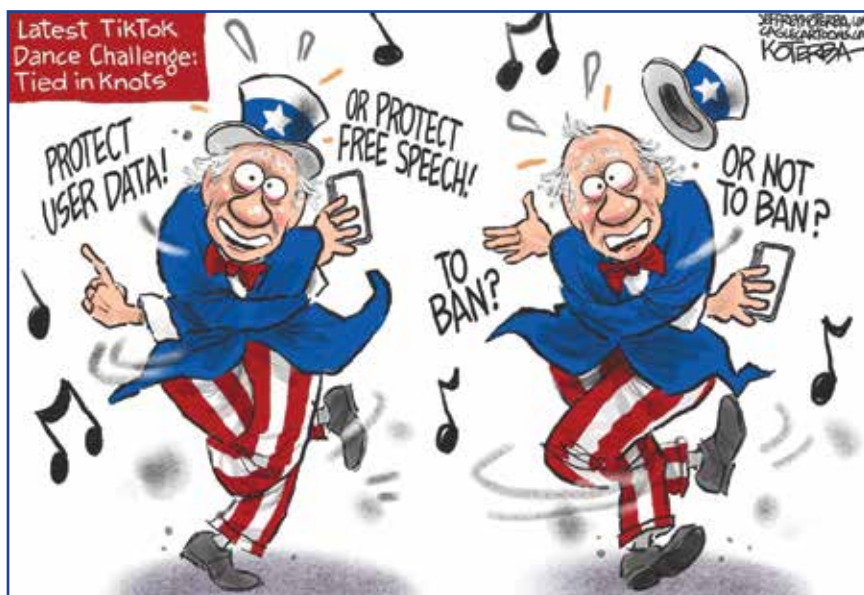

HR 7521, called the Protecting Americans from Foreign Adversary Controlled Applications Act, is a recent development in American politics. TikTok has been in the news for the past few years, after the public became aware of its connections to China. The popular social media mobile app is currently owned by ByteDance Ltd, a Chinese company. China and the United States currently have a rocky relationship, leading to fears that the Chinese government could potentially use this app to spy on American citizens. Several states and counties voted to restrict the usage of the app in some ways, mostly disallowing government employees from using it on government-owned phones. Earlier this month, the United States Congress passed a piece of legislation that would restrict the app's availability if certain requirements are not met by ByteDance.

Putting aside the idea that politicians rarely have pure motives, this act has the potential to be just as dangerous as the Patriot Act. With a supposed goal of protecting American national security, the Patriot Act granted sweeping permissions to the federal government and the National Security Agency to spy on American citizens, with far less due process. In addition to having the potential to violate privacy rights and the Fourth Amendment, this new act is a blatant attack on property rights. Mobile device manufacturers and owners have every right to install whatever software they would like, as it is their property. Any illusion of a right to national security is immediately contradicted as collective rights are positive in nature and thus not rights at all.

example would be when the United States was determined to paint Iraq, and Saddam Hussein, as a uniquely evil power that assisted with the events of 9/11. Additionally, one can point to how the Trump and Biden administrations supported covid lockdowns, thus making Americans who understood the Constitution and property rights look like enemies in the eyes of many. The state has proven itself to be incapable of telling Americans who or what they should fear.

When looking through this act, several parts stick out. It begins by restricting any entity from distributing, maintaining, or updating any application that is controlled by a foreign adversary. As skeptics of the state would point out, this is already problematic. It should be obvious that one cannot adequately trust the American national security regime to determine which countries or entities are adversarial. A recent egregious

The act then goes on to even ban the hosting of internet services that enable the use of these apps, furthering the state's control over the internet. In addition to these fears of further government censorship, Senator Rand Paul has pointed out that many Americans own a stake in ByteDance; this restriction would mean that the government is taking away American property without suspicion of a crime. The act does not just restrict companies that are directly controlled by a foreign government but even companies that are owned by private citizens of an adversarial state. When it comes to government censorship, the Chinese government is the gold standard. The American government would be following in the steps of the Chinese Communist Party if President Joe Biden chooses to sign this piece of legislation. The Constitution and the natural-law-based rights that the United States was founded upon conflict greatly with this level of state censorship.

Setting aside any pretense of national security, this act will restrict competition in the American marketplace, if not incidentally. Companies such as Alphabet and Meta will benefit greatly from a huge decrease of competition in the social media marketplace. Additionally, foreign cooperation in the global marketplace serves to spread the values of capitalism and free expression.

