History of Valentine's Day

By: History.com Editors

Valentine's Day occurs every February 14th across the United States and in other places around the world. Candy, flowers and gifts are exchanged between loved ones, all in the name of St. Valentine. But where did Valentine's Day originate? The history of the holiday and the story of its patron saint is shrouded in mystery. We do know that February has long been celebrated as a month of romance, and that St. Valentine's Day, as we know it today, contains vestiges of both Christian and ancient Roman tradition. But who was Saint Valentine, and how did he become associated with this ancient rite?

The Catholic Church recognizes at least three different saints named Valentine or Valentinus, all of whom were martyred. One legend contends that Valentine was a priest who served during the third century in Rome. When Emperor Claudius II decided that single men made better soldiers than those with wives and families, he outlawed marriage for young men. Valentine, realizing the injustice of the decree, defied Claudius and continued to perform marriages for young lovers in secret. When Valentine's actions were discovered, Claudius ordered that he be put to death. Still others insist that it was Saint Valentine of Terni, a bishop, who was the true namesake of the holiday. He, too, was beheaded by Claudius II outside Rome.

Other stories suggest that Valentine may have been killed for attempting to help Christians escape harsh Roman prisons, where they were often beaten and tortured. According to one legend, an imprisoned Valentine actually sent the first "valentine" greeting himself after he fell in love with a young girl—possibly his jailor's daughter—who visited him during his confinement. Before his death, it is alleged that he wrote her a letter signed "From your Valentine," an expression that is still in use today. Although the truth behind the Valentine legends is murky, the stories all emphasize his appeal as a sympathetic, heroic and—most importantly—romantic figure. By the Middle Ages, perhaps thanks to this reputation, Valentine would become one of the most popular saints in England and France.

Origins of Valentine's Day:

A Pagan Festival in February

While some believe that Valentine's Day is celebrated in the middle of February to commemorate the anniversary of Valentine's death or burial—which probably occurred around A.D. 270—others claim that the Christian church may have decided to place St. Valentine's feast day in the middle of February in an effort to "Christianize" the pagan celebration of Lupercalia. Celebrated at the ides of February, or February 15, Lupercalia was a fertility festival dedicated to Faunus, the Roman god of agriculture, as well as to the Roman founders Romulus and Remus.

To begin the festival, members of the Luperci, an order of Roman priests, would gather at a sacred cave where the infants Romulus and Remus, the founders of Rome, were believed to have been cared for by a she-wolf or lupa. The priests would sacrifice a goat, for fertility, and a dog, for purification. They would then strip the goat's hide into strips, dip them into the sacrificial blood and take to the streets, gently slapping both women and crop fields with the goat hide. Far from being fearful, Roman women welcomed the touch of the hides because it was believed to make them more fertile in the coming year. Later in the day, according to legend, all the young women in the city would place their names in a big urn. The city's bachelors would each choose a name and become paired for the year with his chosen woman. These matches often ended in marriage.

Valentine's Day Meaning: A Day of Romance and Love

Lupercalia survived the initial rise of Christianity but was outlawed—as it was deemed "un-Christian"—at the end of the 5th century, when Pope Gelasius declared February 14 St. Valentine's Day. It was not until much later, however, that the day became definitively associated with

Letter from the Editor

By: Leesa Bolden, LAc

Well we made it through another month of an extra 100,000 people rolling through. For some residents, January is a month of love, much like the 'summer of love' during the plandemic. I love this place this time of year. It is so much fun to see retirees having fun, learning new skills, accepting new belief systems and working to feel better. I just cherish this time of year, although a clone would be nice, one to adult and one to have fun, yeah!

I have been so busy I have little to say except that I love you and I wish the best for you. Happy Valentine's Day.

How the Deep State Launders Classified Docs

By: Clandestine
Clandestine.substack.com

Today, the White House Counsel revealed that Biden's Wilmington home in Delaware does not have any visitor logs that track who comes and goes. There is no information pertaining to who could have had access to these insecure classified documents.

You are welcome to believe this is coincidental, but it's starting to look like it was by design. Trump dropped this on Truth Social today, juxtaposing how secure Mar-a-Lago is, to how laughably insecure Biden's document stashes are. Trump is hunting this by design. Trump is insinuating that the Deep State have a Classified Doc laundering operation. They store the classified docs at an insecure and unmonitored location, sell access to the location (garage/UPenn office, etc.) so there is no direct hand off of documents, Biden plays dumb, plausible deniability.

There's no record, log, or camera footage of who had access to these documents. Biden acts like he didn't know the docs were there, when in fact, they were selling access to State secrets. The concept fits the Deep State playbook for how they get away with everything else. Laundering.

It is also strikingly similar to Hillary Clinton's mishandling of State secrets on her insecure server in her bathroom. Hillary had the server connected to IMAP, connected to the cloud, essentially giving free access to anyone who knew about the server. Hillary plays dumb, plausible deniability.

With Hillary there was no direct email or digital handoff. With Biden there is no direct document handoff because it's at a stash house with no logs or surveillance. This is how corrupt politicians circumvent the law and sell State secrets for profit.

Confiscating and selling classified documents is not only a treasonous act in of itself, it's also a direct threat to NATSEC. This would certainly qualify as "High Crimes and Misdemeanors" needed to impeach. The DNC has no choice. They will have to move on from Biden or risk going down with the ship.

The Narrative is Collapsing: Thailand Drops a BOMBSHELL on Pfizer

By: 2ndSmartestGuyInTheWorld.com

A few days after receiving her booster injection, the Thai princess “suddenly” collapsed. Three weeks later she remains in a coma. The Thai Royal Family was just informed that the initial “bacterial infection” diagnosis was in fact always untrue; thus, from the very start there was a coordinated coverup by the BigPharma captured authorities.

The Thai king is finally making the connections that Pfizer’s mRNA “vaccine” is a slow kill bioweapon.

He will be declaring the Pfizer contract null and void due to fraud, which will result in the stripping away of all immunity. Lawsuits and compensation payments just in Thailand will be greater than the billions in COVID profits that Pfizer stole on the backs of taxpayers (theft).

The blowback against this One World Government eugenics program is heating up.

Elon Musk Demands the Release of the Jefferey Epstein Client List

By: The Raging Patriot
TheRagingPatriot.org

Elon Musk, Owner of Twitter is now on an all-out push for the release of the Jefferey Epstein client list. Elon Musk has been making waves throughout social media after his acquisition of Twitter. Elon Musk exposed the Twitter files which essentially showed the truth about the censorship Twitter put on conservatives.

Twitter colluded with the US government to censor specific individuals and information being released to the public. Elon Musk recently has been getting involved in the Jefferey Epstein client list. Elon Musk has been pressuring the Department of Justice to release the Epstein client list to the public. He believes it is necessary involved in the Epstein List. There are many question marks as to who exactly was involved but many have ideas of who it could be. The mainstream media has been completely silent over these developments. It will be interesting to see how this plays out as Elon Musk continues to push.

The Daily Beast Reported: At the end of December, U.S. Virgin Islands Attorney General Denise George filed a lawsuit against JPMorgan over the bank's relationship with Jeffrey Epstein. She was terminated days later. The news of George's dismissal had for the public to know the truth about Jefferey Epstein and his sex ring that has since been rumored many top names have been involved with.

The DOJ's response: nothing but crickets.

Lawsuits have been filed against a JP Morgan executive who may have been stirred up speculation—and conspiracy theories—that this legal action led the territory's governor to fire her. But on Tuesday, the government filed an amended complaint that unveiled more accusations and went as far as suggesting former JPMorgan executive Jes Staley might have been an operative of Epstein's sex ring. The document also highlighted some of Epstein's seemingly shady payments, including to billionaire Victoria's Secret founder Les Wexner.

Justin Trudeau Gets OUTED By His Own Brother

By: WaySide, Founder and Editor of TruthInPlainSight.com

'He Is PAWN Of The New World Order Who Performs Scripts Written By Global Elites'

Canada Prime Minister Justin Trudeau is a pawn of the global elite in service of the New World Order, according to a bombshell admission by his half-brother Kyle Kemper, who goes on to claim that Justin does not write his own speeches or tweets but instead performs scripts written for him by his globalist overlords.

Trudeau is "not speaking from his heart," insisted his brother, who added "blackmail is a very powerful tool."

Many of us have talked about and reported on the New World Order for a long time now. Ready for some validation you can share around? Although, this one may mean more to Canadians... If you're Canadian, take a seat. If you're American or from another country, pull up a chair and have a listen.

Asked why Trudeau is determined to tarnish the Canadian nation, Trudeau's brother said that he is merely a puppet of the New World Order and takes orders directly from groups such as the Council on Foreign Relations and Bilderberger. "He is the face and the lead spokesperson of the Canadian government, but the policies and initiatives that are driving it and are driving this narrative that he continues to push, that in my opinion is anti-freedom and anti-Canadian, is coming down from the higher ups, from groups like the World Economic Forum, the Council on Foreign Relations, and Bilderberg. They recognise they need to have these strong agents within governments and one thing we have seen within governments all around the world are weak leaders who are able to act as spokespeople."

Trudeau's brother also declared that Justin's disastrous and anti-freedom policies do not represent his true self. In short, he's being controlled by global elites. "He is not speaking from his heart. I don't honestly believe...

it's not candid, there is no actual discussion. He is not allowed to actually engage with the Freedom Convoy and with these people, because there is a lot to unpack here and there are a lot of serious questions." "Also when you look at the history of people like Jeffrey Epstein and what their role was, to trap people and blackmail people, and you think about a life of opulence and opportunity, you make mistakes and you get coerced into doing something bad." "Blackmail is a very powerful tool."

Kyle Kemper is not a nobody. Not only is he Justin Trudeau's half-brother, and the son of Margaret Trudeau, but he has a business portfolio: a founder and the Chief Executive Officer of Swiss Key, and previously an Executive Director and Strategic advisor at the Chamber of Digital Commerce Canada. He finished his BCOMM, marketing business, from Dalhousie University.

