The Regime Wants Appalachia To Suffer

Tho Bishop 10/04/2024
MisesWire.org

Americans from Florida to North Carolina continue to deal with the devastating consequences of Hurricane Helene, now the deadliest hurricane to hit the US since Katrina. The stories emerging from the region are heart breaking. The economic damage to property and the infrastructure will take years to recover from. Large parts of the area will never return to what they were.

Many Americans may be unaware of the extent of the damage. Unlike Hurricane Katrina, which received non-stop coverage on cable news for weeks, with primetime anchors like Anderson Cooper visiting on location covering stories of human tragedy and government incompetence, Helene's aftermath has received far less coverage. It is on social media platforms like X where folks will find horrifying stories of the stench of death still strong in difficult to reach areas, the lack of government assistance for those in need and the courage of private efforts serving the area.

Some of this is explained by the time period we are living in. Escalation in the Middle East. A national election is on the horizon. A court decision releasing documents that allows the salivating press to re-litigate the events of January 6, 2021 yet again. What cannot be ignored, however, is the extent to which the open hostility the nation's most powerful institutions have had to the sorts of people that are overwhelmingly impacted by this storm, predominantly white, working class, and politically conservative. This horrific natural disaster is a reminder of the extent to which the regime hates the people who live there.

This was true prior to Helene, where Washington policies have impoverished this areas with policies ranging from the national impact of inflation and financialization to more specific regional impacts stemming from regulatory policy with specific impacts on the region impacted. The immediate aftermath, however, demonstrates the extent to which state reaction to a disaster impedes voluntary efforts to quickly mobilize and assist those in need.

A combination of heavy-handed federal and state action has attempted to undercut recovery efforts, from grounding private helicopters seeking to rescue stranded victims, to the demands of Transportation Secretary Pete Buttigieg to stop citizens from flying drones near impacted areas seeking to locate those in need of help. Given the logistical strains that even the best organized response to a severe crisis would create, the voluntary organization of local human resources on the ground is essential to meaningful and quick recovery. Here, the priority of government actors has been to elevate their control over the situation at the expense of these efforts.

The allocation of emergency resources itself is deserving of extended scrutiny as well. The victims of this tragedy, like all Americans, have their wealth extracted by Washington to fill the coffers of large federal agencies like FEMA. This same agency, whose nominal priority is to assist Americans in the case of emergency, are already pleading poverty. Of course, these same agencies oversaw the redirection of over a billion dollars in recent years to subsidize migration into the country. The priorities are clear, emergency funds take a back seat to a regime that cares more about new arrivals than the families who lived in this country for generations.

This predatory relationship between the regime and its citizens is systemic. The priorities of Washington will always stand in conflict with the people of Appalachia. DC sees no problem with ordering the Tennessee National Guard to the Middle East at a time when their fellow Tennesseans are facing their own crisis. This relationship is also bipartisan in nature. Kentucky Senator Mitch McConnell, who has become very rich off the backs of

The excitement of the snowbirds return is in the air here in Quartzsite. I pray the political shenanigans or weather modifications do not create a problem for anyone wishing to come back to the desert. To our subscribers in the flooded areas or those who have family and/or friends there ~ our deepest sympathies and prayers go out to you. We have some links on our website to credible sources if you would like to send donations to American victims of the hurricanes. The flooding is horrific and I have tried to share as much truth about the flooding as possible in this issue.

There is so much tension in the air due to the upcoming election. I pray we have an honest counting of the votes of the citizens of the United States. When I lived in Guatemala, I could not and would not have voted so I pray that no one who is not a legal citizen of this Country does NOT vote in OUR elections.

I read something recently that I want to share (author unknown): That moment when someone says, "I can't believe you would vote for Trump..." I simply reply, "I'm not voting for Trump. I am voting for the First Amendment and freedom of speech. I am voting for the Second Amendment and my right to defend my life and my family. I am voting for the next Supreme Court Justice(s) to protect the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. I am voting for the continued growth of my retirement 401K and the stock market. I am voting for a return of our troops from foreign countries and the end to America's involvement in foreign conflicts. I am voting for the Electoral College and for the Republic in which we live. I am voting for the Police to be respected once again and to ensure Law & Order. I am voting for the continued appointment of Federal Judges who respect the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. I am voting for our jobs to remain in America and not be outsourced to China, Mexico and other foreign countries. I am voting for secure borders and legal immigration. I am voting for the Military & the Veterans who fought for this Country to give the American people their freedoms. I am voting for the unborn babies that have a right to live. I am voting for continued peaceful progress in the Middle East. I am voting to fight against human/child trafficking. I am voting for Freedom of Religion that our founding Fathers believed was the foundation of our Republic. I am voting for the right to speak my opinion and not be censored. [I am voting to make America healthy again.] I am not just voting for one person; I'm voting for the future of my country. I am voting for every citizen's children and grandchildren to ensure their freedoms and their future. What are YOU voting for?"

externally, and by their very active espionage operations within the United States. The People's Republic of Communist China, with 1.4 billion people, is governed by the 90 million member Chinese Communist Party (CCP) that has been working with Russia to destroy the US Constitutional Republic for over 70 years.

If the American voters read the background information (in Trevor London's article) on Kamala Harris, they would never support her election as Vice President of the United States. Joe Biden is suffering from the early onset of dementia and will continue to decline in cerebral awareness; he will never be able to fill out a four-year term of office.

Since Biden was [s]elected, the Socialists, Marxists, and Communist who control Kamala Harris, are planning to enact provisions of the 25th Amendment, in order to remove Joe Biden from office, so Harris can become the first Communist President of the United States.

Since Biden was elected, because Biden would not be up to it, Kamala Harris would lead the effort to appoint very dangerous anti-American Leftist, Communist, Socialists, and Marxists to fill highly sensitive positions in the Washington Deep State Bureaucracy. She would fill all appointive positions in the US Intelligence Agencies, in the Department of Homeland Security, in the Department of Defense, in The Justice Department, the Department of State, the FBI, the CIA, most cabinet positions, the National Security Council, and in the White House Staff.

American voters must alert their fellow Americans that Kamala Harris is a very serious National Security threat to the very survival of the US Constitutional Republic; she has been a fellow traveler of Marxists, Communists, Maoists, Socialists, Progressives, and Chinese Communists for over 35 years.

President Trump had much more background information on Kamala Harris than we presented here, and he was correct when he accused Kamala Harris of being a Communist subverter.

The End of Kamala's Campaign

Harris Floods Country with 13,000 KILLERS and 15,000 Illegal Alien Perverts and Rapists – Should Face Criminal Charges and Immediate Impeachment Proceedings

by Jim Hoft 09/28/2024
TheGatewayPundit.com

Why is Kamala Harris still campaigning for president?

In a normal, functioning democracy, "Border Czar" Kamala Harris would be removed from the presidential campaign and face criminal charges for endangering the lives of EVERY American. As The Gateway Pundit reported on Friday: "A recent ICE report has confirmed the devastating consequences of the Biden-Harris regime's disastrous open border policies."

According to the report from the Deputy Director of ICE Patrick Lechleitner sent to Congressman

Tony Gonzalez, over 662,000 illegal immigrants with criminal histories are currently on ICE's national docket. Even more alarming is that the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is currently tracking over 425,000 illegal immigrants convicted of various crimes, while 226,000 face pending criminal charges, all of whom have been released into the United States under the regime's lenient immigration enforcement. Of that staggering number, over 13,000 illegal immigrants have been convicted of homicide, and more than 15,000 have been convicted of sexual assault.

Kamala welcomed 13,000 KILLERS into America since she took charge of the border! These individuals are not in custody—they are roaming free in communities across the country, thanks to the administration's so-called "catch and release" policy.

These individuals are not in custody—they are roaming free in communities across the country, thanks to the administration's so-called "catch and release" policy.

Fox News' Bill Melugin broke the story, explaining the sheer gravity of the situation to the American people. ICE has something called a non-detained docket, meaning illegal immigrants who were encountered by DHS but are no longer in federal custody. In other words, these are illegal immigrants who have been caught and released with court dates set years into the future, or, worse, those ordered deported but still residing within our borders. Bill Melugin reported on these shocking numbers.

So when will Kamala Harris, the Border Czar who is responsible for these killers and rapists roaming the streets of America, face criminal charges for her dereliction of duty? Why is Kamala still running for office? She is clearly destroying the country and endangering the lives of Americans! Kamala needs to face justice for her crimes – not a promotion!

Tim Walz Holds Interview on FOX News – Lies About Abortion – Shannon Bream Delivers Much Deserved Smackdown!

by: Jim Hoft 10/06/2024
TheGatewayPundit.com

Last Tuesday, radical far-left Governor Tim Walz suffered a very public spanking by Senator J.D. Vance in the vice presidential debate on CBS. Even with the far-left moderators on his side, Walz fell flat on his face and looked like a deer in the headlights most of the night. As an encore, the Democrat Party thought it would be a good idea to book Tim Walz on FOX News Sunday with host attorney Shannon Bream. Big mistake!

What were they thinking? Who thought this would be a good idea? Bream is not your average far-left crank on CBS, ABC or NBC! Bream actually held Governor Walz's feet to the fire and called him out on his lies that would have gone unnoticed by any of the other legacy media outlets.