It is understood that free trade greatly reduces the risk of traditional warfare between states, resulting in greater global competition. Further alienating states that are considered adversarial is shown to diminish peace. This is seen in how Iran reacted to the end of the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action, how North Korea positively reacted to President Donald Trump's brief attempts to normalize diplomatic relations, and how Russia reacted to the expansion and aggression of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

While not quite as wide-ranging as the Patriot Act, this recent act is dangerous in multiple ways. The natural rights to free expression, property, and privacy are at further risk with legislation such as this. One can point to how this will greatly support very large companies such as Alphabet and Meta in the American marketplace, companies that have spied on American citizens on behalf of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Additionally, already-estranged nations are less likely to come to any sort of reasonable agreement as they are continually backed into a corner by the global community. Skeptical Americans who are knowledgeable of history should not trust the American national security regime to properly determine who their enemies are, or the best way to keep Americans safe. This legislation will only give increased power to the expansive state, power that the state has proven itself unable to use judiciously.

PACE Award Ceremony in Lake Havasu Brings Patriotism to Life

by: Karen Vanderjagt

PACE (Patriotic Americans for Constitutional Education) held their 13th Annual Award Ceremony at the Performing Arts Center for a two night event, May 1st and 2nd. PACE is a non-profit organization with the goal to instill love of God and country while learning about our Founding Fathers and the documents that formed our country. Teachers receive a stipend for having a patriotic after-school club to teach the principles of Liberty in a fun and engaging way. The final finale is the performance showing what they have learned during the PACE year. Each student receives a challenge coin as their reward for their work during the year.

The MC for the evening was PACE president, Johnny Martinez, dressed as one of our Founding Fathers. Seven schools and ten teachers participated. The schools that participated were Smoketree (2 clubs), Havasupai (2 clubs), Telesis, Our Lady of the Lake (2 clubs), Spairo, Psalm Learning Center, and Havasu Preparatory Academy. There were a total of 226 students as part of the program this year.

The performances varied as teachers are given the freedom to focus on anything pertaining to our country such as documents, Founding Fathers, character, military, etc. Often, the students decide what they will do for their performance. Mrs. Haro from Spairo School focused on the theme for the year, The Bill of Rights. Each student in her younger class wore a white wig and a long coat while they took turns reciting each amendment while the older students presented each amendment which folded out to a giant flag honoring the veterans. Mr. Nigg's class played "Kahoots", a phone game that allowed the entire audience to participate with students coming to the microphone giving more details about their particular question. Psalm Learning Center put on a play depicting the importance of prayer during the writing of our Constitution and then sang, "God Bless the USA," which brought the audience to tears as the students sang with such vigor in their hand-designed flag shirts. Mrs. Kortan and Mrs. Bernier always bring pageantry with baton performances to add to their performance wowing the audience. Our Lady of the Lake teachers (Tina Whitehouse and Brittany Delgato) both did Bill of Rights focus, while also singing a song focused on the military. In addition, Delgato's club raised money for the deployed military.

Always giving acknowledgement to our military, our special guests for both evenings were the Marine Corps Detachment 757 to present the Colors and perform the Folding Ceremony. Other notable guests were the Goodfellows who host Constitution Week in Lake Havasu focusing on our US Constitution in mid-September and Steve Maikoski (author of The Real Constitution and its Real Enemies).

PACE is made up of a Board of Directors which include Johnny Martinez, President; Diane Klostermeir, VP and Head Fundraiser; Ginger Dodier, Secretary; Phil Nielsen, Treasurer; Karen Vanderjagt, Teacher Liaison; Ted Boyd, Membership; Nancy Sylvester, Fundraising and Teacher Liaison Assistant; Gary Kordes, Member at large. Our motto: "How do we teach children NOT to kneel when our flag is presented? We teach them WHY we stand!" We also participate in the Veteran's Day Parade and Constitution Week. New members welcome! Contact Ted at 310-613-0243.

Are you ready for the CLIMATE VACCINES about to be unleashed by anti-human globalists?

by: Ethan Huff 5/31/2024
NaturalNews.com

Unless We the People stop them, climate fanatics like billionaire eugenicist Bill Gates are planning to inject you and your family with climate change and global warming “vaccines.”

Right now, they are already injecting animals with climate jabs, claiming these are necessary to keep the animals “safe” from fictitious diseases. Eventually, they will proceed to start jabbing you and your family with the same “vaccines” - assuming you let them.

Technocracy.news writer Yudi Sherman warned back in January that the only way to stop these “genetic maniacs” from destroying the human race with their mystery chemical injections is to “take away their keycards and their containment suits, immediately escort them out of their laboratories, permanently ban them from any other scientific research for life, and then raze the buildings to the ground.”