So now you know some real truth about Justin Trudeau. Not theory or speculation from afar. The raw truth spoken from his own brother's mouth. Justin is a pawn of the global elite. He does not – nor has he ever – served Canada.

It's not the first time someone close to Justin Trudeau has raised serious question marks about dark topics. Christopher Charles Ingvaldson, a long-term close friend of Justin Trudeau, was found guilty of child pornography charges after being caught directing an international pedophile ring. Justin Trudeau and Ingvaldson have been closely linked since their days as roommates at college, and after completing their teaching degrees they were both accepted to teach at West Point Grey Academy, an elite Vancouver private boarding school.

After becoming Prime Minister, Justin Trudeau encouraged Ingvaldson to run for political office as a member of the Liberal Party. Ingvaldson announced his desire to be the Liberal MP candidate in the district of Vancouver-Kingsway, and developed social media pages announcing his plans to run.

Canada buys Ukraine $400M Air-Defense System that Canadian Army has been Waiting for Since 2012

By: David Pugliese, Ottawa Citizen TheDigestCA.substack.com

The defense minister did not explain how the government was able to act so quickly for Ukraine while a similar project for Canada's military continues to go unfulfilled. The Liberal government is spending more than $400 million to buy air-defense systems for Ukraine even though the Canadian Forces has been without such equipment for more than a decade.

partners, to address Ukraine's defense priorities in the short and long term — including with high-capability equipment such as the NASAMS."

Anand did not explain how the government was able to act so quickly in acquiring the air-defense system for Ukraine while a similar project for Canada's military continued to go unfulfilled. But her office added in a statement, "We continue to work towards the procurement of Ground-Based Air Defence Equipment for the army announced it was removing ADATS from service in 2012.

That move left the Canadian Forces without a primary air-defense system. Army officers acknowledged then that the decision was risky, but the service had determined it was acceptable in the short term. The army had plans to introduce a new air-defense system around 2017, but that project never went forward. The Liberal government outlined its proposed purchase of an air-defense system in its 2018 defense capability plan, but that acquisition is still being examined.

Army commander Lt. Gen. Joe Paul told The Canadian Press in December that the army was moving forward on purchasing air-defense equipment, but he did not provide timelines. In 2020, then-Army commander Lt.-Gen. Wayne Eyre also told Esprit de Corps military magazine that ground-based air defense was a priority for the service. "We see the evolving threat from drones, from rockets, and other forms of indirect fire," said Eyre, who has since been promoted to Chief of the Defence Staff. "We have to be able to protect ourselves."

During a briefing in Ottawa on April 5, 2022, Canadian Army officers told defense industry representatives the cost would be between $500 million and $1 billion, according to records obtained by this newspaper. A contract was expected to be awarded in 2026 and the first systems would be in place a year later, industry officials were told. Army officers said then that the new system would be used to deal with drones, rockets, artillery and mortar munitions, air-to-surface missiles and bombs.

The National Advanced Surface to Air Missile System being sent to Ukraine is designed and developed jointly by Raytheon of the U.S. and Kongsberg Defence of Norway, according to the Congressional Research Service.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy thanked Prime Minister Justin Trudeau for the donation in a tweet on Tuesday. "Dear JustinTrudeau, your true leadership in standing for democracy and human rights has been vividly proven again," Zelenskyy stated. "Thank you for helping us to protect our sky. NASAMS procured for us by Canada will be a strong shield for our cities and citizens."

Defence Minister Anita Anand announced Tuesday that Canada would purchase a "National Advanced Surface-to-Air Missile System" and associated munitions from the United States to donate to Ukraine. A NASAMS is a short-to medium-range ground-based air-defense system that protects against drone, missile and aircraft attacks. The donation will cost Canadian taxpayers approximately $406 million.

"Canada stands in solidarity with Ukrainians as they fight heroically against Russia's illegal and unjustifiable invasion," Anand said. "We have committed over $1 billion in military assistance to Ukraine, and today we are moving forward with the first Canadian donation of an air defense system to Ukraine. Canada will continue to collaborate with the United States, as well as other Allies and Canadian Armed Forces — and Minister Anand is committed to getting this done, as outlined in our defense policy."

The Canadian Army has been without an air-defense capability since 2012 and has tried over the past decade to convince governments to purchase such equipment. The Canadian Army was outfitted in 1989 with a then state-of-the art air-defense anti-tank system known as ADATS. It was purchased to protect bases in Germany against attack by the Russians, but, shortly after ADATS was delivered, the Cold War ended and the systems were shipped back to Canada. ADATS was occasionally used for domestic security, including protection from potential air threats during the G8 summit in Alberta in 2002. But, faced with budget cuts ordered by the Conservative government, the

Jan 6 Was the Worst Incident of Police Brutality Since Civil Rights Era

By Julie Kelly

AmGreatness.com

One might be inclined to apply Hanlon's razor—never attribute to malice that which is adequately explained by stupidity—to the actions of law enforcement on January 6, 2021. One might even be inclined to replace "stupidity" with "incompetence" to explain why police behaved the way they did that afternoon.

But a growing body of evidence suggests neither stupidity nor incompetence can justify what now appears to be the worst incident of police brutality against political protesters since the civil rights era. After two years of watching cherry-picked video clips produced by the Department of Justice and the news media to depict Trump supporters as the violent aggressors on January 6, the public now has an opportunity to see what really happened thanks to police body camera footage released at trial. It's ugly—and clearly malicious.

As American Greatness has reported for nearly two years, members of the Capitol Police and D.C. Metropolitan Police Departments were involved in egregious acts of excessive force during the Capitol protest. Some use of force, obviously, was necessary. But police officers initiated most of the confrontations with otherwise peaceful protesters lawfully exercising their First Amendment rights in the nation's capital.

FREE THE JANUARY 6 POLITICAL PRISONERS!

Protesters by and large were not attempting to commit any crime and did not know the entire lawn surrounding the Capitol building had been declared off-limits. After all, police officials have since admitted that by the time people who attended Donald Trump's speech arrived at the Capitol, signage and fencing indicating the campus was closed had been torn down.

The conclusion of Trump's speech at around 1:10 p.m. coincided nearly to the minute with law enforcement's first use of munitions on protesters assembled on the west side of the Capitol. Roughly 20 minutes earlier, a police barricade of metal racks on the far exterior of the grounds had been breached. But footage captured by the body camera of a D.C. Metro police officer showed that law enforcement had successfully pushed a growing crowd away from the building by 1:15 p.m.

Officer Daniel Thau, however, was on a mission. Sounding alternatively like a mad man or a bully, Thau desperately pleaded with other officers to give him munitions to use against the crowd despite a relatively controlled atmosphere outside. "Over the more than 75 minutes that Thau was behind the police lines at ground level, he was like a one-man strike force," Epoch Times reporter Joe Hanneman observed in a detailed analysis of Thau's footage. "He felled at least four protesters with a Taser, tossed countless explosives into the crowd, and fired a munition launcher with a 40-millimeter shell at point-blank range over the barricade."

By 2:15 p.m., Thau recognized it was a pointless exercise. "It's useless. We're just fucking shooting zombies, man. We're shooting zombies. That's it." Further, Thau admitted, the unwarranted attacks were backfiring. "We're taking out one and 10 are getting angrier [sic]. We're multiplying them by hitting them." Even worse, police misused chemical gas munitions, resulting in injuries to fellow officers who then retreated from the reinforced line.

People inside the building didn't fare much better. Whether they climbed in through broken windows or walked through open doors, protesters eventually filled various areas of the Capitol including the Rotunda—and were met by police officers in full riot gear including helmets, ballistic vests, eye shades, gas masks, and metal batons. And again, despite no attempts to commit violence or vandalism there, protesters were subjected to harsh punishment by the police. Cops shoved and punched people who were seemingly trapped inside the Rotunda, unsure how to exit. "Do you feel big and strong now?" one woman is heard saying on body camera footage from D.C. Metro Police Officer Terrence Craig. "Does that get you off pushing around a bunch of women? A bunch of fucking unarmed women?"

Men witnessed an officer shove another woman without provocation. "Sergeant, take care of that officer right now!" one protester yelled at the police. "She's gonna cause real problems." People can be heard screaming in pain; one unidentified officer is seen repeatedly punching someone on the floor. It's important to note that lawmakers and Vice President Mike Pence had been evacuated by that point. Police could have easily escorted people outside, locked the doors, and instructed those remaining outside it was time to leave. Instead, protesters were used as human punching bags and target practice.

Four Trump supporters lost their lives. Capitol Police Lieutenant Michael Byrd shot and killed Ashli Babbitt, an unarmed female veteran, at 2:44 p.m. Prior to her execution, two men on the west side of the Capitol grounds—the location where Officer Thau and his colleagues had launched an assault on protesters—suffered fatal heart attacks at the same time.

stances of the deaths of Benjamin Phillips and Kevin Greeson around 2:00 p.m. on January 6. “The first grenade was thrown deep into the peaceful protesters,” Hansen wrote in an analysis. “Following the initial crowd munition exploding, four of the first grenades can be seen and heard on video in under 30 seconds.” “Both Greeson and Phillips died in the initial grenade barrage,” Hansen concluded. His account appears to be supported by first responders called to the scene. “We started hearing explosions that later turned out to be flashbangs or smoke grenades,” one D.C. firefighter explained in a video produced by the city’s Emergency Medical Services in 2021.

“The tension in the crowd was getting higher and higher as the flashbang grenades were going off around us,” Gary Dziekan, a D.C. emergency medical technician, said in the video. Police continued throwing grenades as paramedics attempted to reach the two stricken men. “It was just unexplained - why was he in cardiac arrest?” paramedic Glenn Hanna said. “Nobody knew so they were thinking maybe he got injured, maybe it was a stun grenade, maybe he tased himself.” Tased himself?