Bream called out Walz for his lies on trade, Minnesota abortion law, and Trump's abortion stance in just two minutes. It was a thing of beauty.

Partial transcript of the interview:

Shannon Bream: I want to clarify what the law is there in Minnesota. AbortionFinder, a website that helps women find access, says abortion is legal throughout pregnancy in Minnesota. There is no ban or limit on abortion in Minnesota based on how far along in a pregnancy you are. You signed the bill that makes it legal through all nine months. Is that a position you think Democrats should advocate for nationally?

Tim Walz: Look, the vice president and I have been clear. The restoration of Roe v. Wade is what we're asking for.

Shannon Bream: But that law goes far beyond Roe v. Wade.

Tim Walz: To make her own choice. The law is very clear. It does not change that. That has been debunked on every occasion.

Shannon Bream: But wait... What you signed is there's not a single limit through nine months of pregnancy. Roe had a trimester framework that did have limits through the pregnancy. The Minnesota law does not have that. That's what we're talking about. Tim Walz: This puts the decision with the woman and her health care providers. The situation we have is when you don't have the ability of health care providers to provide that, that's where you end up with a situation like Amanda Zurawski in Texas, where they are afraid to do what's necessary. This doesn't change anything. It puts the decision back on to the woman, to the physicians. We know that this is simply something to be brought up. To be very clear, Donald Trump's asking for a nationwide abortion ban.

Shannon Bream: Wait. He has said repeatedly that he will not sign a national abortion ban. Are you calling that just a flat-out lie?

Tim Walz: Yes, of course. Senator Vance has in the past said so, too. Now, look, they may see this as an election issue. We see it as a right of women to make their own bodily decisions. That's what the states, like my state, have the ability to put that in. States like Georgia force women to cross the border, and then we have a death of Amber Thurman. Let's be very clear. Trying to cut hairs on an issue on this is not where the American public's at. They want the restoration of Roe versus Wade. Vice President Harris said she would sign it. That's what we'll do when we're elected.

Shannon Bream: But to be clear, the Minnesota law is far beyond Roe v. Wade. And about the Amber Thurman case in Georgia, her family has, and it's tragic, she is a young mother who left behind a young son. What her family has said is it was a complication from an abortion pill that she received, and she didn't get proper care when she went to a Georgia hospital, which had multiple opportunities to intervene there. Her own attorney, the family's attorney, says it wasn't the Georgia law, it was the hospitals. What he claims is malpractice of not treating her when she clearly showed up in distress and still had the byproducts of her pregnancy because of that rare complication from the abortion pill. So just to be clear on the Georgia law and how her family and her attorney sees it.

Getting Away With Murder

by: Trudy Sherburn
La Paz County Resident

Of all the issues dividing us, abortion is one of the hottest — in courts, in campaigns and in elections.

Is it just a question of differing opinions? Who is to say which is right or wrong? In actuality, there is an absolute standard of truth (of right and wrong) defined by God, not by man. Many are unaware of it; others outright reject it but it is crucial to know God's opinion. The Almighty God, Creator of heaven and earth loves us and has told us in the Bible how we should live—for our good. The Bible tells us that God hates the shedding of innocent blood.

"These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him: A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood..."
Proverbs 6:16,17

Can we expect to receive God's blessings on our country while we do that which He "hates"---while we continue to shed innocent blood—and profit from it by selling baby parts like Planned Parenthood does? Rather, we incur God's wrath. <https://tinyurl.com/rebrpj>

Will God not judge our nation as He did nations in history for sacrificing their little ones to idols?

"Yea, they ... shed innocent blood, even the blood of their sons and of their daughters, whom they sacrificed unto the idols of Canaan; and the land was polluted with blood...therefore was the wrath of the Lord kindled against His people". Psalm 106:37,38, 40

We have many excuses and try to justify our actions. What about women's rights? What about free choice? Yes, choose not to do that which produces babies or choose to give the baby up for adoption to a loving home. Ultrasound shows that the breathing, moving being with tiny fingers and toes with a heart-beat within the mother's womb is a baby who endures pain during sometimes brutal procedures. What about rape? Abortion is killing that baby—shedding the blood of an innocent—and sometimes by tearing it apart!

www.centerformedicalprogress.org/blog

Some candidates support abortion so vote carefully. The fact is, unless we seek God's ways and live as He intended, we will reap the consequences of our turning aside to our own ways—individually, and as a nation. People "can get away with murder" in our judicial system, not in God's Court — for eternity.

Iran Missile Attack: What We Learned

Mindless march to World War 3 may have hit a brick wall yesterday

Alex Krainer 10/02/2024
AlexKrainer.substack.com

During the night of October 2nd, 2024, Iran unleashed their operation "True Promise 2" - launching between 200 and 400 ballistic missiles into Israel. As the video footage coming from Israel has shown, many of these missiles reached their targets inflicting substantial damage on the ground. Apparently, some offshore gas platforms were also struck. Claims and counterclaims are a bit all over the place at the moment: Israelis have claimed that the Iranian attack failed and that most of the missiles were intercepted. Netanyahu's aide Hananya Naftali even tweeted a "BRAVO" to Israel's aerial defense systems for intercepting "nearly all the missiles."

But the footage from last night gives a very different impression; it corroborates those who claimed that many missiles hit their targets. A few of the videos also confirm that the Iranians do indeed possess hypersonic missiles. We also know now that these have a long range and seem accurate enough. This lesson alone could be a game changer.

Why hypersonic missiles are a game changer

Hypersonic missiles can't be intercepted. The most advanced Western air defense systems can shoot down incoming projectiles flying at up to mach 3. So far as the Patriot Missiles are concerned, their success rate is very poor even at that. Nothing in Western powers' arsenal can defend against hypersonic missiles and this certainly has the Pentagon's attention. The implication is that all US Navy assets and military bases in the Middle East are defenseless, and that Iran has the capability to strike them.

During yesterday's attack, two U.S. destroyers in the eastern Mediterranean launched twelve SM-3 ballistic missile interceptor rockets, their most advanced air defense system. The problem is that the current production rate of SM-3s is down to zero! Thus, even if SM-3s are effective, Western air defense systems are not for the long haul and will deplete rapidly in case of further escalation.

At the same time, Iran has many thousands of missiles ready. Here's what CSIS says about Iran's arsenal: "Iran possesses the largest and most diverse missile arsenal in the Middle East with thousands of ballistic and cruise missiles, some capable of striking as far as Israel and southeast Europe. For the past decade, Iran has invested significantly to improve these weapons' precision and lethality. Such developments have made Iran's missile forces... a credible threat to the U.S. and partner military forces in the region."

Hezbollah can shoot 3,000 missiles a day?

Then there's Hezbollah. According to a 130-page report titled, "The Most Deadly War of All," compiled by a group of six Israeli think-tanks and based on three years of research and the opinions of over 100 Israeli defense experts and IDF commanders, war on Hezbollah would be (as the report's title suggests) the most deadly war of all for Israel. According to the report, Hezbollah would be capable of launching 2,500 to 3,000 missiles per day, a combination of long-range precision guided and unguided rockets.

The barrages would be launched toward specific targets in Israel with the potential of destroying the Iron Dome air-defense capability. IDF's reserves of Iron Dome and David's Sling interceptor missiles would likely be depleted within a few days from the start of a full-scale war with Hezbollah, leaving Israel exposed to thousands of missiles and drones launched by Hezbollah. This all could result in thousands of casualties and widespread panic among the settlement populations (already an estimated 200,000 settlers have abandoned their settlements in the north of Israel since the start of hostilities).

Not to mention, both Iran and Hezbollah have been preparing for this outbreak for over two decades now, and the Iranians now promised a much more painful strike if Israel decides to escalate further. Western powers won't be able to stem the tsunami that Netanyahu is working to unleash, any more than the Operation Prosperity Guardian in the Red Sea has been able to restrain the Ansarullah in Yemen. But therein lies the good news, I think.

The good news, inshallah!

Certain political factions in Israel and in the West have been working overtime to provoke a major war and draw in both Iran and the United States. Some of the pro-Israel voices are utterly rapturous about the prospect; the things they say sound utterly deranged and surreal. It's as though they convinced themselves that Israel is somehow endowed with superpowers and that it can instantly turn anyone they wish into a smoldering heap of ashes. They also seem to think that by killing Hassan Nasrallah, Israel eliminated Hezbollah. They ignore the fact that Hezbollah is a very extensive military and political organization. If the Israelis bombed the Vatican tomorrow and killed the pope, that wouldn't be the end of the Catholic Church.

Freeze Dried Candy and Snacks

Indeed, very childish and dangerous delusions gripped the most fanatical cohort of Israel supporters and saner heads must by now be aware of the extremely reckless adventure they're dragging us all into. If a wider war erupts, all of US, UK and NATO assets in the Middle East are sitting ducks and will be destroyed or expelled from the region.

Furthermore, an interruption of crude oil traffic from the Persian Gulf would inflict a devastating blow to G7 economies at a time when they least need it. In addition, all of this could be hitting the proverbial fan just ahead of the elections, and they haven't even managed to assassinate Trump yet! It is all reckless in the extreme; the odds of victory (which is yet to be defined) are slim to none, while a cataclysmic failure is nearly certain.