If it sounds extreme, consider the fact that a company called ArkeaBio just raised $26.5 million in Series A seed funding to begin developing climate jabs for the human masses. You can be sure that once these injections are ready to go, there will be another “pandemic” or “emergency” to predicate their forced use.

“If you can’t grasp the seriousness of this, then you may be marked for depopulation,” warns the Technocracy news editor.

“Vaccines” to prevent cows from passing gas

This might sound like something from The Babylon Bee, but the reality is that ArkeaBio has already begun developing a new “vaccine” that mad scientists say will stop cows and other meat animals from releasing methane emissions, i.e. passing gas. The claim is that the shots will alter the animals’ immune systems in such a way as to create antibodies that target methane-producing microbes.

ArkeaBio secured its first major investment in late 2022 from Breakthrough Energy Ventures, an investment fund founded by Bill Gates. “Our vaccination-based approach allows for much-needed decarbonization of global meat and dairy products across multiple geographies, supporting greater sustainability in agriculture,” the company’s website explains.

ArkeaBio has not announced any plans to create a human version of its anti-fart injection, but another company called Gingko Bioworks has. Gingko (which is also funded by Gates) is pushing to develop mRNA (modRNA) injections that it says will help to stop the planet from warming.

The World Economic Forum (WEF) has expressed support for the plan, stating it is a “critical response to the climate crisis.”

“In the face of climate change, vaccines play a crucial but underestimated role,” wrote British pharmaceutical giant GlaxoSmithKline (GSK) back in December on its website.

AstraZeneca, maker of a shamed and now-pulled-from-the-market viral vector Wuhan coronavirus (COVID-19) vaccine, also wants in on the gravy train by manufacturing its own climate jabs as well.

Two months prior, Thomas Triomphe, executive vice president of vaccines at rival Sanofi, wrote an entire article called “Vaccine innovation is a critical response to the climate crisis” that expresses the same interest in developing climate injections.

The only type of “climate change” these demons are trying to stop is their own change from rich to poor as their corrupt financial and war empire implodes on itself. Big Pharma will die unless it continues to churn out new injections for every made-up disease under the sun, the latest being so-called climate change.

“This madness has to end now,” one angry commenter wrote about the insanity coming from Big Pharma and the Bill Gates brigade. “I’m immensely comforted to know the flood ‘Gates’ of biotech are unleashed, to wash us in redemptive waters of climate salvation by delivering us from the ubiquitous evil of carbon,” joked another about the religious cult aspects of climate change.

Navy’s Second-Highest Officer Caught in Bribery Scandal

Retired Admiral Robert Burke Faces Serious Charges for Contract Scheme

by: Holly Tolleson May 31, 2024
www.RVMnews.com

Federal prosecutors have arrested Robert P. Burke, the former Navy vice chief of operations, on serious bribery charges. Burke, 62, from Coconut Creek, Florida, is accused of steering government contracts in exchange for a lucrative job offer post-retirement.

During his tenure overseeing American naval forces across Europe, Russia, and much of Africa, Burke allegedly directed a contract to an unnamed company in return for a $500,000 yearly salary and 100,000 stock options. Co-chief executives of the company, Yongchul “Charlie” Kim, 50, and Meghan Messenger, 47, both from New York, also face charges for their involvement in the scheme.

From August 2018 to July 2019, the company conducted a workforce training pilot program for a small segment of the Navy. Despite the Navy terminating this contract in late 2019 and instructing the company to cease contact with Burke, the executives met with him again in July 2021. They proposed that he use his influence to secure a larger contract, estimated to be worth “triple digit millions,” in exchange for a post-retirement job.

In October 2022 (shortly after retiring) Burke joined the company, which federal prosecutors claim was part of the bribery agreement. Burke faces multiple charges, including conspiracy to commit bribery, bribery, acts affecting personal financial interests, and concealment of material facts. If convicted, he could face up to 30 years in prison.

U.S. Attorney Matthew M. Graves emphasized the seriousness of the charges, stating, “The law does not make exceptions for admirals or CEOs. Those who pay and receive bribes must be held accountable.”

The indictment details that Burke ordered a $355,000 contract to train personnel in Italy and Spain in December 2021. He then attempted to secure a larger contract by making false statements and concealing his employment discussions. Burke’s lawyer, Timothy C. Parlatore, insists his client is innocent and plans to contest the charges, claiming no early employment discussions occurred.

Admiral Burke’s distinguished naval career began in 1982, culminating in his role as vice chief of naval operations and later as commander of U.S. Naval Forces Europe and Africa, commanding thousands of personnel until his retirement in August 2022.