Other calls flooded in to report injuries. While conveniently leaving out the identity of the responsible party, one dispatcher told first responders someone “shot a grenade at the patient’s face, his teeth are out, mouth bleeding.” Some protesters were set on fire from the impact of the flashbangs.

Perhaps no one suffered a more cruel fate than Rosanne Boyland, a Trump supporter from Georgia. Video posted by Gateway Pundit on Thursday shows people attempting to resuscitate Boyland near the lower west terrace tunnel, the scene of the most violent clashes between police and protesters. This is where officers viciously beat another female Trump supporter, as I reported here in 2021. Boyland likely suffocated after being hit with noxious chemical gas in the enclosed area then trampled as police forcefully pushed people outside the tunnel, even though the building had been empty for nearly two hours.

It’s the first time Boyland’s lifeless body is seen in full view. Desperate protesters then drag her body to a line of officers and plead for help. But the cops kept attacking people and seemed unconcerned with her condition. One officer identified as Lila Morris reportedly beat Boyland’s dead body with a metal baton as she laid face up on the ground. As Boyland’s body is finally dragged away by police, protesters confront officers. “She’s fucking dead! This is on you, motherfuckers!” (The D.C. coroner claimed Boyland died of a drug overdose.)

The Biden regime and news media continue to describe January 6 as a “deadly insurrection” based on the falsehood that five officers died. Meanwhile, the names of the Americans who did die that day are never mentioned. Political protests in Washington, D.C., are nothing new. Since 2016, numerous, heavily attended protests—the Women’s March, the March for Science, anti-Brett Kavanaugh events, to name a few—went off without a single flashbang or sting ball filled with rubber bullets or canisters filled with chemical powder.

So what made January 6 different? The answer is obvious. Trump supporters are considered subhuman by the ruling class. They are not entitled to the same protections, either constitutional or personal security, as any other group of Americans. That’s why police unleashed their fury on January 6 with impunity. Not only have they faced no consequences, both departments have received congressional and presidential medals of valor.

My lawsuit update: Friends, I stand before you in VICTORY!

Let me just say from the outset that I do not need a judge to tell me that the truth is on my side. I do not need a judge to confirm the impact I've had on thousands of people's lives in terms of helping them understand their rights and how to stand up for them, and the impact I've had on defending freedom for the last three years. And I certainly don't need a judge to affirm that my legal action is right and just. REALITY tells me all of this.

Yet: I have engaged in legal action for a reason: Because I told the public serpents that I was going to take them to court. And I am a person of my word. I stand in dignity and integrity, regardless of what "the world" throws at me. I present a vivid re-telling (with a hint of snark) in my latest video, which you can watch [PeggyHall.substack.com]: I Predicted This Would Happen.

My (frequently re-scheduled) hearing for my lawsuit against the Orange County Board of Supervisors was set for January 30, 2023. This is when the attorneys for the County were ordered to demonstrate to the judge (it's called an "Order to Show Cause") that the Board of Supervisors were following the law – or, why they did not have to follow the law (LOL!).

Here are the facts of my case:

California Health and Safety Code 101080 states that a local county health officer can proclaim a LOCAL health emergency (for up to seven days) in the event of a toxic spill, hazardous waste - or at the BEGINNING of an outbreak of an infectious disease.

After 7 days, the Board of Supervisors must either ratify (approve) or terminate the LOCAL health emergency.

At least every 30 days thereafter, the Board must continue to receive updates and information to either EXTEND the emergency or TERMINATE the emergency at "the earliest possible date that conditions warrant the termination."

The Board was NOT "reviewing the conditions" publicly (required by the California Brown Act) until I informed the county attorney of this violation. After I brought this to the attention of the county attorney, the Board began to receive updates from the health officer, Clayton Chau, during the Board's public meetings (as required by law). Thousands of people showed up at these meetings over the next year, voicing their strong opposition to the "emergency" and the unnecessary shut-down measures harming businesses, jobs, schools, medical settings, and people.

At one particularly jam-packed board meeting on June 22, 2021, then Chairman Andrew Do, visibly exasperated, looked around at the other board members and said: "If we end the emergency, we won't get any more covid money. We are not going to end the emergency until the governor tells us to, and we are not going to discuss this at any further meeting." Then he took a vote, and ALL board members agreed to NOT DISCUSS the "emergency" any further. And the agenda item for receiving updates from the health officer in order to determine whether or not there are conditions that warrant an emergency was NEVER put back on the agenda. This is a clear violation of CA HSC 101080 (and other laws).

I gave the board notice in July 2021 that I was going to pursue legal action against them if they did not follow their statutory duties of reviewing the conditions for the "local health emergency" as required by law. They gave no response. The lawsuit was filed September 14, 2021. You can read all my previous updates at PeggyHall.substack.com!

An order of the court to compel a government agency (or public official) to do something or stop doing something, in accordance with law. When the law requires or prohibits an action, the law MUST be followed. There are no exceptions.

Timeline for my Writ of Mandate:

* Petition for Writ of Mandate filed in Superior Court on 09/14/2021 and assigned to Judge Richard Lee. Read/download our lawsuit: Hall v. Orange County Board of Supervisors at PeggyHall.substack.com

* The first hearing happened on September 22, 2022 and Judge Lee issued this ruling: "the Court GRANTS the Application for an Alternative Writ of Mandate. It is ordered that an Alternative Writ of Mandate issue commanding Respondents to review local conditions to determine whether there remains the need for continuing the local health emergency and/or local emergency as required by Health & Safety Code section 101080 and Government Code section 8630(c), and to proclaim the termination of the local health emergency and/or local emergency should conditions warrant as required by Health & Safety Code section 101080 and Government Code section 8630(d), or in the alternative, to show cause why Respondents have not done so on the date and time set forth below. The Order to Show Cause is set for 12/1/2022 at 1:30 p.m. No later than 5 court days before that hearing, Petitioners and Respondents may file a status report, not to exceed five pages, detailing whether the Code mandated review hearings have occurred, the outcome of such hearings, and when the next hearings are scheduled, if any."

* Prior to the hearing for "Order to Show Cause" on December 1, 2022, the case was removed from Judge Lee and transferred to Judge Nathan Vu. Judge Vu booted the case to a third judge: Derek Hunt.

* At the hearing to show cause on December 1, 2022, Judge Derek Hunt said he had just gotten the case "that morning" and was not prepared to have the county show if it had been following Judge Lee's orders. Hunt said he was retiring, and would set a new hearing for January 20, 2023 so he (or someone else) would have time to read the case. He also said that he normally stopped reading after a few paragraphs or when he "got bored." He also said he would prefer to have been on a tropical beach instead of in the courtroom.

* The case was then reassigned to Judge #4, Judge Thomas McConville. Even though he received the case PRIOR to January 20th, he informed my attorneys that he did not have enough time to review the case so he continued the case to January 30, 2023 (10 extra days).

* Yesterday was the 30th and I attended the hearing, but there were several cases on the docket that were being reviewed prior to our case. When my case was called, Judge McConville stated once more that he DID NOT HAVE TIME TO REVIEW THE CASE and was unable to receive information from opposing counsel or read about Judge Lee's previous order to show cause. He slipped up and said he was "acting on behalf of the county" and then set the case to be heard on February 27, 2023 conveniently the same day Newsom plans (and has published his plans) to terminate the eternal covid state of emergency in California. But guess what? It DOESN'T matter. There is a simple question in front of the court: Does the legislative body have to

Suspicious Timing: Pelosi Sold $3 Million of Google Stock Weeks Before Justice Department Launched Antitrust Probe

By Steve Straub
TheFederalistPapers.org

Former House Speaker and Rep. Nancy Pelosi and her husband Paul Pelosi conveniently sold around $3 million in shares of Google just before the Biden DOJ under Merrick Garland launched an antitrust investigation into the company.

Via Chuck Ross at the Washington Free Beacon: "Paul Pelosi sold 30,000 shares of Google from Dec. 20 to Dec. 28, according to a financial disclosure filing the former House speaker submitted to the House Ethics Committee. The Pelosis made an undisclosed profit from the investments, according to the filing.

The trade proved timely. On Monday, the Justice Department and attorneys general from eight states, including California sued Google over its monopoly on the digital ad market. The lawsuit could force Google to break up its online ad business, which generated nearly $55 billion in revenue for the company in the most recent quarter. Google's stock has dropped around 6 percent since the Justice Department announced the lawsuit.

The trades are the latest in a string of questionable transactions for Paul and Nancy. They saved roughly $600,000 in June by selling shares of microchip maker Nvidia weeks before the U.S. government placed restrictions on the company's business in China and Russia. The Pelosis have seen their fortune grow $140 million since 2008, thanks largely to Paul Pelosi's stock trades, according to a Washington Free Beacon analysis."

This is pretty suspicious and reeks of corruption and inside knowledge. In the private sector trading on inside knowledge is illegal but for high ranking members of Congress it appears to be par for the course.

Pelosi and her pals' seemingly corrupt stock market trades have sparked calls for stricter regulations on members of Congress to prevent them from cashing in on their positions of power and inside knowledge of future regulations, investigations and federal grants or investments. In fact Missouri Senator Josh Hawley just introduced the aptly named PELOSI act to regulate stock trading by members of both the House and Senate. As Pelosi and other members of Congress are rightfully criticized and questioned about their seemingly flawless ability to execute successful stock trades, Hawley recently revived an effort to enact strict controls over the investments made by members of Congress.

While he didn't mention Pelosi specifically, it's clear by the name of his cleverly worded proposal, the "Preventing Elected Leaders from Owning Securities and Investments (PELOSI) Act," that the former Democratic speaker inspired it. Hawley announced the new bill on Tuesday morning via Twitter and took a not-so-subtle shot at Paul Pelosi, the former speaker's husband, over his whirlwind of profitable stock and options trades while his wife served as a top congressional leader. "Members of Congress and their spouses shouldn't be using their position to get rich on the stock market – today I'm introducing legislation to BAN stock trading & ownership by members of Congress. I call it the PELOSI Act," Hawley wrote.