I may be succumbing to wishful thinking myself, but I believe that we will shortly see leaders in the West pull hard on the handbrake and effect the quickest 180 degree turn yet! In the end, perhaps they will arrive at the calculation that sacrificing Benjamin Netanyahu and allowing Israel a break so they can sober up and reassess their predicament is a much better deal than following the unhinged fanatics and committing a collective suicide. We'll know soon enough. Who knows, maybe we can avoid World War 3.

The Slow Dying of American Democracy

DNC's selection of Harris as the party candidate is proof positive that they plan on cheating and stealing another election. Will the American voters shrug again?

by: Alex Krainer 09/12/2024
AlexKrainer.substack.com

The "special relationship" between the United States and Britain seems to be turning American democracy into something that increasingly resembles its former colonizer. The metamorphosis has been so slow and gradual that it's been difficult to recognize it for what it is.

Somehow, in 2020, a very unpopular Democratic party candidate who could not pass his own party's primary elections without industrial-scale rigging, ended up as the nation's president. Supposedly, he won the largest number of popular votes ever obtained by any candidate.

Not everyone is convinced that this is what actually happened. The party itself twice cheated their most popular candidate in the primaries: the pied piper of the American working class, turncoat Bernie Sanders. This year, the party boldly skipped the primaries altogether, anointing the staggeringly inept and even more unpopular Kamala Harris as the party's candidate. So far, all this has elicited waves of shrugs and feeble protests from much of the voting public.

The obvious question is, why. Why would they choose such a dismal candidate as Harris, unless they were planning to cheat again and steal the 2024 elections? Evidence that they are already doing so is already piling up. Fake polls show Kamala is as popular as Trump, and a few bizarre videos and photos of her political rallies emerged over the recent days. They seem a tad inauthentic.

The most extensive voter fraud organization in history

A partial, but still shockingly candid account of the way the DNC stole the 2020 election appeared in a long 2021 Time magazine article titled, "The Secret History of the Shadow Campaign that Saved the 2020 Election." That history was never really secret, it was only viciously censored.

Time magazine described the "vast, cross-partisan campaign to protect the election" consisting of "shadow campaigners," whose "work touched every aspect of the election." For example, the article explains that, "They got states to change voting systems and laws and helped secure hundreds of millions in public and private funding. They fended off voter-suppression lawsuits, recruited armies of poll workers and got millions of people to vote by mail for the first time. They successfully pressured social media companies to take a harder line against disinformation and used data-driven strategies to fight viral smears."

Time magazine revealed all this, and much more, but did so on the pretense that this vast conspiracy was organized not to steal the elections for Joe Biden, but to protect American democracy. For his part, Joe Biden was a bit more candid. He said this: "we have put together, I think, the most extensive and inclusive voter fraud organization in the history of American politics."

Now, why would Joe say that? Was it just a case of Joe Biden misspeaking again (yawn!) or was it deliberate, in-your-face disclosure by the secret ruling establishment to the US voters: we did it, we told you that we did it, and you all acquiesced, so everything that follows is on you.

The British new normal for the U.S.?

Whatever the case may be, they got away with epic election fraud in 2020 and so, what's to keep them from doing it again in November, even more brazenly this time? If the people acquiesce again, will the practice of getting deeply unpopular politicians with almost zero public support into office become the U.S. democracy's new normal? If so, this would be just the fake democracy that's been perfected by Great Britain.

The fact that the American political system seems to be evolving toward the model of its former colonizer, Great Britain is very significant. It suggests that like Britain, the U.S. is being ruled by a hidden oligarchy. Behind the establishment's self-serving facade, Britain is not a democracy at all, and that fact is obvious once you scratch below the surface. In his 1966 book, "Tragedy and Hope," professor Carrol Quigley had much to say about the British political system.

Quigley wasn't just any old college professor: he was a trusted insider in the Western political establishment and a mentor to the future U.S. President Bill Clinton. As a privileged member of the Council on Foreign Relations, he was allowed to peruse their archives (which are strictly closed to the public and to most the people who elevated him to political power is ignoring the victims of Helene on social media while being very focused on Israel and Iran.

The regime will always prioritize its own interests, including the interests of what it has identified as its special privileged classes, over the interests of its people. Changing this parasitic relationship requires more than a change of political party in the White House, but a determined effort by those who seek to represent the interests of these people to strike at the root of this relationship.

Unfortunately, while elections alone are not adequate to address the victimization of Appalachia, it is reasonable to consider what impact the specter of politics is having on their current neglect. The counties most impacted by the storm disproportionately vote in ways the current regime does not like.

Would America's federal government deliberately undermine recovery efforts to try to achieve its own desired political ends? Would the corporate press deliberately fail to cover the inadequacy of these efforts, hoping to prevent a candidate it fears from winning? For those that understand the true nature of the state, the answer is an obvious one.

Our prayers are with the victims of Hurricane Helene, that they receive the help they need as recovery efforts continue, that they have the ability to build back their communities strong, and that they will one day be free of a regime that cares so little for them.

How to Steer Hurricanes, Flood Homes and Steal Lithium

by: Greg Reese 10/01/2024
GregReese.substack.com

We have had the technology to create, control and steer hurricanes for decades.

"Project Cirrus is the first Official attempt to modify a hurricane. It was run by General Electric with the support of the US military. The official theory was that by changing the temperature outside the eye-wall of a hurricane (which they did by seeding the clouds with various compounds such as silver iodide) a decrease in strong winds will result.

On October 13, 1947, Project Cirrus targeted a hurricane heading out to sea. Approximately 180 pounds of dry ice was dropped into the clouds. The crew then reported a "pronounced modification of the cloud deck" and the hurricane abruptly changed direction and made landfall near Savannah, Georgia. The public blamed the government.

Irving Langmuir (who pioneered General Electric's atmospheric research department) admired that the project was about learning how to weaponize the weather, also claimed the reversal of the hurricane had been caused by project Cirrus but the government denied it for twelve years.

After a short delay, the project officially continued. In 1965, Project Stormfury had targeted Hurricane Betsy for seeding. On that day the storm immediately changed direction and made landfall in Southern Florida. Congress blamed it on Project Stormfury but the government claimed that the hurricane changed direction before they ever had a chance to seed it and after two months of Congressional hearings, the project was allowed to continue." ~ Reese Report "Weather Weaponization and Hurricane Ian"

In 1997, U.S. Defense Secretary William Cohen admitted we have the technology to control the weather, including earthquakes and volcanoes. Since then, the U.S. government has placed gag orders on employees of the national weather service.

In October of 2012, after Hurricane Sandy weakened to a tropical storm, microwave imagery shows a thick red beam immediately followed by Sandy growing into a category 1 hurricane and taking an unexplained "left Turn" into New Jersey.

The push towards alternative energy demands more lithium and according to the U.S. Geological Survey, the United States has over 6 million tons of identified lithium resources. The majority of this lithium has been identified in Kings Mountain, North Carolina. Kings Mountain is believed to have one of the largest resources in the world, but the biggest problem is that people live there and they don't want their quiet towns turned into lithium mines.

"People in Cherryville have been pushing against a proposed lithium mine for the last several years, but everyone we spoke with here said it's too divisive of an issue to share their opinion on camera. Cherryville is a small, quiet town." ~ Local news reporter

The Very Real Danger of Wet Electric Vehicles Catching Fire

by James Murphy 10/05/2024
TheNewAmerican.com

In the run-up to Hurricane Helene striking his state in late September, Florida Governor Ron DeSantis warned citizens to be careful about allowing their electric vehicles (EVs) to become inundated with water because of the possibility of fire. With more than 250,000 EVs registered in the state, DeSantis felt it prudent to tell citizens that the vehicles they may have purchased to do their part to address climate change weren't necessarily the best thing to have in Hurricane Alley.

DeSantis warned Floridians as Helene picked up strength: If you have an EV, you need to get that to higher land. Be careful about that getting inundated. It can cause fires. "Just know that when you have saltwater intrusion on that, those can catch on fire," he said at a press conference. He recalled such instances during Hurricane Ian in 2022. "Really big homes, but the EV caught fire and burned the house down." So, potentially, a home could survive a hurricane but be destroyed in a fire caused by an EV left in a garage.

Hysterical climate cultists may have thought that DeSantis was only relating a tired, climate-denier talking point regarding electric vehicles being dangerous, but the Florida governor was right. When water, particularly salt water — the kind you see from a storm surge as a result of a hurricane — submerges lithium-ion batteries, a fire can occur.

Experts Echo the Warning

Even a branch of the U.S. military issued a safety alert about it. "Saltwater exposure can significantly degrade lithium-ion (Li-ion) batteries, causing a chemical reaction that creates an extreme fire risk," the U.S. Coast Guard warns in a safety alert.

EV maker Tesla stresses that EV owners should never attempt to use a vehicle that may have been submerged. In fact, it should immediately be inspected by an authorized shop prior to using. "Safely tow or move the vehicle at least 50 ft (15 m) from structures or other combustible materials such as other cars and personal property," a Tesla directive states.