PEDO FUNNEL: Massachusetts Government Placed Immigrant Children in Hotels with Registered Sex Offenders

migrants.news

There are at least five hotels in Massachusetts where sex offenders are either employed or housed, and those same hotels are being packed with illegal alien children by Gov. Maura Healey's Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities (EOHLC).

According to a Boston Globe report, the sex offenders were convicted of things like indecent assault and battery on children, child rape and child pornography, among other heinous sex crimes.

The EOHLC's Kevin Connor released a statement claiming that caring for "the safety and wellbeing of the 7,500 families in Emergency Assistance shelter is a priority for our administration." "We will continue to take all possible steps to ensure the safety of EA residents and carefully review any situation that comes before us to act quickly to protect families," Connor added.

According to Connor, his agency checks the database every six months to verify which "shelters" have workers or residents on the Sex Offender Registry Board. Despite this, horrors are still taking place at many of the facilities in question.

Politicians in cahoots with sex trafficking

In one particularly disturbing incident, a 26-year-old man raped a 15-year-old Haitian girl. Following the incident, Gov. Healey released a bizarre statement claiming that "everybody (including him) who enters our shelter locations is vetted."

Apparently that vetting is not working so well, though, because children continue to get exploited and taken advantage of by adult perverts who are slipping through the cracks. "This shouldn't be happening," said Carline Desire, executive director of the Association of Haitian Women. "They need to get those sex offenders out."

The Globe report found that never once were families living at these shelters informed that they were living with convicted sex offenders.

It appears as though the powers that be intentionally kept it all a secret. One resident who has daughters living with him at one of the shelters told the media that he was never informed about any of the deviants living at his location. "These posters of sex offenders are hanging out at the police station," he commented. "They should be here. There are a lot of kids here."

Keep in mind that these types of facilities exist (supposedly) to protect families and children from sexual assault. It turns out the fox has been hiding in the henhouse all along with the government's blessing.

Last summer, Healey declared a state of emergency in Massachusetts due to state shelters being overfilled with people. There are now overflow sites being set up at other hotels, churches and dormitories across the state. Citing privacy concerns, the state of Massachusetts is withholding many of the addresses of private shelters. Collectively, all the shelters house about 7,500 families, roughly 50% of whom are migrants seeking asylum.

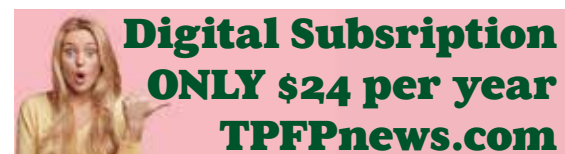

The sex offenders identified by the Globe hail from Rockland, Saugus, Revere, Kingston and Northborough. One of the offenders from Revere pleaded guilty to arranging to meet with a 12-year-old boy for indecent acts at one of the "shelter" hotels. This individual was supposedly removed from his position of employment at the facility.

In another instance, a man who was staying at the Baymont Hotel in Kingston was convicted of repeatedly assaulting a girl under the age of 14. "A man convicted of a child rape in Houston in 1990 was present at the Northborough Econo Lodge," the Globe further reported.

"A Level 3 sex offender convicted of indecent assault and battery of a child under 14 and rape and abuse of a child was living at the Colonial Traveler Inn in Saugus."

Health Alert: Doctor Introduces Much-Needed Alternative to Corrupt American Diabetes Association

By: Tracy Beanz May 16, 2024
TheHighWire.com

An unintended but high-priority consequence of the COVID-19 pandemic has been the exposure of corruption and misconduct in companies and federal agencies proclaiming to serve the health of all Americans best. It is now time to add the American Diabetes Association (ADA) to the list, a patient advocacy organization that is—according to The Guardian—"up to its eyeballs in big-business funding." Same story; here is yet another nefarious group telling us what is best for our health. Considering 38 million people in the country have diabetes, many, including Dr. Ken Berry, see the debauchery and believe it's time to revolutionize diabetes care. With that in mind, Berry recently introduced the American Diabetes Society (ADS).

Before we elaborate on Berry's outstanding new ADS, let's take a look at the shameful state of the ADA. In an article titled, "Low-Carb Diets Work, Why does the ADA Push Insulin Instead?" the Guardian's Neil Barsky asks a straightforward question

Things They Didn't Teach You in Church: Poisoned

by: Jim Brouillette
Christschurchoftheholyword.com
CCHW Real News HQ
(Rumble and YouTube)

Most of my life has involved education, K through 12 and college. After graduating I taught for many years. First Communication, then my teaching turned to the Word of God. Much later I realized I had been poisoned in college. Now the poisoning starts in the lower grades.