"For too long, politicians in Washington have taken advantage of the economic system they write the rules for, turning profits for themselves at the expense of the American people," a statement from Hawley read. "As members of Congress, both Senators and Representatives are tasked with providing oversight of the same companies they invest in, yet they continually buy and sell stocks, outperforming the market time and again." "While Wall Street and Big Tech work hand-in-hand with elected officials to enrich each other, hard working Americans pay the price. The solution is clear: we must immediately and permanently ban all members of Congress from trading stocks," the statement added.

While this is a great piece of legislation and sorely needed I remain skeptical that a majority of the House and Senate will vote to eliminate any privilege that puts money directly into their own pockets.

SCOTUS decision on Brunson v Alma Adams

SCOTUS passed the buck but there is light at the end of the proverbial tunnel.

This is an excerpt of an interview of Raland Brunson on a Mad as Hell University's Rumble channel.

"Here's the part where I don't want to sound too dramatic. But we made a pact, me and my two brothers, Lloyd and Darren. In the very, very beginning, we knew that this could be dangerous and we know how people end up. So we made a pact that we would be willing to lose our lives if necessary to take this to the end, and we were serious about that.

We want to be America loving Patriots and I really do believe that we all want to be, we just don't know what to do. You know what the worst feeling in the world is? Feeling helpless. That's the worst thing and you know what, there's a word that we all absolutely love more than any word that exists? It's actually more powerful than the word love. I'm not kidding. I've got the word. The word is solution. You've got a solution, you're not going to be unhappy in this life. You've got a solution, you're not going to be stressed out. Stress comes from the lack of a solution. Unhappiness, lack of solution. Helpless, lack of solution. I'm telling you this, this nation right now filled with the majority of conservatives who care about this country are feeling helpless. You know what that's like, don't ya?

So we're sitting here going, you've got to be kidding. Come on. There's got to be something we can do about this. And then we figured out that the lower court has unbelievable power. The freedom of this country depends on the courts and depends on the judges, not the president.

Federal Courts have blocked executive orders all the time and they still continue to do that. You be too cumbersome for them to deal with all these lawsuits. Well, that's what the US Attorneys are paid to deal with, stuff like that. They're paid by the hour, okay, they're on salary. Wouldn't that be great if Congress knew that if they made a vote that went against the Constitution that some granny, granny Betty or aunt Betty out there in Florida somewhere, walks up, files a complaint against that person, removes them from office! That would be quite the government wouldn't it?"

Big update from the Brunson Brothers. The SCOTUS has accepted the Petition 22-380 for REHEARING filed to the Court on JAN 23rd! Today, FEB 1st is NATIONAL FREEDOM DAY! The Court informed the Brunson Brothers today that the date for Conference HAS BEEN set for FEBRUARY 17th!! I think God is with us and Pray for America."

Juan O Savin is suggesting that we all send $1.00+ to cover costs. The Brothers have spent in excess of 2M and have received about $70,000 from Patriots that have taken the time and sent a letter to both addresses. You can find the instructions at BrunsonBrothers.com/scotus-petition/ or fill out the electronic form and donate $2+ to cover mailing costs and the Brothers will mail it to SCOTUS.

love. During the Middle Ages, it was commonly believed in France and England that February 14 was the beginning of birds' mating season, which added to the idea that the middle of Valentine's Day should be a day for romance. The English poet Geoffrey Chaucer was the first to record St. Valentine's Day as a day of romantic celebration in his 1375 poem "Parliament of Fowles," writing, "For this was sent on Seynt Valentyne's day / Whan every foul cometh ther to choose his mate."

Valentine greetings were popular as far back as the Middle Ages, though written Valentine's didn't begin to appear until after 1400. The oldest known valentine still in existence today was a poem written in 1415 by Charles, Duke of Orleans, to his wife while he was imprisoned in the Tower of London following his capture at the Battle of Agincourt. (The greeting is now part of the manuscript collection of the British Library in London, England.) Several years later, it is believed that King Henry V hired a writer named John Lydgate to compose a valentine note to Catherine of Valois.

Who Is Cupid?

Cupid is often portrayed on Valentine's Day cards as a naked cherub launching arrows of love at unsuspecting lovers. But the Roman God Cupid has his roots in Greek mythology as the Greek god of love, Eros. Accounts of his birth vary; some say he is the son of Nyx and Erebus; others, of Aphrodite and Ares; still others suggest he is the son of Iris and Zephyrus or even Aphrodite and Zeus (who would have been both his father and grandfather).

According to the Greek Archaic poets, Eros was a handsome immortal who played with the emotions of Gods and men, using golden arrows to incite love and leaden ones to sow aversion. It wasn't until the Hellenistic period that he began to be portrayed as the mischievous, chubby child he'd become on Valentine's Day cards.

Typical Valentine's Day Greetings and Gifts. In addition to the United States, Valentine's Day is celebrated in Canada, Mexico, the United Kingdom, France and Australia. In Great Britain, Valentine's Day began to be popularly celebrated around the 17th century.

By the middle of the 18th, it was common for friends and lovers of all social classes to exchange small tokens of affection or handwritten notes, and by 1900 printed cards began to replace written letters due to improvements in printing technology. Ready-made cards were an easy way for people to express their emotions in a time when direct expression of one's feelings was discouraged. Cheaper postage rates also contributed to an increase in the popularity of sending Valentine's Day greetings.

Americans probably began exchanging handmade valentines in the early 1700s. In the 1840s, Esther A. Howland began selling the first mass-produced valentines in America. Howland, known as the "Mother of the Valentine," made elaborate creations with real lace, ribbons and colorful pictures known as "scrap." Today, according to the Greeting Card Association, an estimated 145 million Valentine's Day cards are sent each year, making Valentine's Day the second largest card-sending holiday of the year (more cards are sent at Christmas).

[Happy Valentine's Day!]

The Great Cholesterol Myth

By: Dr. David Jockers
DrJockers.com

There are many common & accepted understandings within modern culture that have no true scientific basis, but have just merely been accepted as fact. One of the major issues has to do with the pathogenesis of various common diseases including heart disease and cancer. This article will go into the cholesterol myth and how exactly it came to be.

Cholesterol has been vilified as the major cause of heart disease. The claim that it clogs our arteries is known world-wide, despite no scientific evidence to validate the idea. As a society, we need to retrain our doctors and clinicians to look at this "cholesterol theory" with a skeptical eye.

The Birth of Heart Disease and The Cholesterol Myth

Heart disease was considered a very rare disease in the early 20th century. However, as food processing began to take off so did the occurrence of heart disease. By the 1950's, it was considered a major health threat. Over the last 50 years, a whole arsenal of drugs and surgeries has been developed to address this increasingly growing disorder. Today, despite trillions of dollars of research and the best medical equipment available, the American Heart Association said in 2012 that Americans have a 48% chance of getting this deadly disease.

The Lipid Hypothesis and The Cholesterol Myth:

Developed by Ancel Keys in the 1950's, this theory states that there is a direct relationship between the amount of saturated fat and cholesterol in the diet and the incidence of coronary heart disease. With questionable evidence, Keys' went about writing articles and promoting this hypothesis throughout the medical world. Meanwhile, hundreds of subsequent studies testing this hypothesis have found differing conclusions. Despite the lack of evidence, this notion took off throughout the healthcare world and was fueled by the vegetable oil and food processing industries that sought to benefit from this finding. This is the foundation for the cholesterol myth that many believe today.

The New Science of Heart Disease: Close to 90% of all well-planned, properly documented studies investigating the lipid hypothesis do not support the claim that "artery-clogging" saturated fats and dietary cholesterol cause heart disease.

In a 1994 study in the British medical journal Lancet, London researchers analyzed the fat they found in clogged arteries. It turns out only 26% of it was saturated animal fat. The other 74% was unsaturated. That's the same type of fat you find in "heart healthy" canola oil.

So the majority of the fat within a clogged artery is not saturated fat and cholesterol. Additionally, calcium is a major player in arterial plaque and yet very rarely is this discussed.

The Benefits of Saturated Fat & Cholesterol

Most doctors are uneducated on this topic and continue to teach the cholesterol myth. But according to Dr. Mary Enig, PhD, an expert in lipid biochemistry, her extensive research on the roles of saturated fat and cholesterol in our bodies and the intake of these compounds in our diet:

1. Cell Membrane Health:

Saturated fatty acids and cholesterol constitute at least 50% of the cell membranes. They are what gives our cells necessary stiffness and integrity.

2. Bone Health: They play a vital role in the health of our bones. For calcium to be effectively incorporated into the skeletal structure, at least 50% of the dietary fats should be saturated. Cholesterol is the precursor to vitamin D & major hormones that regulate stress, energy & sex hormones (estrogen, progesterone, DHEA, testosterone, etc) function.

3. Lower Lp (a)

They lower Lp(a), a substance in the blood that indicates proneness to heart disease. They protect the liver from alcohol and other toxins, such as Tylenol.

4. Enhance Immunity:

They enhance the immune system and act as an antidepressant by enhancing serotonin receptor function. Low cholesterol is highly associated with violent & aggressive behavior, depression, & suicidal tendencies

5. Proper Use of Essential Fats:

They are needed for the proper utilization of essential fatty acids. Elongated omega 3 fatty acids are better retained in the tissues when the diet is rich in saturated fats.

6. Fuel For the Heart:

Saturated 18-carbon stearic acid and 16-carbon palmitic acid are the preferred foods for the heart, which is why the fat around the heart muscle is highly saturated. The heart draws on this reserve of fat in times of stress.

7. Anti-Microbial Properties:

Short- and medium-chain saturated fatty acids have important antimicrobial properties. They protect us against harmful microorganisms in the digestive tract. Cholesterol plays a vital role in the repair and maintenance of the intestinal wall, preventing leaky gut syndrome, ulcerative colitis, and a host of other intestinal disorders.