Business Insider quoted Richard

Bucknall, a professor of marine systems at the University College London. He explained that lithium batteries can short circuit if flooded, especially in seawater, leading to immediate overheating and potential fire and explosion.

Unfortunately, there is no such thing as a perfect container where violent storms are concerned so it isn't a surprise to me or other engineers that fires may occur.

The Fires Are Extreme

Moreover, EV fires with lithium doesn't take an engineer to see that this problem with lithium batteries represents a possible design flaw in EVs.

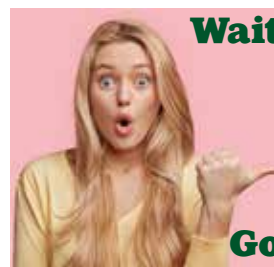

According to Tesla, the incidence rate of fires in EVs is smaller than that of internal combustion vehicles. But, as we continue to see, putting those fires out is far more difficult.

In the 1960s, Chevrolet produced an innovative new smaller vehicle known as the Corvair. It was popular, but design flaws and a scandalous book caused the vehicle to be removed from the market.

EVs are now facing real safety concerns. But the federal government only shrugs, says "climate change," and overlooks those concerns. Where the manufactured crisis of climate change is concerned, only fossil fuel emissions attract government attention. EVs don't emit emissions from a tailpipe; therefore they are good. Just forget about the fact that they might catch fire and burn for days.

batteries can be extremely difficult to extinguish. In July a semi trailer hauling such lithium-ion batteries overturned on I-15 between Barstow and Baker, California, causing the busy freeway to be shut down for an extended period. Toxic smoke plumed from the incident for more than 30 hours. It

Last year, the Department of Defense entered a 90 Million dollar agreement with Albemarle Corporation to increase domestic production of lithium for the nation's battery supply chain. Specifically, from Kings Mountain, North Carolina starting by 2025. This is the same area experiencing what is being described as biblical floods.

While the Federal government spends billions on foreign wars and illegal immigrants, they simply cannot be bothered with the health and well-being of the American people, especially those living on coveted mineral rich land.

Was Hurricane Helene Engineered?

Geoengineering researcher Dane Wigington suggests Hurricane Helene's destructive path may have been manipulated by frequency transmissions and weather modification technologies.

by: Jon Fleetwood 09/30/ 2024
JonFleetwood.substack.com

As the death toll from Hurricane Helene climbs past 100, Dane Wigington, lead researcher at Geoengineering Watch, is questioning whether the storm's destructive path was a natural event—or manipulated.

Wigington, a former employee of Bechtel Power Corporation, one of the world's largest engineering, construction and project management companies, makes a bold assertion: Hurricane Helene's path and behavior may have been engineered. "Was Hurricane Helene's path and behavior just the result of natural processes and climate patterns, or was it manipulated?"

he asks in a video published over the weekend.

The geoengineering researcher pointed to a series of visual phenomena, specifically "the circular blue flashes" seen on radar during the storm. According to Wigington, these flashes represent "frequency transmissions from the NEXRAD network of transmitter installations." NEXRAD (Next Generation Weather Radar) is a network of high-resolution Doppler weather radars operated jointly by the National Weather Service (NWS), Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), and U.S. Air Force.

Wigington explains that "all available science evidence makes clear that atmospheric frequency transmissions can and do have a repelling effect on air masses, especially if and when the air masses have been seeded with electrically conductive nanoparticles." In other words, Wigington believes human technology may have deliberately altered the storm's direction and intensity. He went on to emphasize the role of these frequency transmissions, claiming, "The brighter the blue flash from a frequency transmission installation, the more pronounced and powerful the repelling effect on any air mass or storm in the vicinity will be." Wigington insists this repelling effect can significantly influence a storm's movement. He suggested that areas where no flashes were seen were free from this interference: "Where there are no blue flashes, there is no transmission, thus no repelling effect."

In his view, these gaps in transmission allowed the storm to continue in certain directions unimpeded: "A migrating storm will be hindered from moving toward frequency transmissions and will easily migrate in a direction with no transmissions." Wigington concludes that the devastating path of Hurricane Helene may not have been a random act of nature: "So again I ask, was Hurricane Helene's path and behavior just an act of nature, or was it engineered? You decide." Wigington's claims, if true, raise serious concerns about the manipulation of extreme weather events.

As rescuers continue to respond to the widespread damage across the southeastern United States, questions about human interference loom large.

SpaceX Engineer In North Carolina Has Dire Warning: Biden-Harris' FEMA "Actively Blocking Shipments" For Relief

by ZeroHedge 10/04/2024

A shocking firsthand account from a SpaceX engineer in storm-battered North Carolina reveals that Biden-Harris' Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) blocked shipments of critical goods for relief efforts into the region.

There have been numerous reports this week of FEMA actively hindering relief efforts in the western part of the state, including threatening private helicopter pilots with arrests for conducting rescue missions. We also learned that the Biden-Harris administration drained FEMA funds to support illegal aliens, prioritizing non-citizens (future voters) over American citizens. Around lunchtime, Elon Musk shared a dire message from one of his SpaceX engineers on the ground in the storm-ravaged state.

Musk said, "FEMA is not merely failing to adequately help people in trouble, but is actively blocking citizens who try to help!" Musk shared a dire warning from one of his engineers on the ground: "Hey Elon, update here on site in Asheville, NC. We have powered up two large operating bases for choppers to deliver goods into hands. We've deployed 300+ starlinks and the output is: it has saved many lives. The big issue is FEMA is actively blocking shipments and seizing goods and services locally and locking them away to state they are their own. It's very real and scary how much they have taken control to stop people helping. We are blocked now on the shipments of new starlinks coming in until we get an escort from the fire dept. but that may not be enough."

More from Musk. "SpaceX engineers are trying to deliver Starlink terminals & supplies to devastated areas in North Carolina right now and @FEMA is both failing to help AND won't let others help. This is unconscionable!! They just took

What a mess. Insanity. Radio transmissions from first responders in Mecklenburg County provided firsthand accounts of the government blocking relief efforts by private citizens. This is disturbing. "FEMA's involvement has seriously complicated the rescue efforts," one X user wrote, citing individuals on the ground.

Americans quickly understood by the end of the week the big theme in Biden-Harris' botched hurricane response efforts, very similar to the dismal response in East Palestine, Ohio, as explained by Thobishop of Mises Institute: "This horrific natural disaster is a reminder of the extent to which the regime [Biden-Harris] hates the people who live there."

Folks were even more shocked when the US Homeland Security secretary warned that FEMA funds were running dry for hurricane disaster funding. This is because the Biden-Harris team diverted $1.4 billion to address the migrant crisis they helped create through open southern border policies.

A group of citizen responders from Prepper All Naturals – a veteran-owned emergency food company which delivered $60,000 of meat and arranged for sanitary stations – reports that the scene is chaotic and unmanaged by FEMA. "Things here are far worse than expected, or that is being reported. I won't go into detail on the deaths. Too gruesome. There will also be more out there, especially in the remote places that will starve or die from disease," said team lead Scotty Clay. "Search and Rescue Team here this morning. The team in our vicinity found 135 dead yesterday. The death toll will be bad. Many were way up high in the trees."

this video a few hours ago, where you can see the level of devastation: roads, houses, electricity, water supply and ground Internet connections completely destroyed. @FEMA wouldn't let them land to deliver critical supplies ... my blood is boiling ..."

"The damage is unprecedented. Many places look like a nuclear war zone, with more than I could count (e.g., fire station) just totally washed away. Nothing but dirt left."

Clay continued: "I remember going down to Winne and Beaumont after Rita hit. This is far far worse than that. How can that (hurricane force winds) happen 800 miles inland? It will be at least six months, and maybe as much as year or more in some places to get power, water, roads, bridges and communications restored." He also suggested that "it will be at least two years to restore power in many areas." "In Chimney Rock, NC, there was a meeting this morning with FEMA. They plan to bulldoze the entire town, bodies, and all. Some stuck in the trees there as well." Even before the storm was churning in the Gulf of Mexico, the Biden-Harris administration of far-left radicals weaponized the FCC against Musk and blocked Starlink from a rural federal contract that would've supplied the state with 20,000 terminals. If these terminals had been active ahead of the storm and during its early days, they could've saved lives.

The Southeast should identify as 'Ukraine' ... to get the proper response from White House officials who despise those living in the Southeast because they're Trump supporters.

Major Escalation Towards WWII NATO forces starting war with Russia

by: Greg Reese 09/13/2024
GregReese.substack.com

In February of 2022, Biden threatened the Nord Stream Pipeline. "If Russia invades. That means tanks or troops crossing the, the border of Ukraine. Again, then there will be, there will be no longer, Nord Stream two. We, we will bring an end to it." ~ Joe Biden

"What, how will you, how will you do that exactly? Since the project and control of the project is within Germany's control? ~ reporter
"We will, I promise you, we'll be able to do it. ~ Joe Biden

One month later, he was a harbinger for World War Three. "We are showing a strength and we will never falter. But look, the idea, the idea that we're going to send in offensive equipment and have planes and tanks and trains going in with American pilots and American crews. Just understand, and don't kid yourself, no matter what you all say, that's called World War Three.