Watch the events happening on our college campuses. Young adults protesting in favor of a ruthless, blood thirsty terrorist group and against the only democracy in the middle east! They have been poisoned! Students have been infiltrated by professional protestors, and this relatively small group of people are interfering with everyday life, in all areas, not just on college campuses. They have blocked bridges and entrances to airports and stopped the flow in and out of events. They have all been poisoned!

With me, it started in 1973 when I was teaching at California State University at Long Beach; one of our activities in an Interpersonal Communication class was called the Privilege Walk, and I thought it was cool! We lined up a group of students in a straight line in a big open space and asked them a series of questions. If they answered "yes" they would take a step forward, "no," a step backwards. It was a setup; the questions were designed so anyone of color would end up in the very back of the group and every white student would be at the front. This was the early 70's! Fast forward to today and what we are seeing is the "Privilege Walk" on steroids.

The Bible speaks of being poisoned in several places, and as we are seeing today that the poisoning is mental, sometimes spiritual. There is something significant about the verses in the Old and New Testaments that speak of poison and poisoning, most mention a snake. Psalms 58:4, Psalms 140:3, Romans 3:13, and James 3:7 & 8 all mention a serpent or asps in the verses. They are not talking about a physical snake; it symbolizes evilness, lies, and false teaching.

Christ used the analogy between being poisoned and accepting false teachings in many places, He didn't always speak of being poisoned by an animal. Christ used leaven in many places as an example of how lies and false teaching (once it enters the mind of a person) spreads through the whole body. One of these places is Matthew 16:6 - Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees. The Pharisees and Sadducees were poisoning God's children with their lies and false religion. The Sadducees didn't believe in life after death! -They didn't believe in eternity.

There is another place where the Bible talks about being poisoned. The analogy uses another of God's creatures to demonstrate what happens when a person accepts the lies and false teachings of the End Times. In Revelation Chapter 9 God tells us what will happen when the antiChrist (along with his fallen angels) comes to earth trying to convince God's children

he is the Messiah returned. This evil group of supernatural beings is compared to an army of locusts, and their poisoning power is likened to that of a scorpion. Having lived in the desert for many years I find this analogy especially compelling...I've been stung by a scorpion.

Revelation 9 begins with the antiChrist coming to earth and releasing his army of supernatural beings from the bottomless pit. Then they are given power: 3 And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power. But there is nothing to fear if you have God's truth in your mind.

4 And it was commanded that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads.

Just as it is with the mark of the Beast, this is spiritual. Its in your mind...what is in your forehead? If you have God's truth sealed in your mind these supernatural brutes can't touch you!

5 And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man. Here we learn that the length of the reign of the antiChrist has been shortened from three and a half years to five months. And who will be tormented for five months? Those that DO NOT have the seal of God's truth in their minds. I was taught that the use of the scorpion in this verse was because of how the killing of its prey involves the victim's backbone being turned to mush. A few years back (after being stung by a scorpion) the actual meaning became clear to me. Notice this scripture says when a scorpion strikes a man, not when it strikes its prey.

I was struck on the right toe by my scorpion and for the next 24 hours I could feel the poison traveling through my body. Up my right side, into my heart, then into my brain! Then the poison traveled down my left side until my entire body was experiencing numbness from the poison left behind. Suddenly, I thought of leaven.

The numbness in the thought process that must exist in a person's mind, who would gleefully support an organization (like Hamas) who beheaded babies, raped, tortured women and committed the mass murder of over two thousand innocent people, must come from Satan. They have been poisoned! What worries me more than the numb-brained college students protesting for Hamas are all the other people in this country who have gone to college and are now politicians, judges, professionals in all fields, and even Christian ministers who all graduated from institutions of "higher learning." Look around! Obviously, many of them have been poisoned too.

Companies Are Scaling Back 'Pride Month' Celebrations Over Fears of Conservative Boycotts

By Ben Kew Jun. 1, 2024
TheGatewayPundit.com

Major American companies are scaling back their "Pride Month" celebrations over fears that they may become subject to a conservative boycott. Pride celebrations last the entire month of June, and over recent years, companies have gone all out to promote LGBT products, services, influencers, parades, and other related activities. However, conservative boycotts against companies such as Target and Bud Light have made executives think twice about shoving rainbow flags down the throats of their customers.

USA Today notes: Love-themed Mickey Mouse backpacks. Pronoun pins. "Not a Phase" hoodies. "So gay for each other" greeting cards. Every year, national brands cozy up to LGBTQ+ Americans with colorful merchandise for Pride Month. This June, those displays may not be as loud and proud. Mainstream brands used to brush off anti-LGBTQ+ sentiment. That changed last year when conservatives organized boycotts online that slashed sales.