8. Antioxidant Protection:

Cholesterol is now understood to be a vital antioxidant that protects us from free radical damage and helps to heal any arterial damage that may have occurred. Higher levels of free radical damage from oxidative stress = higher levels of circulating cholesterol.

9. Bile Production: Cholesterol produces bile salts that help us metabolize fats in our diet.

10. Brain and Nervous System

Development: Cholesterol is extraordinarily important for babies & children as they develop their brain and nervous system. Over half of the brain is composed of saturated fats and cholesterol. Interestingly, one of the richest sources of cholesterol is mother's milk, which also contains a special enzyme that helps the baby metabolize and use this nutrient.

Get the Real Story:

The cholesterol myth continues to confuse and mislead both doctors and the lay public today. But the truth is that cholesterol is one of the most powerful healing foods and molecules your body can ingest and produce. The problem lies in the oxidation of cholesterol from high levels of free radicals and high firing inflammatory pathways. The key to preventing and reversing heart disease is to put out the inflammatory fires.

If you want to know more about what to look for, such as LDL Pattern A and Pattern B and what form of LDL is a problem [go to DrJockers.com.] Heart disease is the #1 killer throughout the world and our current medical system is treating this condition COMPLETELY WRONG! Most cardiologists are using an outdated model for heart disease and this is why they aren't getting results.

The Money Matrix: Part 7 Medicine 1930-1960 (Foundations Use Police Power of State)

By: Sue Peters
InfoStation.net

Introduction

When a commercial bank makes a loan contract with a borrower, the bank CREATES the deposit in the "borrower's account." Have you repeated this fact 15,000 times yet? Private banks CREATE what we use as money. This 'money power' can also be called Finance Capitalism or Wall Street, or just the Banks. Those who control this 'money power,' have powerfully influenced our entire society. This article will focus specifically on the control of the medical profession.

This control of the banks by wealthy elites goes back to the end of the 19th century, when financial-industrial cartels, run by names like J.P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, etc., used the 'money power' to take over the American economy. These financiers created tax-exempt foundations to shield their wealth from taxes but, more importantly, to allow it to grow and grow.

What We Learned in Part 6 of Money Matrix Series

Wealthy capitalists funded the germ theory of disease and "scientific" medicine. They did not want to bring attention to the unhealthy effects of their huge industrial systems. The teaching of "scientific" medicine required more money that the local wealthy could give: lab buildings, teaching hospitals and clinics, equipment, full-time lab teachers and researchers, clinical faculty. Therefore, the tax-exempt foundations, Carnegie and Rockefeller stepped in. From 1910-1930s the foundations gave an unprecedented $300 million for medical education/research.

Financial Capitalism: The Best of All Business is a Legal State Monopoly

The robber barons wanted to keep their wealth, power, and control. They knew their best protection was to "get state protection for your industry through compliant politicians and government regulation... a legal monopoly always leads to wealth." In other words, make the many work for the few – "the best of all business is politics".

"In modern America the most significant illustration of society as a whole working for the few is the 1913 Federal Reserve Act. The Federal Reserve System is, in effect, a private banking monopoly... with legal monopoly control over money supply..." "This robber baron schema is also, under different labels, the socialist plan. The difference between a corporate state monopoly and a socialist state monopoly is essentially only the identity of the group controlling the power structure. ... Success for the Rockefeller gambit has depended particularly upon focusing public attention upon largely irrelevant and superficial historical creations, such as the myth of a struggle between capitalists and communists, and careful cultivation of political forces by big business."

The Great Depression and World War II: the Principle of Federal Economic Intervention Firmly

Established

Up to World War II, the tax-exempt foundations were the leading force in medical center, technological medicine. "By 1940 the Rockefeller philanthropies alone had contributed more than $161 million to medical education and medical research." After the war, the federal spigots opened.

The Great Depression and the New Deal are huge subjects, but the following observations support the political power of powerful 'philanthropic' foundations and corporations during this period. "... the swashbuckling administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, with all its war cries against 'the money-changers in the temple,' "did nothing to change the control of the money system, the private Federal Reserve. He had an opportunity to return the power to create money to the U.S. Treasury and did not use it. "Roosevelt, addicted as he is to verbal castigation of the wealthy, was supported in 1932 and again in 1936 by some of the richest families of the country."

As to World War II, this writer refers the reader to Edwin Black's incredibly researched IBM AND THE HOLOCAUST: The Strategic Alliance Between Nazi Germany and America's Most Powerful Corporation: "It tells the story of IBM's conscious involvement – directly and through its subsidiaries – in the Holocaust, as well as its involvement in the Nazi war machine that murdered millions of others throughout Europe." In other words, the wealthy and corporate class continued to maintain control of the government and the direction of the medical system.

After World War II: Federal Government Opens Its Spigots to the Medical Cartel

"Like the foundations and individual capitalists earlier in the century, federal health research has focused on the narrowly technical components of disease and death rather than on the broader economic and physical environments so central to the population's health status." The 1946 Hill-Burton Act began the entrance of the federal government as a principal funder in the nation's health care system, providing for hospital construction and modernization. In the 1950's Congress approved construction grants and traineeships for medical schools. The Rockefeller Foundation had begun the grant model of research support. After 1945, the federal government became the major funder of research grants. "Grants given in 1953 by the Rockefeller medical and natural sciences divisions amounted to around $9.2 million; that year, the NIH gave more than $22 million to extramural medical research. By 1959, the NIH figure reached $156 million." In 1965, Congress passed Medicare and Medicaid. Between 1965 and 1974, hospital expenditures tripled. "Medical technology is estimated to account for half the increase in costs of hospital care..." This focus on medical technology has more and more replaced personal caring and emotional support in the doctor-patient relationships.

Conclusion

In 1967, one-half of 1% (0.5) of the corporate class owned one-fifth of all the nation's wealth, including half the net worth of all bonds and corporate stock. In 1976, the top eight foundations (which included Rockefeller) "held an average of $948 million in assets while three-fourths held less than $5 million each...." Corporate socialism was indeed alive and well in the country. Huge concentrations of power could be found in the financial capitalists, the ones who controlled the Wall Street banks.

follow the law that tells them what to do during an emergency. DURING AN EMERGENCY?? This is the crux of the matter, and it will be settled.

For now, I hold no grudge, anger or vengeance related to the county attorneys. After all, they are "just doing their job" (each earning approximately $250,000+ annual salary). In fact, I pity them and I pray for them. I forgive them for their ignorance, their incompetence – and even for their intentional deception. Because in the end, God will settle the score. For now, I focus on a vivid vision I had the morning of the hearing: In this vision, each of the county attorneys, all the revolving judges on the case, each member of the board of supervisors, and even health officer Clayton Chau all apologized to me. They thanked me for fighting for THEIR freedom and that of their children and grandchildren. They admired my astute understanding of the law and how I conducted myself throughout all the legal proceedings. They commended me for my perseverance and dedication to the truth. Each one of them told me how grateful they were for the impact I had on hundreds of thousands of people who were able to save their jobs, their businesses and their lives because of my education, encouragement and empowerment. They admitted that they were wrong, and that I was right. They vowed to focus on truth and justice and to turn from evil.

This vision brought me immense peace and confidence. This vision is what I am focused on, and whether or not I hear these individuals say these words out loud, I know that in their heart, mind and soul, that is the truth that will be revealed, if God has not hardened their hearts.

In my "Prayer for Activists", I ask that "no soul be lost to God's love." Because when people turn from what is good, right, and true, and they choose to separate themselves from God and instead serve evil, there is no worse fate than that. Remember, I am marching this all the way to Heaven! For those who can support my work financially, I am eternally grateful.

When Saudi Arabia comes to town & buys all your water!

By Nick Cleveland-Stout
ResponsibleStateCraft.org

Oil is not the only issue: the Kingdom is getting Arizona resources for a steal, and it's leaving citizens with little to nothing.

Over the past several years, Saudi Arabia has added eight new wells, increasing production to new heights and even leading to accusations of over-pumping. No, not at the Ghawar oil field, but in the groundwater of rural Arizona. Since 2014, the Saudi company Fondomonte has been pumping unlimited amounts of groundwater in the desert west of Phoenix to harvest thousands of acres of alfalfa crops. The alfalfa is then shipped back to Saudi Arabia to feed their cattle.

A recent investigation from Arizona Central has revealed that Fondomonte, a subsidiary of Riyadh-based Almarai, has the bargain of a lifetime: for only $25 per acre annually, it can pump as much water as it wants. Nearby farmers pay six times more than the Saudi company.

This modern day watergate has become a campaign issue ahead of the contentious midterms but candidates across the ballot appear to agree that this is bad. Democratic candidate Katie Hobbs tweeted that "Our water should be for Arizonans, not for sweetheart deals to foreign corporations to grow crops to then send back to their country." Republican candidate Kari Lake has even gone a step further, calling to terminate the Fondomonte lease and "examine all existing leases to ensure Arizona's water and natural resources primarily benefit Arizonans, not overseas corporations."

Other companies are taking advantage of this fire sale on precious water resources in rural Arizona too, including alfalfa farms affiliated with the UAE and plenty of domestic companies. But Fondomonte is among the largest and most controversial — because it is actually depleting the groundwater of the Butler Valley, a valuable transfer basin that is seen as a potential water supply for Phoenix.

Fondomonte's Butler Valley property is part of a larger strategy of buying up land across the Southwest for alfalfa production. The Saudi company owns thousands of acres across Arizona and has expanded operations in Eastern California.

The Arizona State Land Department, which leased the land to Fondomonte, refuses to disclose how much water Fondomonte is pumping, or whether the state would consider charging more for agricultural leases. According to one estimate, the company could be pumping as much as 18,000 acre-feet per year — enough to supply 54,000 single-family homes — raising concerns that the groundwater will disappear faster than it can be replenished. Alfalfa is one of the most water-intensive crops there is, and the current breakneck pace of production is threatening to stop the flow of the Colorado River entirely.