Okay, let's get it straight here, guys."
~ Joe Biden

Six months later, the Nord
Stream Pipeline

was destroyed by NATO forces. NATO forces who overthrew the Ukraine government ten years ago. NATO forces who have been building bio-weapons labs and missile systems along the Russian border for decades.

Now NATO forces are discussing plans to deploy advanced long-range weapons to target deep into Russia. Which would most definitely trigger a full scale war with Russia.

Vladimir Putin responded yesterday to this major escalation. He said: "This is an attempt at manipulation. Because it is not about allowing or forbidding the Kiev regime from striking inside Russia. They are already doing that with drones, flying devices and other means. But when it comes to using A.I. precision weapons, long range Western made ones, that's a completely different story.

The point is, and I've already mentioned this, any experts could confirm this, both ours and Western ones, that the Ukrainian army is not capable of launching strikes with modern, high precision, long range, Western made systems. This is only possible with the use of a proprietary system. Which Ukraine does not have. This information comes only from European Union or United States satellites. Essentially NATO satellites.

That is the first thing, and very importantly, maybe the key thing is that flight missions on these rocket systems can basically only be programmed by military personnel from NATO countries. Ukrainian servicemen are not able to do this. That's why it's not about allowing the Ukrainian regime to strike Russia with these weapons or not allowing it. It's about deciding whether NATO countries directly participate in the military conflict or not.

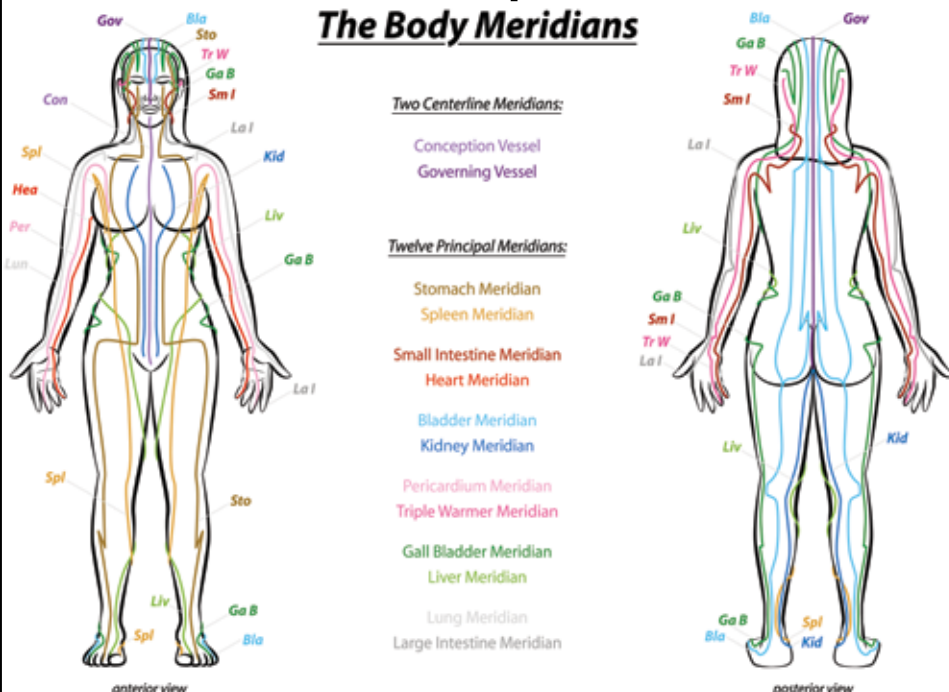

If this decision is made, it will mean nothing less than the direct involvement of NATO countries. The United States and European countries in the war in Ukraine.

This is their direct involvement, and it significantly changes the nature of the conflict. It would mean that NATO countries, the USA and European countries are at war with Russia, and if so, given the change in the nature of the conflict, we will make the corresponding decisions based on the threats posed to us."

CFR members) for two years which enabled him to write one of the most eye-opening accounts of our modern history (1890-1965). In fact, when the establishment finally understood the revealing nature of "Tragedy and Hope," the book was abruptly withdrawn from sales and all remaining copies were destroyed, together with the printing-plates.

Here's what Dr. Quigley had to say about the British political system: "...the greatest difference between Britain and the US rests in the fact that the former has no constitution. This is not generally recognized (p. 461)"

"... many of the relationships which are covered by conventions are based on precedents that are secret (such as relationships between monarchy and Cabinet, between Cabinet and political parties, between Cabinet and civil service, and all the relationships within the Cabinet) and in many cases, the secrecy of these precedents is protected by law under the Official Secrets Act... (462)"

"It is seriously stated in many books that the Cabinet is responsible to the House of Commons, and controlled by it. In truth, the Cabinet is not controlled by the Commons but the reverse." (463)

[This should sound familiar:] The fact that there are no primary elections in Britain and that party candidates are named by the inner clique of the party is of tremendous importance and is the key to the control which the inner clique exercises over the House of Commons, yet it is rarely mentioned in books on the English political system." (463)

"There is also no separation of powers. The Cabinet is the government and 'is expected to govern not only within the law, but, if necessary, without law or even against the law' There is no limit on retroactive legislation, and no Cabinet or Parliament can bind its successors. The Cabinet can enter into war without Parliament's permission or approval. It can expend money without Parliament's approval or knowledge... It can authorize violations of the law, as was done in regard to payments of the Bank of England in 1847, in 1857, or in 1931. It can make treaties or other binding international agreements without the consent or knowledge of Parliament..." (469)

"The idea, widely held in the US, that the Commons is a legislative body and the Cabinet is an executive body is not true. Legislation originates in the meetings of the inner clique of the party, acting as a first chamber. If accepted by the Cabinet it passes the Commons almost automatically. The Commons, rather than a legislative body, is the public forum in which the party announces the decisions it has made in secret party and Cabinet meetings and allows the opposition to criticize in order to test public reactions. Thus all bills come from the Cabinet, and rejection in Commons is almost unthinkable..." (469)

"It is not generally recognized that there have been many restrictions on democracy in Britain... effectively curtailing the exercises of democracy in the political sphere. (470)" [things got a lot worse since 1966]

"Since the two chief parties in England do not represent the ordinary Englishman, but instead represent the entrenched economic interests directly, there is relatively little 'lobbying,' or attempting to influence legislators by political or economic pressure. (477)"

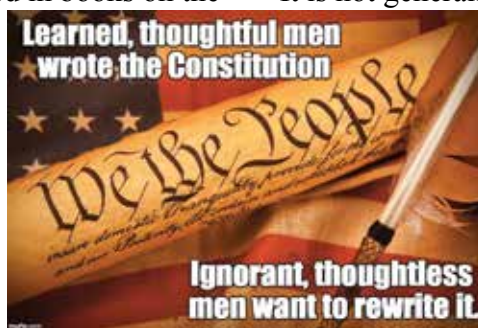

This is only a small sampling of verifiable facts. These facts clash with the subtle propaganda that's been diffused through our societies and which has by now become part of Western civilization's cultural folklore. Britain, in spite of its imperialistic, colonial past somehow came to be regarded as the cradle of modern democracy and human rights in the West. Unfortunately, once such beliefs are embraced, they are extremely difficult to dislodge from the public mind, and this is where many of our difficulties take root.

Leveraging the groupthink

The fact that many people will embrace and defend false beliefs should not come as a surprise. If they can convince a large percentage of the population that men can get pregnant, then they can convince them that Great Britain is a model democracy and that Kamala Harris is so popular that the primary elections shouldn't be required. Recall that a poll by WPA Intelligence found that among U.S. democrats, 22% believe that the statement, "Some men can get pregnant" was TRUE. Among white, college-educated female democrats, 36% deemed that the statement was true. That's more than one in three!! If such a large proportion of people are willing to believe absurdities, why should the DNC stop cheating? Why not steal elections again and then brazenly state that they were won fairly and browbeat anyone who questions that as Vladimir Putin's useful idiot? They've done it before, they reaped their rewards and they got away with it. Does anybody really believe that they'll suddenly start abiding by the law and the Constitution, even to their own detriment?

Of course they won't. They'll move the new normal to increasingly resemble the British fake democracy. Fortunately, today the facade around the British political system is crumbling, revealing Britain for what it is: a neofeudal oligarchy, still deeply attached to its colonial past, still keen on "ruling the waves," and still contemptuous of its subjects. It is not the model to emulate, but to transcend and leave behind where it belongs: in the dustbin of history. Let us hope that the American people will be able to reclaim their democracy and their nation.

Lawmakers Prepare for ‘Mass Casualty’ Event, Push Constitutional Amendment to Undermine Election Integrity and Control House Vacancies in a ‘National Crisis’

by Miriam Judith 10/24/2024
TheGatewayPundit.com

As political tensions rise in the U.S., Congress is preparing for the possibility of a major “mass casualty event” that could dramatically change its makeup. With recent assassination attempts and increasingly heated public discourse, lawmakers are considering drastic steps, including a possible Constitutional Amendment that would allow for the direct appointment of House representatives in the event of mass vacancies.

According to the Constitution, any emerging vacancies in the House must be filled through elections, unlike Senate vacancies which can be filled by appointment. However, following the events of 9/11, a law was enacted to enable rapid elections if over 100 House seats are vacant—supposedly to keep the government running as smoothly as possible by expediting the process.