National retail chain Target moved its Pride displays from the entrances to the back of stores after conservative activists confronted employees and vandalized displays. This year, Target is scaling back its Pride collection and won't carry the collection in all stores. Last month, Target made a point of emphasizing that its Pride collection will focus on "adult apparel" after they were found to be promoting LGBT propaganda for children. "We're offering a collection of products (including adult apparel and home and food and beverage items) curated based on consumer feedback," the company stated. "The collection will be available on Target.com and in select stores, based on historical sales performance."

Bud Light, owned by beer giant Anheuser-Busch, is still struggling after last year's conservative blowback over a social media campaign with transgender influencer Dylan Mulvaney and publicly acknowledged the damage that the partnership with Mulvaney had done to their company. "We recognize that over the last two months, the discussion surrounding our company and Bud Light has moved away from beer, and this has impacted our consumers, our business partners, and our employees," the company said in a statement last year. "We are a beer company, and beer is for everyone."

Matt Skallerud (president of Pink Media, an organization that "helps brands reach the LGBTQ+ demographic") told the newspaper that the media is refusing to admit how badly the boycotts have affected them. "Especially during Pride season, most companies like ours are pretty busy working on Pride projects. I can tell you for myself, I have not been. I think it's across the board," he said. "Nobody in the media, marketing and advertising world wants to admit how heavy and hard this has been," he said. "Ever since Target and Bud Light had their fiascos last year, a tremendous number of brands have decided it would be much better to sit on the sidelines and let this sort itself out."

While this may not be the end of Pride Month, it certainly indicates that the whole concept may be in decline. Conservatives should learn from this victory and continue voting with their wallets and support companies that align with their values.

The Rainbow What Does the World Say?

Since 1978, some of the world has viewed the rainbow as a symbol. Wikipedia notes that the rainbow flag or pride flag is a symbol of LGBT pride and LGBT social movements. The colors reflect the diversity of the LGBT community and the spectrum of human sexuality and gender.

What Does the Bible Say?

Genesis 9:8-17 Then God spoke to Noah and to his sons with him, saying, (9) "Now behold, I Myself do establish My covenant with you, and with your descendants after you; (10) and with every living creature with you, the birds, the cattle, and every beast of the earth with you; of all that comes out of the ark, even every beast of the earth. (11) I establish My covenant with you; and all flesh shall never again be cut off by the water of the flood, neither shall there again be a flood to destroy the earth." (12) God said, "This is the sign of the covenant which I am making between Me and you and every living creature that is with you, for all successive generations; (13) I set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a sign of a covenant between Me and the earth. (14) It shall come about, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow will be seen in the cloud, (15) and I will remember My covenant, which is between Me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and never again shall the water become a flood to destroy all flesh. (16) When the bow is in the cloud, then I will look upon it, to remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth." (17) And God said to Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant which I have established between Me and all flesh that is on the earth."

Alternative for Diabetics

overrunning America's healthcare system. Why is Big Pharma running the show? When corporate greed overtakes right and wrong, the ADA isn't going to encourage simple lifestyle interventions over Big Pharma's lucrative solutions. Not only do those solutions not fix the problem, but instead of promoting a healthy diet, they guarantee lifelong customers with a growing list of ailments. Easy money for these ogres. Underscoring the diabetes epidemic strangling our nation, Barsky wrote: "Diabetes afflicts 38 million Americans, with another 90 million considered pre-diabetic. Every year, the disease claims the lives of over 100,000 Americans and disproportionately affects people of color. It is also ruinously expensive, as doctor visits, hospital stays, insulin, blood test strips, leg amputations, continuous glucose monitors, and numerous glucose-lowering drugs add up to about $400 Billion a year. To put it bluntly, we are losing the war on diabetes. Unlike many other diseases—such as certain cancers, Alzheimer's, kidney disease, or Crohn's—type 2 diabetes is reversible."

Barsky reported that in 2020, Tracy Brown (the then-president of the ADA) "rocked the diabetes world" when she revealed she had reversed her type 2 diabetes and stopped taking insulin and other medicines by simply sticking to a low-carbohydrate diet. With little-to-no mention by the ADA (which is aware and acknowledges the power of low carb but stays silent), multiple nutrition studies prove that diabetes can be reversed by following a strict diet low in carbohydrates, which is the macronutrient diabetics cannot metabolize without the aid of Big Pharma drugs. Indeed, the ADA envisions diabetes as a progressive disease that gets worse over time. Yet, in explaining the "simple" manner in which she tackled her diabetes by eating low-carb, Brown (who resigned the following year) shared: "Elevated blood sugars happen when you have sugars in your body and you don't have insulin to manage the sugars in your body. Carbohydrates turn into sugar. So, I try to get people to be aware of how many carbohydrates you are actually putting in your body. Carbohydrates come in many shapes and forms. Bread is a carbohydrate. Pasta is a carbohydrate. Actually fruits some people go, "fruits?" But some fruits are high in carbohydrates.