To Arizonans, the one-sided deal with the Saudi company has become a hot-button issue, particularly since Saudi Arabia dictates global oil prices. "We're not getting oil for free, so why are we giving our water away for free?" asked La Paz County Board of Supervisors Chairman Holly Irwin, who represents Butler Valley. "Saudi Arabia has stated their intention to rob Arizonans at the gas pump, but they are already stealing our water," said

Rep. Ruben Gallego (D-Ariz.).

Ironically, lawmakers should look to none other than Saudi Arabia to learn from their mistakes. Saudi Arabia has almost completely exhausted its own groundwater through unrestricted pumping. A 2004 investigation found that the kingdom's water sources were nearly depleted because "wealthy farmers had been allowed to drain the aquifers unchecked for three decades." As the wells dried up, Saudi Arabia has been forced to take conservation much more seriously, even outlawing the production of alfalfa in 2016. Today, around 50 percent of water consumed in Saudi Arabia comes from desalination plants, a costly, high-energy process.

Having depleted their own water resources back home, Saudi Arabia knows the dangerous consequences of unsustainable agricultural practices. Why should they — or any other company for that matter — be allowed to do the same in the American Southwest?

Buckeye Approves Spending $80 Million for Water Rights

By: Audrey Jensen
www.bizjournals.com

The sale is the latest step the city of Buckeye, which has experienced substantial growth in the past two decades, is taking to build up its water supply over time. The city of Buckeye approved purchasing $80 million worth of groundwater rights to support the growth of its water portfolio.

In a special session on Tuesday, Buckeye approved an agreement for the purchase and sale of a one-acre property owned by Harquahala Valley Landowners LLC in the far West Valley for its water rights. These rights will allow Buckeye to withdraw 5,926 acre-feet of groundwater annually for 100 years. This is the equivalent to the annual water use of nearly 17,800 homes in Arizona. On average, three Arizona households use about one acre-foot of water per year. "The approval of this purchase agreement was more than a year in the making," said Buckeye Mayor Eric Orsborn in a statement. "This is a major step toward ensuring our current and future residents enjoy a great quality of life. The Council and I appreciate every effort water resources staff has accomplished so far, knowing there are other opportunities on the horizon."

A city report said Buckeye will use proceeds from the sale of $80 million excise tax bonds to pay for the rights, which will be repaid through the city's general fund. The city said in a statement that the new supply of water is one of many sources identified in Buckeye's water resources master plan that was approved in 2020 and is expected to be updated later this year. "This purchase agreement took several months to complete, and Buckeye continues to actively work on securing other solutions to enhance its portfolio," the city's statement said.

Other municipalities have also purchased water rights from this area, including the town of Queen Creek. Last year, Queen Creek signed a contract to purchase 5,000 acre-feet of Harquahala water for its supply, the Queen Creek Tribune reported. News of the purchase, which will take up to 180 days to complete, comes as Buckeye and other West Valley cities work to build their water supplies for future growth and development. The sale was also approved on the heels of a groundwater analysis of the far West Valley that was released in January.

The report found that there's not enough groundwater to support development over a 100-year period in areas west of the White Tank Mountains and in the northwest Valley, where developers have made plans for new master-planned communities and commercial centers. This could delay plans for thousands of homes needed as the region experiences a significant undersupply of units.

As of 2021, the city of Buckeye's water demand was 10,316 acre-feet, the city said in a recent statement, adding that Buckeye has adequate water resources to sustain projected growth for the next 15 to 20 years. Buckeye relies mostly on groundwater and said it is aware of the need for additional resources.

In 2021, the city also approved acquiring 2,786 acre-feet annually of Non-Indian Agricultural Colorado River water. Delivery of this water started in 2022. New developments such as neighborhoods that are subdivided by six lots or more are required to obtain a certificate of assured water supply with an exception to built-to-rent communities.

Hillary Clinton Secures A New Position

By: Annytama Bhomik
www.oann.com

Hillary Rodham Clinton has bagged a new job at Columbia University.

University President Lee Bollinger announced that the former Secretary of State, who backed former President Barack Obama from 2009 to 2013 will hold two appointments at the University. She will join as a Global Affairs Professor of Practice at the School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) and Presidential Fellow at Columbia World Projects (CWP). It is assumed that Clinton will officially hold the position on February 1st.

Welcome Secretary Hillary Clinton to our community! The former secretary of state, U.S. senator, and First Lady will become a faculty member at Columbia SIPA and Columbia World Projects on February 1. Read the announcement from Dean Keren Yarhi Milo: "Given her extraordinary talents and capacities together with her singular life experiences, Hillary Clinton is unique, and, most importantly, exceptional in what she can bring to the University's missions of research and teaching, along with public service and engagement for the public good," Bollinger said.

Clinton will reportedly work alongside the SIPA Dean, Keren Yarhi-

Milo, and other senior faculty members on a "variety of major initiatives." According to a press release from the University, the Democrat will focus on global policy and politics in efforts to "renew democracy and foster effective engagements in women and youth." Clinton had worked with Columbia in the past. In 2022, Columbia University conferred an Honorary Doctors of Law degree to Clinton. Clinton has said that she is honored to be joining the prestigious university. "Columbia's commitment to educating the next generation of US and global policy leaders, translating insights into impact, and helping to address some of the world's most pressing challenges resonates personally with me. I look forward to contributing to these efforts. Thrilled to join this community." Clinton said.

Treating the symptoms of disease is one of the greatest money-making business concepts of all times. Why? Because, as long as you keep treating your symptoms, whether with drugs or herbs and vitamins, rather than learning how to correct the causes behind the development of those symptoms, you will remain a lifelong customer for the providers of your treatments: being milked like a milk cow until the underlying condition that your body is trying to warn you about flares up and kills you.

Symptoms are a warning sign that something isn't right, and that if you don't pay attention to the warning and correct the reasons for the warning, something much worse is guaranteed to develop. Treating symptoms is like breaking the warning lights out in your dashboard. Sure, the little red light might be bothering you, and by breaking the light you will remain more comfortable, until your engine breaks down, because you failed to heed the warning.

In an enlightened future there will be very few doctors; both medical and natural. The reason for this is because the real doctor of the future will be a grade-school teacher. When young children are taught at an early age to not be self-destructive, and are taught the principles of health, there will no longer be a reason for disease. This will be so much better than the lie we were given: that we could be our self-destructive selves, and when we get sick, a "professional" will "fix" us.

As you can now realize, what really counts is the quality of health, and when we destroy the quality of our health, it is impossible to poison the body to restore this quality. It is equally impossible to temporarily relieve the symptoms that result from destroying the quality of health and hope that body integrity will somehow be restored. Neither attempted solution has ever worked and never will.

When a person realizes they have destroyed their quality of health, the first thing that must be done is: it must be acknowledged that the body didn't break itself. It was our self-destructive lifestyle habits that did this. Second, we must take responsibility for restoring the lost quality of our health. And most importantly, we must learn the steps necessary for this restoration, then apply those steps.

DR. MICK HALL'S 35 FOR LIFE

Through Knowledge, Understanding, Wisdom and Personal Responsibility.

An Understanding of What is Really Going on Inside Your Body

Although Dr. Mick Hall is a Naturopathic Doctor, his function is that of a teacher, utilizing his fifty years of research to help you to understand all levels of cause for why your body would develop disease, presently or in the future. Life teaches us thoroughly that when we have a problem, if we fail to discover the true cause and correct it, the problem will either remain or reoccur. Dr. Hall uses the same logic to assist you in understanding all the reasons your body is developing the patterns that will eventually develop into degenerative disease. With this understanding, derived from two simple finger prick blood tests, you will also be provided with a simplified explanation for how to make these corrections that will restore your body's self-healing ability, and thereby avoid the development of disease.

Dr. Hall's one-hour educational session costs $150 and assures you of receiving an understanding beyond anything you have ever experienced before.

We're in Suite 315 of the English Village in Lake Havasu City. To book an appointment, phone (714) 788-4819.

Body Chemistry Support booklet clearly lays out the specific 13 steps every body needs for us to follow to support them in restoring their ability to heal themselves. Until we actually do this work, we have no right or reason to expect to avoid the natural punishment for the damage we have inflicted onto our bodies, whether knowingly or unknowingly.

If you don't have a copy of the Body Chemistry Support Booklet, the next time you are in Havasu come by and get a copy or in Quartzsite in the office of Leesa Bolden, LAc.

From my observations, I need to warn you that we, as humans, have a brain that closely resembles a rebellious five-year-old child who hates change. Since the condition of our bodies is mostly the natural result of our lifetime habits, and since this rebellious five-year-old hates change, we need to begin with maybe only three of the 13 steps. Then, every month, add one more step, until we are following all 13 steps.

Following these 13 steps is much easier, cheaper, and less time consuming than the alternatives. Ask anyone in an Elderly Care facility how much effort it takes to be patient while sitting there with a full diaper waiting for a stranger to come and clean them up. I guess it isn't too difficult though, since every person is drugged out of their mind making them passive enough to never cause any trouble. Remember, not one of these people planned on this as the sunset years of their lives. It is simply the natural result of not planning or creating something better: like creating a quality of health that would have allowed them to enjoy a high quality of health and total independence right to the end of their life.

For anyone in the Lake Havasu area, please join our weekly support your health classes every Thursday at 6:00pm in the Sunset Room of the London Bridge Resort.

Are you a slave?

By: Leo Hughes

Are you woke, awake or somewhere in between? What does that even mean? Language has been changing so much lately and diction is a lost art. Unfortunately, this is all by design, planned and instituted for a purpose by our education system.

Do you trust your government? Do you believe that "We the people" are being represented by our government? Do you believe the mainstream media news outlets are telling you the truth? Have you had the feeling that something just isn't right?