But now, with the shadow of political violence looming large, lawmakers are opportunistically pushing for a system where governors can swiftly appoint new members to Congress, fundamentally circumventing the People’s right to directly elect these individuals by vote.

On Thursday, during a subcommittee hearing on “Preparing for the Future by Learning From the Past,” lawmakers gathered to discuss the amendment. Rep. Derek Kilmer (WA-D), a leading proponent of the bill, stated during the hearing, “Congress hasn’t fully considered the implications of a mass casualty event affecting members and the impact it would have on our ability to function in a time of need.” In other words, they are about to consider it. Kilmer is pushing for the bill to be called to the floor for a vote.

Under the proposed legislation, elected representatives would be required to compile a list of potential successors deemed qualified to serve in Congress. In the event that a House member’s seat becomes vacant due to death or incapacitation, a state governor would have only 10 days to appoint someone from this list, allowing for a replacement until a special election can be held. Although intended as a temporary measure until special elections are held, it raises the question of whether unforeseen emergencies could arise, delaying the election, allowing unelected representatives to remain in office longer than expected.

The bill could set a dangerous precedent, particularly in a time when public trust in the electoral process is already fragile. In fact, it’s no surprise that the discussions regarding the bill come just weeks before the 2024 presidential election is set to take place.

Following the election in 2020, Trump supporters stood in unity at the Capitol building on January 6th, to protest the certification of the election over fears that their votes were disenfranchised by fraudulent activity. During the protest, supporters were ushered into the building by officers in what appeared to be a false flag operation to frame patriots as insurrections, despite no proof of the claim and therefore no insurrection charges against anyone arrested.

Many Republican voters are understandably on edge as we approach the upcoming election as the fears of disenfranchisement that marked the last election continue to grow. Unlike last time, voters are now more aware of potential fraud as they prepare to scrutinize the electoral process closely. The moment voters get a whiff of suspected fraud, there will likely be an immediate uproar. This begs the question of if this recent legislative maneuvering is a desperate attempt by the regime to shield itself from the inevitable backlash of a population that feels betrayed yet again. Are they gearing up for not just for an electoral contest, but a full-scale confrontation from the people whose votes they continue to undermine?

The implications are chilling. Ultimately, it’s clear that the elite in Washington are more concerned about maintaining their power than truly representing those they are meant to serve, and this bill further proves that.

Mike Benz on Fire on “War Room”: How the US Government is Sabotaging Germany’s AfD Party to Prevent European Energy Independence

by: Lou Dobbs Staff 10/04/2024
LouDobbs.com

 Please remember our friend Steve Bannon, the founder of The War Room, in your thoughts and prayers today as he continues to suffer as a political prisoner of the Biden regime.*

Mike Benz speaks to Natalie Winters on “War Room” on October 4th.

Ever since the German Alternative for Germany party (AfD) won 1/3 of the vote in East German states Saxony, Thuringia and Brandenburg, the ruling left-center-right uniparty has been bending and breaking parliamentary rules to keep the AfD from gaining power in the East German states. Speaking to Natalie Winters on the War Room, cyber security expert Mike Benz explained the US deep state’s role in preventing any victory of the AfD in Germany.

Benz called the US State Dept and intel agencies “hyper-focused on removing AfD from political power.” The Alternative for Germany (AfD) is the “far-right” party in Germany, “in the way that Trump is ‘far-right’ and Bolsonaro is ‘far-right’ and Nigel Farage is ‘far-right’ and Matteo Salvini – basically anyone who opposes a State Department agenda.”

“They use that term ‘far’ in ‘far-right’ to suggest that this is extremist and therefore not allowed in a polite democracy, so its basically a giant framing device designed to ... remove someone from winning political office”, Benz said.

The Alternative for Germany “has been running on a platform of neutrality with Russia, and restoration of normal energy relations with Russia. AfD hotly opposed the sanctions crusade of the US State Department after Crimea. The whole 2014-2022 period was characterized in Europe by State Dept. diplomats going country to country, telling every country in Europe to saw off their own leg. By bleeding themselves out, they would bleed their own little drop from Russia. (The European) countries didn’t want to do it, by and large, but were coerced by the economic carrots and sticks, bribes and threats our diplomats offer them.”

“If you recall, the NordStream pipeline was blown up – as we now know, reported in the New York Times and by German law enforcement, by Ukrainian divers with advance notice from the CIA”, Benz said.

Benz did not address the reporting by Seymour Hersh from February 8, 2023 reconstructing in great detail how the NordStream pipeline was destroyed by the Biden Regime, the CIA and US Navy divers from the Diving and Salvage Center in Panama City, Florida. Hersh has called alternative reports by the New York Times and by German law enforcement a “cover-up”.

“Where did the NordStream pipeline connect to? It connected Russia to Germany. The issue was, the AfD was rising rapidly in the polls, and they were running on turning the NordStream pipeline on, where a freeze was called the moment a Green party politician got into power there in 2021, (German Foreign Minister) Annalena Baerbock”, Benz explained.

“As long as that pipeline remained potentially operational, and AfD was rising rapidly in the polls and threatened to take the lead over parliament in the near future, they could always run on (what) would be economically beneficial to the German people: Activating the NordStream pipeline. So part of the destruction of the NordStream pipeline was the threat of the rise of the AfD party,” Benz said,

US taxpayers “are paying armies of censors to censor the German AfD party’s tweets, Facebook posts and YouTube videos inside Germany”, Benz said. “In their own videos, they called for the censorship of AfD, because AfD was ‘meddling in their own elections’.” Benz posted a video by Alliance of Democracies which referred to ‘domestic meddling’.

“So you have American government agencies and government-funded cut-outs descending on Germany and rigging their political process to censor a political party there for having the temerity to ‘meddle’ in their own affairs.” Benz compared this process to the taxpayer-funded “Pentagon PR operation” to “protect the reputation of Bill Gates”.

The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation funded leading German news rag Der Spiegel with $2.9 million 2021-2023, even after it was exposed for fabricating negative stories about Trump supporters 2018. “Der Spiegel” magazine is the lead outlet for anti-Trump and anti-AfD propaganda, as Gateway Pundit has reported.

The US State Dept has been targeting the German AfD party for years, using US taxpayer money to censor them on social media. The rapid rise of Germany’s AfD party in polls is part of the reason the CIA blew up the Nord Stream pipeline.

Gold Star Mother, Tina Peters Sentenced to Nine Years in Prison

Grand Junction, CO. 09/23/2024

Tina faithfully performed her duties as clerk and revealed evidence of manipulation in a recent local city council election as well as the 2020 general election, through the use of the Dominion brand voting machines used in Mesa County 2020.

The public has this information because of Tina’s brave decision to expose the truth and utilize top qualified expert, Conan Hayes, cyber security expert with security clearances. Judge Barrett did not allow the jury to learn law regarding execution of public duty which entitles Tina to immunity in order to expose the truth and ensure that Mesa County held fair and accurate elections.

Judge Barrett failed to allow Tina to present evidence, and he will be overturned on appeal like he has been in other cases.

The constitution requires fair and unbiased trials.

After trial, a private investigator learned that one of Tina’s jurors was angry and biased and thought Tina cut her phone wires. This did not happen, nor was it ever disclosed to the court, and Tina will likely get a new trial ordered by the court of appeals. Judge Barrett denied her request for a new trial finding “no evidence of prejudice.”

Today Tina was strong for you, just like for the past 4 years, demonstrating strength and perseverance for your freedom.

Things They Didn't Teach You In Church: Sanctuaries

by: Jim Brouillette

CCHW Real News HQ (Rumble and YouTube)

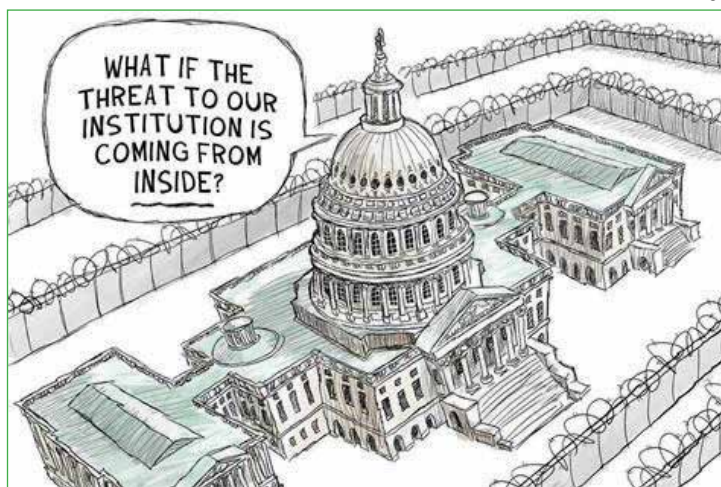

ChristChurchOfTheHolyWord.com

Everybody needs to have some kind of release from the pressures we all live under. Some call it a hobby, some a distraction, some call it an interest. I call it football. The most stressful time for me each year is the 5 months when college and NFL football are not on TV. Football is my escape from politics and all the other craziness in the world. I was perplexed when a friend sent a video asking which organization did certain statistics apply, the NBA or the NFL? The statistics included: "36 accused of spousal abuse, 7 arrested for fraud, 19 accused of writing bad checks, 117 bankrupted at least two businesses, 3 have done time for assault, 71 cannot get a credit card, 14 arrested on drug-related charges, 8 arrested for shoplifting, 21 are currently defendants in lawsuits and 84 were arrested for drunk driving in the last year." Aware that my friend was most likely trying to "yank my chain", I figured they must be NFL players.