So, as someone living with diabetes, you have to be mindful [of sugars and carbohydrates]. Even with fast food—if I am in a pinch, running through an airport, and I have to eat something and the only thing I see is fast food ... I can still go in there. Usually, they will have a salad option. And if they don't have a salad, they usually have a sandwich, burger, or chicken. I take that and I toss the bun. There is always a way for you to work around it. But my advice is to start paying attention to sugars and carbohydrates. And those are listed on nearly every package. And, with cell phones today, you can look up on the internet how many carbohydrates are in x, y, or z, and it will tell you."

It probably wasn't the ADA's best day when Brown shared how she cured her diabetes. Without question, her words of wisdom failed to become part of the diabetes dialogue touted by the organization, which prioritizes profits over patients. In another Barsky article titled, "Does the American Diabetes Association Work for Patients or Companies? A Lawsuit Dared to Ask," whistleblower Elizabeth Hanna revealed that the ADA accepted $1 million in corporate money in return for suggesting recipes that jeopardize the health of people suffering from diabetes.

Hanna (the ADA's former chief nutritionist) insisted she was fired for her refusal to endorse toxic Splenda-filled salads despite ADA research concluding that artificial sweeteners like Splenda may raise consumers' risk of type-2 diabetes. She filed a lawsuit against the ADA (which was recently quietly settled) sparing the ADA from scandalous revelations that may have emerged in a trial. Moreover, speaking of her predecessors, Hanna asserted: "[They] were either terminated by the ADA when they refused to comply with the ADA's unethical and unlawful practices or were constructively terminated by the ADA by the abusive and hostile work environment they faced for refusing to comply."

are again, realizing that yet another U.S. institution tasked with keeping us healthy is ultimately keeping us sick. Once trusted establishments like the ADA (which sets critical guidelines on healthcare) are recklessly gambling with the health of the American people while making millions behind the scenes. This conduct must be stopped and Berry aims to do just that. He is part of the new Guard of Truth Tellers, manifesting real solutions that fix the anarchy and deliver truth to Americans. Watch out, American Diabetic Association—here comes the American Diabetic Society, an organization absolutely committed to transparency that will never accept donations from Big Food or Big Pharma.

Dr. Berry recently organized a Go-FundMe to launch ADS's mission to revolutionize diabetes care, sharing: "We are thrilled to introduce the American Diabetes Society (ADS), a groundbreaking nonprofit dedicated to transforming the current paradigm of diabetes care. At ADS, we believe in a world where type 2 diabetes can be prevented & reversed through informed dietary choices, innovative research, and comprehensive education, and that type 1 diabetes can be controlled with 80% less insulin and drastically reduced complication rates. Our mission is to empower individuals with diabetes to achieve normal blood sugar levels and maintain a healthy A1c, leading to a better quality of life and fewer complications."

Government Schools: When Satan Is Welcomed In, Is It Time to Get Your Kids Out?

by: Selwyn Duke
TheNewAmerican.com

Oklahoma has, some sources say, the dubious distinction of having the greatest number of strong tornadoes per unit area in the United States. One tornado that won't hit the state, however, is a storm of satanic "ministers" in government schools, says Oklahoma's top education official. The satanists are, though, announced Superintendent Ryan Walters, "welcome to go to Hell."

Whether or not he sticks to his holy guns, government schools long ago went to hell in a handbasket. Enabled by favorable court rulings and craven local officials, there already are After School Satan Club "programs" in schools in at least four states: "California, Ohio, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania" The New York Times reported December 15, 2023.

As for Oklahoma, Walters' comments came after Satanic Temple representatives said they were prepared to put their ministers in government educational institutions if a proposed school-chaplain bill becomes law.

The same type of hellish dispute has arisen in Florida, too. After signing school-chaplain legislation into law recently, Sunshine State Governor Ron DeSantis said that satanists are banned from the program, explaining that their beliefs are "not a religion."

As for the Sooner State legislation, The Oklahoman reports, "A bill that will allow public schools to hire faith-based chaplains or accept them as volunteers is advancing through the Legislature with some major additions. Senate Bill 36 has been approved by the Oklahoma House of Representatives and now advances to the Senate for consideration."