If these questions spark any interest in you then you may be (like me) labeled as a conspiracy theorist. If you don't fall in line with the "woke" leftist agenda you're now labeled a domestic terrorist. Many people just don't want to make waves, go with the flow and don't rock the boat. There is a reason why there is a stairway to heaven and a highway to hell. We are in the midst of a battle between good and evil and it's more obvious now than ever before.

If you read this paper then you're probably a conservative. You want the golden rule of treating people how you want to be treated. Great! Then you are like me and most Americans! We were brought up believing that we are a free people granted by the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, right? WRONG! Those are the documents that enslaved us all! I know, hard to believe right? Well, let me prove it to you.

I'll have to get Biblical for a minute. Let it be known that I am not religious, in fact I'm an anti-organized religion. Religion has been corrupted by man to achieve a narrative, SURPRISE! If you like your church and your church does good things, by all means, enjoy it. I'm not here to start a religious revolution. In fact, our founding documents like the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence were based on the freedoms granted by God and for us to not be repressed by the government. Genesis 1, verses 26 to 31 God gives us dominion over the Land, Air and Water - LAW - I have paraphrased for this article's length. Basically, our freedom comes from God. The government is the real conspiracy theorist here (a term initiated by the CIA).

Our founding documents were trust documents, a contract if you will, for the British crown to supply governmental services to our new country.

The Constitution and Declaration of Independence are service provider contracts (much like your cell phone provider) to provide 19 essential governmental services and no more! We're now into the hundreds of thousands of services we the people didn't ask for or vote on. We were taught the civil war was about abolishing slavery, a war between the north and south. WRONG AGAIN! Yes, the 13th amendment freed the black slaves and the 14th amendment made us ALL slaves/citizens! Don't believe me? Diction is important. What does the word citizen mean? Servant to a city, government or political community that has rights and responsibilities to that entity. The truth is we've all been enslaved since the late 1800's and we haven't realized it. Why do you think the southern border is open and welcoming immigrants to pass through to grant them citizenship? Because the government will make billions once they create their "CITIZENSHIP"!

All this doom and gloom, where's the shining light? There is a path to freedom, real freedom. Freedom from property taxes, income taxes and governmental slavery. It's called State National Status. You were born as a state national and then given away to slavery by your birth certificate and later your Socialist security card, your college degree, court cases, mortgage, etc. There wasn't anyone there to explain the terms and conditions to me when my kids were born or to my parents when I was born. It's what we all did, ignorant of the facts of what we were signing away.

State National status is different from sovereign citizenship (an oxymoron) in case you've heard about that. State National status reclaims your birthright, name and freedom from the corporate UNITED STATES INC. Ever wonder why your name is written in all caps on government documents? Look at your drivers license. Any other documents you receive from the government, credit cards, property tax statements. Look at your birth certificate, especially where your mother signed as an informant.

I bet you have as many questions as I did several weeks ago when I found out about this. Even IF we had a violent revolution, we would still have to establish an American government of the people, for the people. That is what becoming a State National is all about and populating our state assemblies, county by county, city by city. THIS is OUR founding fathers moment. This is why America had a revolution to begin with 250ish years ago. Our current government (subject to the crown and pope) has become something other than we expected. We the people can correct that and have a duty to correct that! Unless you want to become part of the New World Order and own nothing and like it. For me; Give me liberty or give me death! I want my kids and grandkids for generations to come to enjoy the childhood and adult freedoms I thought I had.

100 N. Kofa K4-12th

What, you're Canadian? You can do it too, in fact, people in many countries are doing this and becoming free peoples of the world! Oh, and by the way you're being bought and sold (as a slave) by corporations daily and you're probably worth several million dollars. I would suggest doing some research as it's a mind blowing amount of information to absorb. It's uncomfortable to admit you were lied to by your teachers (they probably didn't know the truth), to unlearn the lies and learn the truth.

Research for video seminars on rumble.com, Youtube, Bitchute. Anna Von Reight, David Straight, Bobby Lawrence, Ann Vandersteel, Dennis Knill, Dr. John Bergman, Michelle Ford to name a few. These videos can be lengthy but your indoctrination took years to establish the brainwashing. Go to tasa.americanstatenationals.org to find your state assembly.

‘Died Suddenly’? More Than 1-in-4 Think Someone They Know Died From COVID-19 Vaccines

By: Editorial Staff at Rasmussen Reports
www.RasmussenReports.com

Nearly half of Americans think COVID-19 vaccines may be to blame for many unexplained deaths, and more than a quarter say someone they know could be among the victims.

The latest Rasmussen Reports national telephone and online survey finds that (49%) of American Adults believe it is likely that side effects of COVID-19 vaccines have caused a significant number of unexplained deaths, including 28% who think it's Very Likely. Thirty-seven percent (37%) don't say a significant number of deaths have been caused by vaccine side effects, including 17% who believe it's Not At All Likely. Another 14% are not sure.

Twenty-eight percent (28%) of adults say they personally know someone whose death they think may have been caused by side effects of COVID-19 vaccines, while 61% don't and another 10% are not sure. The documentary “Died Suddenly” has been criticized as promoting “debunked” anti-vaccine conspiracy theories but has been seen by some 15 million people. Forty-eight percent (48%) of Americans believe there are legitimate reasons to be concerned about the safety of COVID-19 vaccines, while 37% think people who worry about vaccine safety are spreading conspiracy theories. Another 15% are not sure.

The survey of 1,000 American Adults was conducted on December 28-30, 2022 by Rasmussen Reports. The margin of sampling error is +/- 3 percentage points with a 95% level of confidence. Field work for all Rasmussen Reports surveys is conducted by Pulse Opinion Research, LLC. Seventy-one percent (71%) say they have received a COVID-19 vaccination, while 26% have not. Concerns about vaccine safety are much higher among the unvaccinated.

Seventy-seven percent (77%) of adults who have not gotten COVID-19 vaccinations believe it's at least somewhat likely that side effects of COVID-19 vaccines have caused a significant number of unexplained deaths. Among those who have gotten the vaccine, just 38% consider unexplained deaths from the vaccine at least somewhat likely. Similarly, while 45% of those who have not been vaccinated against COVID-19 think someone they know personally might have died from vaccine side effects, only 22% of vaccinated adults think so.

Forty-six percent (46%) of adults who have gotten vaccinated against COVID-19 believe people who worry about vaccine safety are spreading conspiracy theories, but just 15% of the unvaccinated share that belief. Sixty-nine percent (69%) of those who haven't gotten the COVID-19 vaccine think there are legitimate reasons to be concerned about the safety of COVID-19 vaccines, as do 40% of those who have gotten vaccinated against the virus.

More Democrats (85%) than Republicans (63%) or those not affiliated with either major party (64%) have been vaccinated against COVID-19. More Republicans (60%) than Democrats (44%) or the unaffiliated (43%) think there are legitimate reasons to be concerned about the safety of COVID-19 vaccines. However, there is less political difference in the number who suspect someone they know might have died from vaccine side effects – 33% of Democrats and 26% of both Republicans and the unaffiliated.

Forty-six percent (46%) of whites, 48% of blacks and 57% of other minorities believe it is at least somewhat likely that side effects of COVID-19 vaccines have caused a significant number of unexplained deaths. Younger Americans are less likely to be vaccinated against COVID-19, and 35% of adults under 40 believe someone they know personally might have died from vaccine side effects, compared to 28% of those 40-64 and just 14% of Americans 65 and older.

Slightly more men (52%) than women (47%) think it is at least somewhat likely that a significant number of unexplained deaths may have been caused by side effects of COVID-19 vaccines. Married adults are more likely to be vaccinated against COVID-19 than their unmarried peers, but more married (33%) than unmarried (23%) Americans think someone they know personally might have died from vaccine side effects.

Voters with annual incomes below $30,000 are most likely to think there are legitimate reasons to be concerned about the safety of COVID-19 vaccines, while those with incomes above $200,000 are most likely to believe people who worry about vaccine safety are spreading conspiracy theories.

A majority of Americans think COVID-19 vaccines are effective, but have concerns about side effects. Although few Americans think 2022 was one of the best years ever, they rated it better than last year, and they have higher expectations for 2023.

Cancel Culture Moves To Devour the Licensed Professional Class

By: Jefferey Jaxen
JeffereyJaxen.substack.com
TheHighWire.com

Jordan Peterson recently sounded an alarm during his three hour interview with Joe Rogan. A long-time target set to be canceled, Peterson is now being threatened by the Ontario College of Psychologists with the loss of his clinical license to practice psychology.

In Canada, and other countries, the licensed professional classes are now under attack from a newly streamlined form of cancel culture. Cancel culture has been a soft, ugly manifestation of authoritarian censorship over the recent years. It has grown to a sort of cottage industry in an attempt to steer culture and ensure the furthering of preferred agendas and narratives.

Cancel culture is a catch-all term to describe the multitude of methods employed to stifle debate and critical thinking happening outside approved talking points. Debanking, public pressure campaigns, pressuring sponsors to drop talent and cancel contracts and plain old ridicule have been regular places. In addition, a dizzying array of Big Tech censorship methods have been utilized over the years, from warning labels, shadow banning, deboosting, and outright individual account deplatforming to stop certain unsanctioned conversation, ideas and questions.

The Covid-era saw a precision streamlining of Big Tech censorship with nearly every government agency pulling the corporate strings of social media giants like Facebook and Twitter to achieve its ends. Quarterbacked by the Department of Homeland Security, Britain's 77th Brigade's Psychological Operations division, The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the White House itself at 'the highest levels,' the world was greeted to a new technological era of overt speech control giving way to subtle mind control as facts and valid science was memory holed on an industrial level.

The medical cancel culture has existed for years, and possibly decades, before the world ever heard the word 'Covid.' In years past, chemical corporations and pharmaceutical companies used early methods to ridicule those who provided science of their product's harms. Words like 'anti-opioid,' 'anti-fluoriders,' and yes, 'anti-vaxxer,' were unfairly and often successfully used in an attempt to neutralize individuals and their concerns.