However, the punchline to this piece was that these deeds did not apply to NBA or NFL players, they applied to members of congress. To be fair, this video is several years old, and liberal, fact-checking sites challenge the video's accuracy. Personally, I think the numbers are probably higher, remember Bob Menendez's gold bars, Sam Brinton's stolen luggage, and Hunter and Joe's millions from China and Russia, just to name a few? But back to my sanctuary; it was invaded, and I was drug back to reality,

From a Biblical point of view, Ephesians 4: 1-3 tells us that those involved in spreading the WORD of God need to be careful about irritating people. To be clear, I don't think this scripture applies to my friend. He acted with humor and love. I've done the same thing, but we do need to be mindful about irritating people, especially intentionally. Part of Christian personal growth is developing the ability to tell when and with whom we can joke around, and who we must be careful concerning their feelings. But this got me thinking about something else invading my sanctuary. It all began with NFL players kneeling during the National Anthem; I didn't watch a football game for over a year! Finally, I decided I wasn't going to let them take my football sanctuary away, but now there has been a new attack.

I record almost everything I watch on TV and fast forward through the commercials and whatever else I don't want to watch, so I might have a stronger reaction to the garbage on TV than most. One of the first things that dragged me out of my sanctuary this year, while watching an exciting, close college football game, was a political ad! How about a new law: no political ads during football games? After suffering through 3 political ads, Travis Kelce, tight end for the KC Chiefs, started telling me how I can get a combined flu and COVID shot from Pfizer! My mind jumped to Revelation Chapter 22. 14 Blessed are they that do His commandments, that they may have right to the Tree of Life and may enter in through the gates into the city.

15 For without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie.

Many politicians and their political ads definitely qualify as those who "loveth and maketh a lie", but have you ever checked out this word sorcerers? There are 4 places in the Book of Revelation that are translated sorcerers or sorcerer; in the Greek dictionary of your Strong's Concordance, and they all mean about the same thing, drugs or someone who sells drugs. Guess who else is making Pfizer commercials, John Legend, Megan Rapinoe and Lady Gaga, nothing political to see here.

Finally, the NFL arrived, Thursday night football, the Chiefs and the Ravens! And what was the big news all day, everywhere you looked? Taylor Swift endorsed Commie Harris, and now Taylor and her newest best friend, the wife of Chief's QB Patrick Mahomes, a Trump supporter, had a falling out! They were watching the game from separate boxes! And how often do they show Taylor cheering for her man Kelse? Over and over and over again. Then in week 2, just as my Las Vegas Raiders were about to upset the Baltimore Ravens and the New Orleans Saints were demolishing the Dallas Cowboys, my phone exploded with the news of a second assassination attempt on Donald Trump. So much for my football sanctuary!

All joking aside, these are very stressful times, and it doesn't matter where you fit into the puzzle of humanity. Most in this country are feeling the effects of inflation and it doesn't feel good. We haven't been this close to World War III since the days of the Cuba/Russia Crisis. Asteroids are threatening the earth, and doors are flying off 737's. The country is being invaded by illegal foreigners being released from prisons in Venezuela, Honduras and other countries all over the world. And on and on.

There is only one true sanctuary in this world we live in, only one true safe place that cannot be invaded: it is our relationship with the Lord, in the WORD of God. Only there can you find the truth, and only there can you find true peace. If you have a healthy relationship with our Father, you know exactly what I'm talking about. Lone Gunmen and Tell Tale Signs of an MK Ultra Assassin

Second failed Trump assassination by mind controlled drone.

by: Greg Reese 09/17/2024
InfoWars.com

From what we have learned about the recent “would be” Trump assassin [Ryan Routh] seems to have clearly been an asset of the Deep State. He’s been criminally charged over a hundred times including once for possessing an unregistered fully automatic fire-arm. He was recruiting mercenaries to fight in Ukraine and was on the mainstream news to discuss this. He appeared in a video promoting the Azov Brigade [The 12th Special Operations Brigade “Azov” is a formation of the National Guard of Ukraine formerly based in Mariupol, in the coastal region of the Sea of Azov, from which it derives its name. ~ Wikipedia.]

Despite all this, he was somehow able to get a rifle across state lines and within shooting distance to Donald Trump just two months after a failed assassination attempt. As Edward Snowden pointed out, there is an ‘Oswald Vibe’ here, and he’s right. Almost every assassination conspiracy in history has the same tell tale signs.

Take deep-state heavyweight George H.W. Bush for instance. Although he said he didn’t remember where he was that day, George Bush was in Dallas when JFK was shot. He confidentially reported in to the FBI with a cryptic message an hour after the assassination from the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel. During this time, George Bush was covertly working for the CIA.

CIA asset George de Mohrenschildt, who became friends with Lee Harvey Oswald a year before the JFK assassination, was family friends with George Bush. Bush wrote in an internal CIA memo that he “first met him in the early 40’s.” and was associated with him for over a decade.

Fast forward to when George Bush was Vice President alongside President Ronald Reagan, and Reagan was shot by John Hinckley. The Hinckley family was friends with the Bush family since the nineteen-fifties when they were neighbors in Midland, Texas. The Hinckleys were donors to George Bush’s political campaigns and supported George W. when he first launched his political career. The families were still close at the time of the shooting, but this was ignored by the media.

George Bush’s son, Neil Bush, said that he was scheduled to have dinner with John Hinckley’s brother, Scott, the day after the shooting and told the press that Scott Hinckley had been at his house for his surprise birthday party a couple of months earlier.

John Hinckley Jr. was living with his parents during the time he shot Reagan. His father, John Hinckley Sr., was employed at World Vision, a nonprofit funded by CIA proxy USAID. The lone gunman who shot and killed John Lennon, Mark David Chapman, was also an employee of World Vision.

In the fall of 1980, Hinckley was arrested at Nashville airport carrying three guns and was believed to have been stalking President Jimmy Carter, the political opponent of George Bush at the time. The police let him go. Right after that, Hinckley was reportedly stalking the actress Jodie Foster and claimed to have been hearing “voices” in his head.

Notes written by Hinckley were later found where he wrote of a conspiracy to assassinate the president. This was dismissed by his parents as being “an imaginary conspiracy” and ignored by the court. Dozens of pages concerning Hinckley’s personality, his associates and his financials were deleted by the FBI. It was decided that Hinckley was insane and acting alone. He was sent to St. Elizabeth’s mental hospital, a hospital with a long history of involvement with the

CIA’s MK-ULTRA program.

This is just a quick glimpse at one of many old soldiers of the deep-state. This sort of thing has been going on forever. The only difference now is that the younger generation, most likely victims of trauma based mind control themselves, don’t seem to have the skills or the motivation that their parents and grandparents had. And because of the internet, more people are seeing it and pushing for the truth. Maybe someday we will stand up against it, rather than watching it slowly eat us all.

Constitution Week in LHC

by: Karen J. Vanderjagt

The third annual US Constitution Week celebration was a huge success! Tom and Mary Goodfellow along with their Board of Directors did an amazing job preparing for a great week focusing on our US Constitution. Monday through Friday evenings we met at the Restoration Hope Church hosted by Pastor David Rose. Saturday’s event took place at the Great American Pizza in Golden Valley. Music provided most evenings and Saturday by Robert Ross.

Monday was standing room only for Professor John Eastman Ph.D and his wife, Professor Elizabeth Eastman Ph.D of the Claremont Institute with the topic, “The Rule of Law in Peril.” John Eastman is a victim of the destruction of our US Constitution having served as an attorney for Donald Trump; he is now indicted for the travesty known now as “lawfare” that Donald Trump is still facing.

Tuesday and Wednesday were both “Movie Nights” complete with freshly popped popcorn available. The film Tuesday was “Matrix of Liberty” produced by Kirk Cameron which focused on the foundation of our country going back to England in the early 1600’s. Wednesday’s film was entitled “Revive Us” also produced by Cameron.

Thursday, a local writer and author of The Real Constitution, Steven Mailkoski, spoke on “Understanding Our Constitutional Republic.” This is a crucial topic at this time in history. We are not a democracy, we are a Constitutional Republic.

Friday and Saturday, Randy Miller was the keynote speaker. His focus is that citizens need to actually read and understand our US Constitution and the Arizona State Constitution. He pointed out that many things we think are allowed in the US and Arizona Constitutions are not there and result in clear violations. Many laws are relegated to the states, but the federal government illegally has control.

A very impressive week, concluding with live music provided by Robert Ross. The event had silent auctions, T-shirts sales and raffles including paintings, a handmade patriotic mailbox and stand and an AR 15 that was donated by Against All Enemies Armory.