As for the changes, some "of the bill's language has remained largely the same," The Oklahoman also informs.

"It would still require chaplains to pass a background check and they would need no certification from the Oklahoma Department of Education." "But new requirements were added to the measure before the recent House vote," the site adds. "Notably (under the newly amended bill) chaplains are prohibited from proselytizing." This nonetheless didn't sit well with the satanists and other secular forces.

As Fox News reported on May 2: "Oklahoma Superintendent Ryan Walters took a dig at The Satanic Temple (TST) on [May 1] after the organization said they would place ministers in public schools if Senate Bill (SB) 36 becomes law. "In Oklahoma, we have conservative values. President Joe Biden and the National Education Association want Christianity out of the classroom and are advocating for our kids to have zero morality and faith," Walters told Fox News Digital in a statement. "Let me be crystal clear: Satanists are not welcome in Oklahoma schools, but they are welcome to go to hell," the Republican superintendent said. ... TST is already preparing to deploy its "ministers" in public schools if it [SB36] becomes law."

As for the debate surrounding the aforementioned new Florida law, Governor DeSantis has weighed in definitively. "Some have said that if you do a school chaplain program, that, somehow, you're going to have satanists running around in all our schools. We're not playing those games in Florida," Fox News quotes him as stating. "That is not a religion. That is not qualified to be able to participate in this."

According to Fox News Digital, TST co-founder Lucien Greaves believes that "DeSantis is unaware of how the law works and unaware that the bill he signed into law 'does in fact allow Satanic chaplains in schools.'"

This is a common and fashionable view — one embraced, in fact, by many judges. It's also wrong. To fully understand this issue, however, five factors must be explored:

1. What the U.S. Constitution states.
2. What state constitutions dictate.
3. What is "establishment" and what is not.
4. What constitutes a "religion"?
5. The difference between freedom of religion and government showcasing of religion.

Many cite the First Amendment when making their "separation of church and state case." Yet not only is the quoted phrase not in the Constitution (it is, however, in the 1936 Soviet Constitution!), but forgotten is that the First Amendment only prohibits Congress (our federal legislature) from religious "establishment." The courts have, however, dishonestly applied this to all levels of government via a judicial rationalization called the "theory of incorporation". This said, state constitutions generally mirror the federal one by also proscribing establishment.

Yet this merely constrains government from "establishing" an official church. If it meant that all religious expression must be absent from government (as many claim) the men who wrote the First Amendment (the Founders) wouldn't have opened the first Congress in 1789 with exclusively Christian prayers but they did.

Conclusion:

"Religion" can be in government institutions (as it has been during our entire history) but then, what is "religion"? If we're to thus label satanism, then can Nazism register as a "religion" and place its "ministers" in schools? Those countering that Nazism isn't deity-oriented (note: the German Nazis actually were "aggressive neo-pagans") should consider that TST emphasizes that it, in fact, does not believe in God or Satan and merely considers the latter a metaphor.

Regardless, the notion that any and every concept of "religion" must be afforded public-square equal time has already bred inanity such as government-arena Festivus poles and "Church of The Flying Spaghetti Monster" displays. The idea is, Cloward-Piven-style, to overload the system with nonsense so that people will agree to purge religion from the public square entirely — and TST's actions are part of this.

100 N. Kofa K5-12th
(928) 927-3773
Now Enrolling Limited Space

This strategy can be easily neutralized by upholding a simple principle: The right to freedom of religion does not equate to the right to the equal government showcasing of religion.

Asserting otherwise is like saying that government is "abridging" speech if it doesn't pair the Lincoln Memorial's words — that our nation was "conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal" — with pro-tyranny and pro-slavery sentiments. Whether the matter is speech or religion, you can say and believe whatever you wish. That doesn't mean that we have to give your ideas a place in government spaces.

Of course, it is commendable that states such as Oklahoma and Florida are fighting back against the religious-sphere Cloward-Piven madness. In reality, though, our society has degenerated to a point where (if we didn't know better) we could think we were all practical-joke victims on a Punk'd episode. We already have condoms, "transgenderism," purple-haired teachers, furies, folderol, and fear-some ideology in schools. What are we waiting for? A notarized affidavit issued by an education official stating, "Government 'education' is hazardous to your child's moral health"? It won't be forthcoming. But if ever there was a clear sign that it's time to exit the state's schools, isn't it when Satan is allowed entry in the name of equal time? Or should we wait until little Johnny starts identifying as an opposite-sex, BLM-supporting, reality-distorting dark angel?