A rare look inside Merck corporate culture thanks to discovery documents in a Vioxx lawsuit showed internal Merck emails from 1999 of company executives complaining about doctors who disliked and spoke out against using Vioxx. One email said: We may need to seek them out and destroy them where they live ... reported CBS at the time.

Science and medicine pioneered the cancel culture of its professionals using the pressure points of their license, positions in academia and/or ability to acquire research funding and grants.

Yet over the past year, some form of critical mass appeared weakening the societal grip once enjoyed by the cancel culture and those wielding it. One-by-one, those that were censored for putting forth correct information during the Covid response were vindicated as conspiracy theories gave way to reality again and again. From dismal efficacy and mounting safety issues, the Covid vaccine has been shown to deserve the fact-based warnings of those dismissed and mobbed by cancel culture's medical arm from early on in the pandemic. Same goes for the damages of lockdowns, ineffectiveness and dangers of masking and value of natural immunity – the voices of those presenting the facts and science of such early warnings were targeted and censored.

Elon Musk's Twitter takeover also freed conversation and restraints surrounding open debate on the platform creating a desperately needed outlier to the once class-wide narrative control enjoyed by Big Tech giants. Facebook and YouTube appear to slowly, begrudgingly follow suit by relaxing some of their speech control and allowing some previously censored individuals back on their platforms. As its popularity stalls and the battle to censor the digital town square is being lost, censorship culture is shifting its strategy to focus squarely at licensed professionals to create a chilling effect among the intellectual class. Peterson is currently the highest profile individual facing down the weight of this new attack. For every one speaking up like Peterson, there are undoubtedly countless others being steamrolled, professionally bullied and ground down by the licensing cancel culture.

It was only a few weeks ago that UK cardiologist Dr. Aseem Malhotra appeared on the BBC to issue a warning about myocarditis and excess deaths due to the mRNA Covid shots. The interview, viewed 22.8 million times on Twitter at the time of this writing, was the source of a complaint letter to the UK's General Medical Council (GMC). In a rare win for open debate and scientific discourse, the GMC appears to have declined disciplinary action against Dr. Malhotra: "We recognise that Dr Malhotra has views on the COVID-19 mRNA vaccines that are at odds with the national and international scientific and medical communities. We also recognise that his words are strong and there is a question around the accuracy of his statements. There is currently no evidence that Dr. Malhotra has engaged in the type of Covid conspiracy related conduct that has to date justified regulatory action."

The current window in time to draw attention to this institutional level censorship operation is rare and brief. It is critical that those brave enough to speak up and fight this level of attack be supported and championed not for their individual thought and ideas, but as symbols of our generation's fight against the timeless manifestation of humanity's lower drivers who seek to subjugate the free human.

Brainwashed

By: Tom MacDonald Lyrical Gangster

Half the country fell asleep but they scream woke. We're distracted by vaccines and TV shows, politics, celebrity, gossip, popular neat quotes, black lives, white lives, which lives mean most?

We only dedicate one day to remember our fallen soldiers. The men and women who died young. But, if you come out of the closet as Caitlyn Jenner you're a hero and you get a whole pride month.

The most dangerous pandemic is propaganda from these clowns. Only mask that's gonna save us is duct tape on they mouths. Don't speak, we don't need to defund police. Need to defund the media who lies through they teeth. Like, Big Pharma doesn't cure you, dog 'cause every patient that gets cured is a customer lost. Big oil runs the world, the only wars that get fought are with the countries who have natural resources they want.

Heard 'em claiming if a white man braids his hair and likes rap, he's appropriating culture. But if a white man acts too white he's white trash, he's a racist, he's a bigot, he's a monster!

Let's just have the conversation not every liberal is dumb, not all republicans are racist. The government wants everybody fighting with their neighbors 'cause they know that if we get along, we'll probably go against 'em.

They can't stop us 'cause we're ready to fight. Trying to brainwash us but we won't let freedom die. The whole world's brainwashed. Everybody pick a team, start a riot in the streets. The whole world's brainwashed. It's us against them, it ain't you against me.

How did monkeys become people and people turn into sheep? They put fluoride in the water that's keeping us all asleep. Claim they want what's best for us, I find that hard to believe 'cause they been selling us cigarettes since we was eighteen. Fake news, fake woke, distract, and divide. You're either right or you're left or you're black or you're white. Big tech don't need a microchip to hack in your life 'cause the phone inside your pocket is a tracking device.

Buy this sticker or t-shirt @ The Sticker Trailer @ Main & Central

I don't know what I'm more sick of, rappers or Joe Biden looking like he ate a hundred Xanax for dinner. 'Cause censoring the president and kicking him off Twitter is a bigger threat to freedom than foreign ballistic missiles.

white people that they're favored by their skin and black people getting angry 'cause they're told they're treated different. So the conflict is between us and never with the system.

Let's just have the conversation. Not every liberal is dumb, not all Republicans are racist. The govern-ment wants everybody fighting with their neighbors 'cause they know that if we get along, we'll probably go against 'em.

They can't stop us 'cause we're ready to fight. Trying to brainwash us but we won't let freedom die.

Step two, infiltrate adults with the news!

Step three, indoctrinate the

Step five, separate the white from the black!

Step six, separate the rich from the poor use religion and equality to separate 'em more!

Step seven, fabricate a problem made of lies!

Step eight, put it on the news every night!

Step nine, when people start to fight and divide, take control, this is called situational design!

President Donald Trump & the WEF Jabs

By: Tom Renz @ TomRenz.com

Approximately 3 years ago President Donald Trump, under the guidance of a number of liars and snakes, was misled into implementing Operation Warp-speed. He was told that we needed to pull out all the stops to develop a solution for this new and deadly pandemic that would destroy the world otherwise and so he did exactly what you would expect a leader like Trump to do - he empowered people to find a solution. The problem was that everyone around him was lying, COVID was never what they said it was, and the experimental gene-therapies that were called COVID vaccines were already planned for. Now, 3 years later, these poisonous death jabs have: resulted in more death and chaos than could possibly be imagined, facilitated the "Died Suddenly" phenomenon, and are providing for a permanent global public health emergency (that is not really an emergency at all but rather an expected result).

Before I go further with this article I feel it necessary to provide some context. I was and continue to be a supporter of many or most of Donald Trump's policies. To my mind, given the levels of corruption he faced, I think he may have been one of the most important presidents in history. That said, given Trump's candidacy for president, I do not want to hurt him politically in any way (not that I believe I have the capacity to do so) but I also cannot sacrifice my integrity by doing what the snakes and cowards around him are doing and simply blowing sunshine up his rear for a terrible position and decision. While I still support Donald, my work is based on honesty, integrity, and being willing to say what most won't so I'm going to do that here.

I will be sharing this with people that will help ensure the President sees it. My prayer is that everyone reading this shares it, posts it on social media, and tags the real president so he sees it.

Mr. President,

I could not be more proud than I am to have supported you in 2016, through the lies and attacks that occurred during your presidency, and during the stolen 2020 election cycle. To my mind, you are the true President and much or most of what has occurred since the Whitehouse was stolen from you is a clear demonstration of why your enemies would work so hard to ensure you could no longer lead our nation. The CCP, the WEF, and others have corrupted the Democratic Party, control many of the RINOs that worked to undermine you, and are pushing hard to destroy America as it was founded with the weak and corrupt piece of human excrement they installed in your place. That said, those same people seem to be pushing you in to an untenable position and I do not see any way forward but for you to do what you have always done, come out swinging.

Your recent comments still supporting the "vaccines" are more than a little troubling for your base and many Americans that have woken up across the political spectrum. In light of Damar Hamlin, Died Suddenly, admissions by Pfizer that they never even did a study to confirm the jabs prevent transmission of COVID and that they do not know how they work to improve immune response, various admissions by the CDC, and the obvious problems occurring as a result of these "vaccines", for you to still be advocating for them is beyond concerning.

The evidence of issues is overwhelming at this point and I simply do not see how your continued advocacy for a failed project is helpful. Given your platform, any political consultant with half a brain would have told you that speaking out against these jabs would facilitate you being a hero to millions of Americans and people around the world but that same person would also have told you that you would face the wrath of the WEF, CCP, and big pharma. You are and have always been a warrior so I find myself confused by your timidity in this matter.

It seems that there really are only a few explanations for your approach but ultimately, at the risk of offending a man that I have admired but who likely does not know I exist, I'm going to be blunt. ANY advisor around that is still advocating for you to avoid acknowledging the disaster that these "vaccines" are is either stupid beyond words or corrupt and, in either event, should be fired immediately. You do not need yes-men around you in this war, you need warriors.

I have publicly offered to do this in the past but understand if the message never reached you so I will do it again. If you would allow us an opportunity, I will fund bringing the top doctors and medical researchers in the world to brief you on the truth about these "vaccines" at your convenience and in a place of your choosing. I will share with you the evidence we have that demonstrates how you have been lied to and manipulated. And, most importantly, I will give you the real truth so that you can do what no other person on this planet could do - save hundreds of millions of lives by using your platform to promote truth.

A president has to deal with far more than one issue and so I still support you. It is my intent to use the very limited position I have to open the door for you to do the right thing and, in the process, demonstrate that you really are willing to do what is right over what is easy - again, as you have so many times.

Ultimately Mr. President I ask you this, why not? I am going to share this with people that I absolutely know will put it in front of you. You will be aware of this offer. All we are asking is that you hear us out. There is no threat, I will likely continue to support you either way (I am aware that my support is not that big of a deal to you). That said, I reiterate, why would you refuse an offer to educate yourself about this? If we are right and you do the right thing you save hundreds of millions of lives. If we are wrong you wasted a few hours but demonstrated your willingness to hear out the best and brightest medical minds before continuing to promote a controversial (at best) product.

There is zero downside to this for you and the only follow-up I will ask would be why you would refuse to listen?