Rand Paul Pins the Blame on This Group for Trump's Recent Assassination Attempts

The Kentucky Senator is attempting to change the tone of America's political discourse in the spirit of unity.

by: Fans of Rand Paul 10/04/2024
RandPaulReview.substack.com

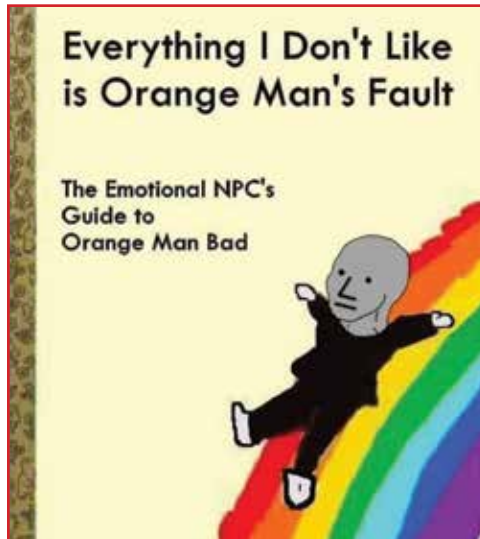

Rand Paul is pointing fingers after two attempts to take former president Trump's life. The anger is justified as it merely takes one madman with a gun to change the course of American history. Paul is zeroing in on the United States media for radicalizing leftists to the point of violence.

An Intentional Incitement to Anger
Rewind time back to 2015 and the mainstream media (including CNN) couldn't get enough of Donald Trump. Though the legacy media leans to the left, it featured Trump's speeches and interviews nearly 'round the clock.

The media's portrayal of Trump was negative at the time yet he was given significant coverage because of his humor and bombastic personality. In the years since, the media has changed its tone to portray Trump as the anti-Christ. Turn on MSNBC, CNN or your local news and you are sure to find critical hit pieces on the former President. According to Rand Paul, those critiques of Trump have incited fringe lunatics on the political left to take literal shots at Trump.

The Media has Turned Trump Into a Caricature

The truth that the legacy media doesn't want you to know is that Donald Trump has good intentions. If Trump wanted to eliminate democracy in favor of a dictatorship, he would have done so during his first term. The mainstream media also insists Trump is willing to turn our nations' sports stadiums into concentration camps or holding centers for illegal aliens. At the very worst, Trump would send those illegal immigrants back home with a one-way ticket.

"The problem is that the left has become so self-righteous about this that they have justified in their mind that he is somehow so evil. They're parroting CNN and MSNBC. If they want to be responsible people, and they don't want to have a death on their hands, these left-wing outlets need to stop inciting crazy, violent people in our country."
~ Rand Paul

The mainstream media has gone as far as insinuating Trump wants to take away the right to vote. Some talking heads have even dreamed up a scenario in which The Don refuses a transition of power in 2028, opting to appoint Don Jr. as president. Don Jr. would hand the throne to Eric Trump and Baron would eventually take the reins.

The scenarios listed above are absurd in every sense of the word. The mere fact that Trump questioned the results of one presidential election has inspired media leftists to portray him as a tyrant in the making. Those portrayals have incited people to the point that they are buying guns, practicing at shooting ranges and even stalking the former president.

Paul and Trump Have Something in Common

The Kentucky senator takes political violence serious for a good reason. Paul was targeted by a crazed man while mowing his lawn in Bowling Green back in 2017. He suffered several broken ribs in the attack. The senator later underwent hernia and lung surgeries. There is no doubt that Paul's near-death experience with an enraged member of the political fringes has prompted him to speak out. The hope is that the media, Democrat politicians and those who use social media will heed Paul's call for a change in tone.

Subtleties such as word choice, volume and even body language have the potential to make a difference between inciting violent acts and peace. Some people are highly impressionable, especially if they are marginalized individuals on the fringes of society. The use of a single incendiary word has the potential to result in bloodshed.

America Desperately Needs a Return to Normalcy

The United States has become a highly atomized and anomic nation. We are suffering from a collective anomie, meaning a disconnect from society resulting from increased isolation. Many have withdrawn from society, escaping into internet cocoons where they consume social media, Reddit posts, and other politically-charged content for hours per day.

The time has come to return to pre-internet America. Though few are pushing for the government to turn off the internet altogether, it is in our collective interest to pivot back toward face-to-face interactions. Social interactions in the days before the internet and social media were characterized by politeness, respect, and civility. Everyone should make an effort to understand the other side and engage in constructive discourse instead of malicious tirades that inspire violent attacks. The return to normalcy starts with the mainstream media acknowledging the error of its ways and embracing a tone shift for utilitarian benefit.

Recent Study Shows Self-Assembly Nanobots in the COVID-19 Injectables

by: Greg Reese 09/11/2024

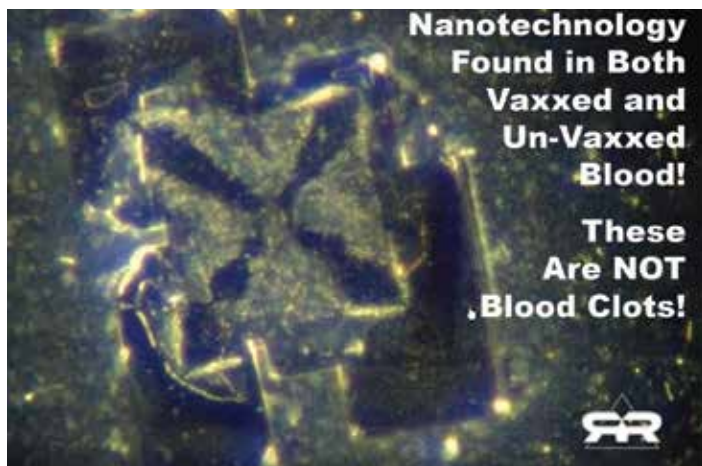

GregReese.substack.com

Recently published research from Korea and Japan confirm previous reports we've heard of nanotech in the COVID-19 injectables.

Contents of the COVID-19 injectables produced by Pfizer and Moderna were examined under a stereo-microscope at four-hundred-times magnification. Specimens were cultured in different media to observe the effect they had on living cells. The study concluded that the anomalous injuries that have occurred worldwide since the injectables were "pressed upon billions of individuals," were caused by the nanotechnology contents of the COVID-19 injectables.

The research found cellular toxicity, and over the course of a few weeks, simple one dimensional structures grew into complex three dimensional structures. Numerous artificial self-assembling nano-sized objects of many different shapes, including animated worm-like entities, discs, chains, spirals, tubes, and right-angle structures containing other artificial structures within them. Some structures even "seemed to appear and then disappear over time." All of this was found to be well "beyond any expected and acceptable levels of contamination."

This was first reported nearly three years ago by Ricardo Delgado and

La Quinta Columna, out of Spain. Who found a relationship between nano-tech and 5G: "The Fifth Column recently published their findings and conclusions on the strange self-assembling nano tech they discovered in the Pfizer mRNA vaccines via Optical Microscopy Analysis. The objects they found in the vaccine correspond with known items in the scientific record. The conclusion they come to seems quite clear, that the well documented scientific goal to use nanotechnology in living human beings to form networks capable of controlling several nanomachines, is currently being deployed in the COV-19 vaccines"

5G towers were fired up for the first time in Wuhan the same time they were reportedly experiencing a COVID-19 outbreak. David Icke said there was a relationship between COVID-19 and 5G back in 2020, and it got him banned.

Using Dark-field microscopy, Doctor Ana Maria Mihalcea has found these same artificial nano-structures in the blood of both those who got the COVID-19 injectables, and those who did not. Decades ago, Silicon Valley guru Ray Kurzweil, said that by 2045, most of human civilization will be non-biological machines thanks to the advancements of nano-robots which could cure aging and death.

While talk of mRNA is making it easily into the mainstream, nano-tech is being ignored. According to the work at La Quinta Columna, there is no mRNA spike protein. According to their research, it's all about nano-tech, which they recently reported can be "totally destroyed" by a nicotine mixture derived from tobacco and distilled water. Hopefully this nicotine study will be repeated by other independent scientists, because the mass infection of humanity with experimental nano-tech has now been ignored for at least three years. All sides of political leadership are steering us towards a brave new world of A.I. and the internet of things, where being an organic human being seems to not be an option.

What Does the World Say?

Americans see stronger societal conflicts than people in other advanced economies...

The United States stands out among 17 advanced economies as one of the most conflicted when it comes to questions of social unity. Also, the U.S. ranks near the top when it comes to whether people agree on basic facts: A majority of Americans (59%) say people can't agree on basic facts, second only to France (61%). What Does the Bible Say?

2 Corinthians 13:11

Finally, brethren, rejoice, be made complete, be comforted, be like-minded, live in peace; and the God of love and peace will be with you.

1 Corinthians 1:10

Now I exhort you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you all agree and that there be no divisions among you, but that you be made complete in the same mind and in the same judgment.

Philippians 2:2-3

Make my joy complete by being of the same mind, maintaining the same love, united in spirit, intent on one purpose. [3] Do nothing from selfishness or empty conceit, but with humility of mind regard one another as more important than yourselves;

Romans 14:19

So then we pursue the things which make for peace and the building up of one another.

Hebrews 12:14

Pursue peace with all men, and the sanctification without which no one will see the Lord.

Matthew 12:25

And knowing their thoughts Jesus said to them, "Any kingdom divided against itself is laid waste; and any city or house divided against itself will not stand."
